TREE FARMS GROW JOBS

EFFORTS to insure a continuous supply of timber for the nation are proving successful.

Tree farming, which is the growing, protecting and harvesting of trees as a crop, now has become a nationwide practice. More than 15,000,000 acres are in tree farms in nineteen states.

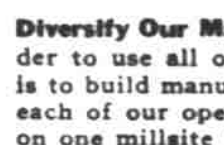

In the Douglas fir region foresters provide for the NATURAL reseeding of tree farms when logging an area. If natural reseeding fails for any reason, nursery grown seedlings are hand planted. Such planting comprises only a small part of the problem in keeping forest lands covered with a timber crop.

Future generations will continue to gain their livelihood directly or indirectly from the forests, as do millions of Americans today. Barring disastrous fires, Weyerhaeuser tree farms are so managed as to keep our mills running forever.

TO HELP INSURE A PERMANENT INDUSTRY, WE —

Operate Tree Farms — to provide a never ending timber supply for our mills. The forest crop is harvested, reseeded, harvested, reseeded—in about 80-year cycles.

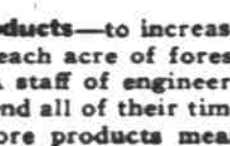

Diversify Our Manufacturing—In order to use all of the tree. The aim is to build manufacturing centers in each of our operating areas so that on one millsite we can make useful products from low value as well as high value material.

Develop New Products—to increase the "take" from each acre of forest land harvested. A staff of engineers and scientists spend all of their time in this work. More products mean more steady jobs.

Develop Permanent Markets—to be reasonably certain that Weyerhaeuser products are in steady demand year in and year out, in good times and bad. We work toward consistent high quality, and apply modern selling methods to create customer demand.

On your trip EAST go via California

— for no extra rail fare!

If you're planning a trip East this summer, here's how to explore America on your way East and back without adding to the rail ticket cost.

GO EAST via Southern Pacific through California and return on your choice of northern U. S. or Canadian lines. Thus you will see an entirely different part of the country each way. You'll see twice as much as you would going and returning on the same route—FOR NOT 1c EXTRA RAIL FARE from most points in western Oregon, Washington and British Columbia to Chicago, New York and most eastern points.

Go, for example, on our scenic Shasta Route (No. 4 on the map) to

See San Francisco's famous bridges

San Francisco, then straight across mid-continent to Chicago on our historic Overland Route (No. 3 on the map). Or continue on to Los Angeles; then to Chicago through the colorful southwest on our Golden State Route (No. 2 on the map). Or, if your destination is New York, Washington or other Atlantic seaboard points, swing through the old south to New Orleans on our Sunset Route (No. 1 on the map) and then to your destination. Return on your choice of northern U. S. or Canadian lines. Or reverse the direction just outlined.

Your accommodations will be comfortable chair cars or Pullman sleeping cars on famous trains including deluxe streamliners. To California and on our Sunset and Golden State Routes you may also use economical tourist Pullmans. All are air-conditioned.
