Truman to Kill Blind Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—President Truman announced tonight he was letting die, without his signature, a bill designed to help blind persons who are partly able to work. Critical of congress again, Mr. Truman spoke of "the hasty last minute passage" of the bill and said it would lessen payments now made to blind persons unable to work. The bill, a social security measure, would have permitted states to disregard earnings of up to $40 a month when benefit payments to the blind were calculated. "This bill would increase the recipient case loans by perhaps as much as one-third by making eligible for assistance blind persons not now eligible because of their earnings from employment," Mr. Truman said in a statement.
