Dairy Co-op Conducts Tour Of Grade A Milk Producers

By Lillie L. Madden
Farm Editor, The Statesman

Inspecting dairies being changed from market grade type to Grade A, was the feature of the dairy tour Thursday sponsored by the Salem branch of the Dairy Cooperative association.

Cost of the change in the five dairies visited ranged from $1200 at the Hans Boeder place in the Smithfield community out from Dallas, to $3500 at the Lloyd Beerman farm in Salt Creek district.

Gene Foster, fieldman for the dairy co-op, who conducted the tour, spoke highly of the Boeder milk house and milking parlor. The favorable cost was arrived at by exchange labor. Neighbors donated 10 hours of work for which Boeder paid back hour for hour in labor. In his brief talk to the more than 50 visitors, Boeder said that the improvement has paid for itself on 10 cows in 14 months.

Now, he estimated, his milk check is $200 a month more for the same amount of milk than if he had been selling market grade.

Mr. Beeman, who formerly taught in the Dallas high school, had a more elaborate set up, built of mortartess cement blocks. This had two stories, the second story providing for feed storage which could be fed directly to the cows in their stalls by means of chutes. The surge system, in which the cows stand higher than the dairyman when they are milked, thus preventing any bending on his part, is used here.

Other dairies visited were those of John Friesen, Smithfield, Russon Hills in Spring Valley and Ivan Merrick in Lincoln. The co-op served lunch to the group at noon at the Merrick place.

The group assembled at the Mayflower plant in Salem, where Art Hulbert, manager, welcomed the visitors, and explained the problems involved in maintaining the constant flow of milk required by the market. This problem accounted for the present surplus of Grade A as this is the peak production season. Hulbert introduced Bob Herwick, former fieldman, now with the state department of agriculture, who spoke briefly, outlining recent changes in milk routing regulations, now requiring a 12 by 14, inside measurement, instead of the smaller one formerly permissible. These measurements do not apply, he said, to milk houses already in use or those under construction.

Stocks Plunge Lower After Heavy Selling

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—The stock market plunged to the lowest level in two months today after heavy selling developed for the second day in a row.

Already shaky after yesterday's heavy pounding, the market was in no shape to stand up against news that giant U. S. Steel Corp. had raised wages and intended to raise prices.

Losses ran from fractions to more than 3 points, with the oil sections singled out for selling attention. Most steel stocks did comparatively well and declined only fractionally.

Today's losses, piled on top of yesterday's clipped about $2,000,000,000 from the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange. The Thursday crack was a little more severe than today's. Prices had been marked down from the start of trading but the retreat was orderly and more than a few stocks managed to advance for a while. Big steel's announcement, though, soon put the market on the defensive.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .9 of one point to 70.1. This compared with the Thursday drop of 1.2 points and carried the general price level back to the average prevailing in mid-May.

Neuner Okays Fund Use for State Schools

Grading and landscaping in connection with a housing project at the University of Oregon, construction of barns and gun shed at Oregon State college and other less costly improvements at both institutions, with the use of state building funds, are permitted by Attorney General George Neuner held Friday.

The projects previously received approval of the state board of control and state emergency board, meeting jointly here, contingent upon a favorable opinion from the attorney general.

The proposed road and sidewalk project at Oregon State college, included in the program, would cost $62,000.

Neuner further held that bids would not be necessary in event the work was done under supervision of the higher education board's engineers and with use of salvage materials.

Financial assistance given by the department for the month, including outright grants and loans, amounted to $768. Of this sum, $739 was to veterans or their dependents. The additional assistance given in the flood relief will be returned to the chapter from national disaster funds.

Grain Prices End Lower in Day's Trading

By William Ferris
CHICAGO, July 16 (AP)—All grains ended lower on the board of trade today when persistent selling got the upper hand of the market in the last 30 minutes.

Losses were not large in cereals but mounted up to a fairly sizeable amount of soybeans and lard.

Until the final 30 minutes, grains were holding their own, taking their cue from the July corn contract. The shorts wanted that delivery and bid the price up nearly 3 cents before deciding they would go no higher. With that, July corn collapsed, tumbling more than 5 cents from its earlier high.

The turn-about in July corn weakened the rest of the market, which had not shown much sparkle anyway. Final prices were up a bit from the day's bottoms.

Wheat closed 4 1/2 lower, July $2.27, corn was 1/2-1 1/2 lower, July $2.10 1/2-3/4, oats were 3/4 to 2 cents lower, July $2 1/4-5/8, rye was unchanged to 1/2 lower, December $1.28 1/2, and Soybeans were 5 1/2 to 6 cents lower, July $3.74.
