

Salem Grocer to Start Work On $23,000 Store Building

Mason Chapelle, Salem grocer, received a permit from the city engineer's office, Wednesday to build a $23,410 store-apartment building at 1905 Mission st.

Chapelle is now operating a market at 1850 Lee st., behind the site of his new store on the opposite side of the block. He will manage both businesses when the Mission street store is completed.

Day labor will be used in construction of the building and work will start today. The structure will be of pumice blocks, finished in stucco and 40 by 80 feet. An apartment will be located in the rear of the store.

Another sizeable permit issued Wednesday went to H. H. Harris, of Salem, to build six houses in the 300 block of south 25th street at a cost of $14,700. Each of the units will cost $2,450 and will be located at 307, 309, 311, 313, 315 and 317 S. 25th st.

Barham Bros., Salem contractors, were authorized to start construction on a $13,500 office building at 525 N. Church st., but it was not disclosed who will occupy the building.

Other permits went to Al Frankum & Son to build a house and garage at 1210 N. 24th st., $8,000, and to H. E. Boswell to reerof a house at 1795 S. High st., $2,500.

'Captive' Mines Resume Work

PITTSBURGH, July 14 (AP)—Coal flowed again from steel company-owned mines today as the government withdrew its injunction spilt against the United Mine Workers in the captive contract case at Washington.

Captive miners, who began a work stoppage July 6 for lack of a contract, resumed work upon the strength of yesterday's contract signing, obtained through the intervention of Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

In the capital, the judge today permitted the national labor relations board to drop its injunction proceedings in view of the new contract.

Hot Day for a Log Bonfire

It is hot weather for bonfires, but that is the way the huge pile of logs at the West Salem Lumber Co., located on the Wallace road, looked Tuesday when sparks set it afire. Polio Affects Older Groups

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—A change in infantile paralysis, which is giving this disease more often to adult Americans and less often to small children, was reported to the opening session of the first International Polio conference here.

About 1,000 delegates registered, including 50 from foreign countries. The switch in polio was reported by Dr. Albert B. Sabin, of the College of Medicine, and Children's Hospital Research foundation, University of Cincinnati.

The increasing susceptibility of adult Americans is mostly confined to the northern United States. It includes teen-agers, while under five-year-olds are escaping. Even in China and Korea where infantile paralysis is rare, the disease has been occurring with unexpected frequency among adult Americans.

Vanport Group Demand to Go Unanswered

Gov. John H. Hall won't have any answer to demands made last week by a group of Vanport residents, who claimed to represent flood victims, who came to Salem and picketed the capitol.

The governor again charged the group was led by communists. He refused to confer with the delegation of about 100 persons.

"There ain't gonna be any answer" to demands that the state provide jobs, housing, cash bonuses, and work for a Columbia valley authority, Governor Hall said Wednesday.

Governor Hall said he had received a number of letters criticizing his action in not conferring with the group but that he was not concerned.

"Neither will I dignify those letters with an answer," Governor Hall declared.

Governor Hall said most of these letters came from members of the caravan group.

Truman Nomination, Special Session Call Climax Conclave

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, July 15 (Thursday) (AP)—The democratic national convention ended early this morning after a hectic 3-day stand which saw President Truman emerge as the No. 1 party candidate; watched a walk-out staged by the Alabama and Mississippi delegations; saw Sen. Albin Barkley of Kentucky win the vice presidential nomination; and heard Mr. Truman lay down a challenge to the republican party by calling a special session of congress to start July 26.

Mr. Truman was nominated on the first ballot late last night. As the bolters walked out into the rain, they left the party badly and perhaps irreparably split. Some delegates said the democratic discord might even guarantee a republican victory in November.

Stalked from Hall
Governor Fielding Wright of Mississippi stalked from convention hall to call a meeting of southern rebels Saturday in Birmingham, Ala. The purpose: To pick a "states rights" candidate to run against both President Truman and republican Thomas E. Dewey.

Alabama's unhappy democrats already had arranged a Birmingham meeting and said they would be glad to welcome converts.

Gov. Phil Donnelly of Missouri put Mr. Truman's name in nomination as "the man of the people."

And for his running mate, the choice was Senator Albin Barkley from border-state Kentucky.

Donnelly praised his fellow Missourian as "soldier, patriot, and statesman," a man "whose splendid courage never faltered, in war or in peace, and who is today leading this nation to a new and greater destiny."

Truman Bedlam
And then the Truman version of bedlam broke out in this vast, super-hot hall. It was bells, horns, whistles, a siren of two, band and organ, just plain whooping and hollering.

There had been one for Russell, too. Twenty minutes of it. The folks from Dixie struggled through the aisles, with Trumanites using huge pictures of their man as barricades.

The crowd was enraged from bad beating it took from the north in a furious civil rights fight, a fight over such things as lynching, poll taxes and racial discrimination in jobs, which the south says are purely state problems.

In protest, all of Mississippi's 22 delegates, and 13 of Alabama's 28 packed up and left.

Before the take-a-walk crowd pushed its way through the packed middle aisle, a Wisconsin delegate yelled:

"Good riddance! We'll win in November without you."
The hell you will, Alabama Chairman Handy Ellis yelled back. "Harry Truman won't get $5.50 from the white people in Georgia to help his campaign."

Twice the north beat back attempts from the south to make the platform say, in effect, that racial and similar problems are for the states to handle and for the federal government to keep hands off.

Hammered into Platform
And then the voting power of the north hammered into the platform a declaration that:

"We highly commend President Harry Truman for his courageous stand on the issue of civil rights. "We call upon the congress to support our president in guaranteeing these basic and fundamental American principles—the right of full and equal political participation; the right to equal opportunity of employment; the right of security of person, and the right of equal treatment in the service and defense of our nation."

Populous North Wins
The big delegations from the populous north put it over. Wisconsin clinched it with 24 votes that moved the total to 625½. Only 618 were needed.

The final count was 651½ to 582½.

That was fairly close. But it was a lopsided 925 to 309 against a southern bid to squeeze into the platform a declaration that the states "have the right to control their internal affairs and enforce police regulations" within the limitations imposed by the 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution.

Unemployment Compensations Upped by Flood

Flood area displacements resulted in a considerably increased local office unemployment compensation claims load during June, but payments were lower than the previous month and but little changed from a year ago, the state unemployment compensation commission reported here Wednesday.

Benefits rose temporarily in some Columbia river areas, but the only offices reporting higher disbursements than in May were Portland and Dallas. The $454,873 paid to those covered by state law was 14 per cent under the previous month but was slightly higher than in June, 1947, when a lower benefit schedule was in effect.

Although the number of claims for the new benefit year was lower than for the same period a year ago, new claims for the 1947-48 benefit year filed by those from flooded - out plants brought about an increase in state claims from June, 1947.

Seasonal operations were expected to reduce the claims load during the remainder of the current year.
