Humiliation Charged in $11,200 Suit

A suit seeking damages of $11,200 to ease the "humiliation" of a dismissed dog nuisance complaint was filed in Marion county circuit court Wednesday.

Edward A. Brown brought the suit against Sarah W. Stump. He asked for $11,200 general damages and $10,000 exemplary damages for the defendant's "malicious and wanton acts."

Brown charges that Mrs. Stump filed the nuisance complaint against him in Salem municipal court on June 4. The complaint charged Brown with keeping a Doberman Pinscher dog on the premises at 885 N. Capitol st.

Mrs. Stump alleged that the dog's barking annoyed her. Brown alleges that he pleaded innocent to the charge and that Municipal Judge W. W. McKinney dismissed the case on motion of Mrs. Stump.

In the complaint filed Wednesday Brown contends that the nuisance charge was filed "without any probable cause, and with the malicious intent and purpose to harass and annoy" him. He maintains he has been greatly humiliated, brought into public ridicule, scandal, disgrace and exposed to scorn and contempt of friends, acquaintances and the public.

Jones Describes Confusion and Trials in Europe

Confusion which results from different meanings of words in different countries and problems arising from varying land reform programs were among subjects taken up by Ronald E. Jones, president of Oregon Farmers union, in a talk on his recent trip to Europe, during a Salem Rotary club luncheon Wednesday in the Marion hotel.

Problems which are involved in settlement of the European situation include extreme nationalism in many countries, said Jones, who ascribed this to the lack of education among the masses of the people.

Work of the economic commission of Europe was discussed at the international agricultural conference which Jones attended in Paris. Among the suggestions he brought back from the trip was "if licensed trucks are allowed to go freely from one country to another in western Europe, why are trucks restricted in going from one state to another in the United States?"

Fables circulated in Athens in the 5th century B. C. were attributed to one Aesop — who probably merely told them. The common collections of fables bearing the name "Aesop" were versions of a book made about 320 B. C. and centuries later translated into Latin.

Trio of Archers Pauses Here En Route to Big Game Venture

Three Californians with buckskin shirts, bows and arrows and a flare for adventure stopped in Salem Wednesday, early in their projected 16,000-mile, eight-months hunting trip.

The archers — Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Charles and Leo Theroux — started this month from San Francisco, hunting their own food with bow and arrow and traveling between hunting grounds in a bright green jeep with canoe lashed atop and trailer behind.

They are heading for Washington and British Columbia, then the northern states, Great Lakes area, east and gulf coasts and Mexico before returning to San Francisco.

The bows and arrows which are their only weapons, add up to quite an armory, as each hunter has three bows of different types and each has his own arrows (to fit his bow). They carry 1,000 arrows, which they assembled from Oregon Port Orford cedar shafts, steel heads, turkey feathers. Their bows are made of Oregon Yew.

The arrows for big game (they are hoping to bag moose in Canada) carry triangular steel broadheads 1 1/4 inches across at the base. For birds, squirrels and other small game they have arrows with rounded steel points and for fish their arrows have barbed points and lines.

While here the trio called on local archers, camped on the John Davis family lawn, 1363 S. Commercial st., and brought greetings to Mayor R. L. Elstrom from the mayor of San Francisco.

The outdoorsmen expect to write a book of their experiences.
