Finish at Hill

Three Salem boys — Tom Burger, V. W. Beall and Gilbert Rowling — were in graduating classes at Hill Military academy, Portland, this month.

Rowling, son of Mrs. H. B. Read, 390 N. 17th st., graduated from the junior department, receiving highest honors in reading and giving the class history at graduation exercises.

Burger, son of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Burger, 140 Madrona ave., was a senior graduate who attained highest scholastic average, received the alumni medal, was voted best senior class athlete and won second place in individual military drill competition.

Beall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beall, 1010 N. 5th st., was graduated "in absentia" as he is presently in U. S. military service.

Statutory Rape Is Second Charge to Face Salem Youth

Harry Richard Hughes, 21, of 2210 N. Church st., will be arraigned in Marion county district court today on a charge of statutory rape involving a 13-year-old Salem girl, city police said Monday. Hughes, already being held in the county jail in lieu of $750 bail on a charge of buying an allegedly stolen gun from a 14-year-old Salem boy, was arrested on the rape charge by city juvenile authorities.

Bail on the rape charge was set at $3,500, police stated. Hughes was arrested by city police Saturday and charged with buying, having and concealing a stolen pistol.

One of three juveniles being held for a series of auto lootings told police he sold Hughes an automatic pistol stolen from the home of George Osborn in Salem. Hughes pleaded innocent to the charge in district court Saturday and will appear for preliminary examination on Thursday.

Mehama Street Hearing Slated

A petition to vacate a portion of a street in Mehama, filed with Marion county court Monday, will be heard by the court July 9 at 10 a.m.

The petition requests that a portion of Mill street lying between Emma street and the county road there be vacated by the county. It is desired to use the land as residential property and by school district 74 "as a benefit to the school property."

Ira Kirsch, Delbert Bailey and Harry Monroe, the petitioners, are directors of the county road and also owners of land lying east of Mill street and abutting on the property to be vacated.

They state that the land involved is an unincorporated area and an unimproved street, has never been used by the general public for travel and is not now needed for public use.

Veterans Break Ground for New Memorial Home

Aims of permanent peace and rehabilitation of war disabled were stressed by Douglas McKay at ground-breaking ceremonies for the new Veterans Memorial building Monday morning.

McKay, veteran World War I and II who is republican candidate for Oregon governor, was the principal speaker at the program on the building site at North Church and Marion streets. Excavation for the $71,000 structure, expected to be completed in about three months, was begun immediately by Henry G. Carl, contractor.

Sidney L. Stevens was master of ceremonies. Donald Craven sang "The Lord's Prayer." Guests included state and civic officials and commanders of numerous local veterans' posts.

Church representatives included the Rev. Seth Huntington, Protestant; the Rev. Gerald Linahan, Catholic; and Dave Holtzman, Jewish.

Others included State Treasurer Leslie M. Scott, representing Gov. John Hall; Mayor Robert Elstrom; Lyle Bartholomew of Portland, architect, and representatives of Boy Scout troops and other groups.

The building is being constructed under the auspices of the Veterans Memorial Building association sponsored by the Salem chapter 6, Disabled American Veterans.

Short Changer Tries Tactics Here, Foiled

A Salem woman clerk's ability to run saved her a $20 loss to a short change artist in a Salem grocery store Saturday, city police reported Monday.

Flora Rund, a clerk at Henry's grocery, South 12th and Leslie streets, told officers a man-tended a $20 bill to purchase a cube of butter. Miss Rund said she returned the proper change, but the man then said he had intended to give her a $10 bill instead of the $20.

He then cashed the $10 bill, received his change and asked Miss Rund to return the $20 bill.

In the confusion Miss Rund said she returned the $20 bill.

About a minute later Miss Rund said she realized the register was short $20 and pursued the man down the street where he returned the bill. Police warned other merchants to be alert for the operator.

Salem Firemen Get '50 Confab; Buckholz, Roble Gain Offices

Eleven men of the Salem fire department were back on the job Monday after attending the state firemen's meetings in Baker over the week end. Their invitation at the meeting resulted in selection of Salem as firemen's convention city for 1950. Next year's meetings will be in Coos Bay.

Busy Burglars Get Cash and Narcotics Here

Police were searching Monday for a bandit who entered Quisenberry's pharmacy, 419 Ferry st., Sunday night and escaped with about $300 in cash, $100 worth of narcotics and several cameras.

The theft was discovered Sunday night by John R. Merritt, a store employe. Investigating detectives said entry was made through a basement stairway where a door was forced with a crowbar.

While in the basement, the thief entered the narcotics safe by knocking off the combination. A large quantity of drugs was taken. On the main floor, the thief broke open the office safe containing the money.

Also burglarized Sunday night was the First Evangelical church at North Summer and Marion streets where thieves "jimmied" the door to the pastor's office. The Rev. Wilmer Brown, pastor, told police about $12 was taken from a cash box and all the drawers were ransacked sometime after the evening service.

Rubber Weld Conclave Set

An "O. K. Rubber Welders" Oregon district convention will be held at Salem next Monday, with about 50 representatives of the patented rubber welding process expected to attend sessions in the Marion hotel.

In charge of the local arrangements is the local O. K. dealer, James Sidwell, 202 S. High st. His business, James Sidwell & Son, recently took warehouse space in the new Walling warehouse near 13th and Hoyt streets.

Present for the convention of Oregon and southern Washington company representatives will be Harold V. James of Denver, Colo., president of the welding system and inventor of the process of electrical tire repair combining mechanical pressure and direct heat to weld for recapping purposes.

New Addition To Salem Set On Slope Site

A new real estate subdivision which its owner will rival "Portland's finest" is being planned for Salem by E. M. Larsen, realtor, 164 S. Commercial st.

Larsen has purchased from Schindler brothers a 10-acre tract on Fairmount hill between the probable extensions of Luther and Lefele streets overlooking the Willamette river and Polk county. Extensions of Washington and Superior streets may be made. Tentative name of the development is Fairmount Hill View addition.

Engineers, with instructions to preserve the natural beauty of the site and spare the firs and oaks it boasts, are working out a 10-year program for development of the addition. With two building sites already claimed, Larsen says he plans to impose a minimum building restriction of 20,000. The houses thus far planned for the development will cost around $40,000, he added.

Capt. Charles W. Hawker, a Tacoma army officer, complained to police that a gold sapphire ring was taken from his room in a local hotel Sunday night.

R. G. Patton, 1080 N. 13th st., reported to police Monday that a burglar attempted to enter the bedroom of his home last Wednesday. Patton said he awoke when he noticed a flashlight beam coming from the direction of the bedroom window. The would-be thief fled when Patton arose from bed, police said. Patton's home is located near the residence of R. C. McMullen who lost a wallet containing $90 to a thief the same night.

Vandals Smash Parked Vehicle

Two young vandals using sticks smashed the windows and headlights of a parked 1947 Buick in the 600 block of Ferry street early Sunday morning, city police reported.

Police were summoned to the scene by a neighbor who witnessed the attack, but the boys left before they arrived, police said.

Other auto looting involved the theft of a fishing pole, reel and line from the auto of G. L. Humiston, 590 N. Summer st., and a box camera from the car of F. W. Zirbel, 607 N. Commercial street, both last week.

Falls City Youth Found Dead in Creek on Sunday

FALLS CITY, June 7 — Arthur Melius, 13, was found dead in Berry creek a short distance from here at 9:30 Sunday night after he had been missing from home on a fishing trip. His watch was stopped at 7:10, and he is believed to have fallen and hit his head on a rock. Coroner J. Paul Bollmer said the boy had been dead about two hours.

He was a good swimmer, and the attending physician said no water was in his lungs but there was some blood.

The boy was the son of Mr. and

Flood's Health Risks Cited, Aid Offered

Persons returning from flood areas are urged to report to the Marion county health department or to their private physicians for typhoid vaccinations.

Because of a recent outbreak of measles in the Vanport area, measles immune serum is recommended for children under three years old who have been exposed in the flooded area in the last two weeks.

An acute shortage of measles immune serum forced the department Monday to request public cooperation in limiting serum requests to children under three who have actually been exposed to measles.

Persons engaged in cleanup work in flooded areas or otherwise exposed to infection should be immunized now against typhoid and paratyphoid fevers, according to a memorandum received here from the state board of health.

Individuals connected with flood work are cautioned against drinking water from possibly polluted sources. All contaminated food not in sealed-in impervious containers should be destroyed and canned goods "should be carefully inspected for swelling or leaks from damage to containers."
