

Conventions To Attract Coeds

This June will see a number of sorority coeds on the Willamette university campus heading east and south to attend national conventions.

Inside Story

Highlights of Banquets Told, Speaker Forgets Oregon; Cooks Show the Way

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Woman's Editor

Peas seem to be the universal food at banquets, no matter who is the caterer for groups of members of the General Federation of Women's clubs convening in Portland this week, there are always peas served as the vegetable.

The visitors will be fished to death too, we're proud of our fish, and we expect that the eastern and midwestern women will know about it before the convention is over.

Wednesday afternoon's business session was followed by a program of folk songs and square dances put on by Reed college people. The program was lively and interesting. Blue jeans and plaid shirts for the getar and mandolin players and skirts and white blouses for the girls gave slightly but not overdone Western air to the program. Immediately following, Mrs. J. R. Blair Buck, federation president dismissed the group to the horror of Mrs. William Chandler, state president, who recalled that the program was not yet over. Frantically Mrs. Buck spoke into the dead microphone trying to call the audience back to hear a trio of women who had been waiting several hours to sing. Much of the group repeated itself and heard the trio but it was a bit ragged on the program planner, the trio which almost got crowded out and to the national president.

At Masonic temple Wednesday, women of the Western Federation heard Governor Herbert Maw of Utah speak, after a dinner of stuffed tomatoes, peas, "lard-sirloin" of beef, new peas and fresh strawberry shortcake which wasn't fresh after it has stood among its strawberries from mid-afternoon to 7 o'clock.

His talk was on reclamation and industrial development. Gov. Maw, a good speaker, but a bit on the stratorial side, doesn't like the way Congress is cutting down on the funds for reclamation and flood control.

He believes that, while western states are sufficient unto themselves as far as productivity is concerned, we in the west cannot keep our people employed in normal times because of lack of industries to convert the produce into useable form. He cited the fact that "we" (meaning Utah but seemingly including all the western states) send our wool to be scouring to the New England states, even though a great portion of the weight is in the dirt. He made quite a bit of this wool washing business.

I was surprised about it, and

Miss Donna Lawrence Sets Date

Miss Donna Lawrence and Dale Pence, who announced their engagement at Christmas time, will be married on July 31 at the First Congregational church.

The news was revealed Thursday night at the Chi Omega sorority house on the Oregon State college campus when the bride-elect told her "sisters" her wedding day. At each place at the banquet in honor of the senior Chi Omegas were individual cakes wrapped in lace doilies and scrolls bearing the names of the engaged duo and the date. At the head table was a large cake topped with a bride and groom.

Miss Lawrence is completing her freshman year at Oregon State college. Her fiancé, who also attended Oregon State college, is now in business here with his father.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Lawrence and Mr. Pence's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pence.

Spanish club will meet at the YWCA tonight at 8 o'clock. There will be a Spanish drill and Herbert Noble will show travel films and discuss a Latin American country.

A Bridge Party

Mrs. Burton Selberg was hostess for an informal party Thursday night at her North Liberty street home for a few of her friends. Bridge was in play with a late supper following. Spring flowers were used in decorating. Guests of Mrs. Selberg were Mrs.

George Peeke, Mrs. Douglas Chambers, Mrs. C. Ronald Hudkins, Mrs. Robert Corey, Mrs. Leonard Hicks, Mrs. D. L. Callicrate and Mrs. Oscar Specht.

Mr. and Mrs. James Walton, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Olinger and Mr. and Mrs. Werner Brown motored to Portland Thursday night to attend the University of Oregon alumni dinner at the Portland hotel.
