Weekend wash: The new basketball rule calling for a player to raise his hand when he's charged with a foul truly is a dandy, if for no other reason than that it will act as a muszle for many of the more loquacious and loud-voiced customers. They'll see the player hike his hand and will figure he's admitting his foul, so no boo. The rule magistrates didn't make clear what might happen if same player

Be Hopeful, Tacoma

Tacoma Tiger fans might be hoping the fate that befell Modesto in the Cal-State league last season doesn't do an encore with them. Modesto was working hand in hand with San Diego and was doing dandy in the pennant race. Suddenly the Padres recalled a handful of key players and Modesto spun out of the chase. Result; No more San Diego tieup and a sour look on most Modesto faces when the Padres are now mentioned . . . Our own villa had a similar experience year before last when the Beavers speared George Vico and (we'll always think so) kayoed Senator pennant chances . . . Another oldtimer to try it again. This time it's Howie pates summertime recreation by again pitching for the Yaks. Johnson is now in business in the Washington city. So is Hub Kittle. but he swears he has hung 'em up for keeps. Tonight's mainer supplants the Frankie Hart vs. Frank Stojack coast junior heavy title belt squabble, which was postponed until next week because of a mixup in dates by Titlist Stojack.

Hart will appear in tonight's special event, against the always popular and just as capable Joe Lynam. Unlike the main event melee, this one will be an all-scientific wrestling excursion. The 8:36 o'clock opener brings in the brand new "Phantom," a masked hombre who is said to be an out-and-out toughie. Owens intends to

1947 prize list for the May 31 PCL Belting Stirs Speculation

San Diego, April 5 -(AP)- A rash of homeruns - 19 in the opening week of the Pacific league here - caused speculation on the cause today. Some said the league has a livelier ball than last year.

Eight of the round-trippers were hit by San Diego in the seven games and 11 by Los Angeles. Gearge Herrick, sports editor of the San Diego Tribune-Sun, found these leaning to the live-lier ball theory included managers Bill Kelly of Los Angeles and Rio Collins of San Diego. The chamber of commerce, he found, theorized via Collins that the climate is so sunny "the ball keeps dry and is lighter."

Don Stewart, Angels, president, and Bill Starr, San Diego prexy, held the view that batters were just ahead of pitchers in pening games. Players held varying views.

Los Angeles shortstop Bill Schuster, boasting one already, thinks that he is just an proved batsman.
