President's Arrival, Trip Through City Witnessed by Many

. Cloudy skies but friendly greeters were on hand when President Harry S. Truman came to Salem briefly Friday morning. The fastmoving president and his many aides were taken briskly through the business district by a caravan of 15 Portland cars, while he smiled and waved to onlookers. The huge Independence, the president's personal plane, is pictured (above left) on a McNary field taxiway, where Mr. Truman de-planed, with the cavalcade in foreground. At upper right he is ready for the auto trip, seated (left) with Federal Works Administrator Philip Fleming (center) and Federal Housing Administrator Raymond Foley.
