Ranch Ramblings

By Rural Reporter

Sheepmen attending the eighth Willamette Valley purebred ram and ewe sale in Albany Saturday, generally agreed that prices paid were only nominal in view of the prices now being received for market animals.

Suffolks with 28 rams averaging $123.75 and seven ewes $85, led the nine breeds sold. Hampshires came next with $87.84 for 17 rams and $75.83 for three ewes. Southdown was the surprise breed with an average of $86.66 on nine rams and $85.33 on three ewes. Lincolns averaged $80.53 on nine rams and $110 on two ewes.

Bench talk showed that a number of market lamb breeders were buying the Southdown ram for cross breeding purposes, particularly with Romneys. William Moore, Yamhill, took the high Romney ram from William Riddell of Monmouth at $190. The top Lincoln rams were consigned by Ed G. Riddell and James Riddell of Monmouth and went to Homer B. Miller of Halsey and L. J. Knife of Arago at $100.

To use in its much-talked improvement program, Oregon State college took the lone Cheviot ram offered at the sale. He was consigned by Henry and Eloise Davenport of Silverton and brought $100. The college also bought the top Southdown ram consigned by Claude Steusloff, Salem, for $150.

Forrest Martin, Dallas, took the top Gath Brothers, Turner, Shropshire ram at $85.

The sale was the first event held in the new fair buildings recently constructed by the Linn county fair board and situated in the neighborhood of the airport. With a few extra fixings, the building will "officially" open on September 1 for the autumn Linn county 4-H fair.

W. W. Westhouse has sold his farm near Scio to J. N. Harding, a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Coldiron, possession to be given October 1. The Hardings are from Oklahoma.

Those who are going to Champog on August 15 will, if they wish, kill two birds with one stone. Both the annual summer picnic of the Farmers Union and the Marion County Jersey Cattle club will be held that day. Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Clark will be hosts to the Jersey breeders. After the usual 1 o'clock no-host picnic a brief business meeting will be held. The Farmers Union plans to open its meeting at 11 a. m.

Howard Paschall and family of Scio are making plans to move to their eastern Oregon ranch near Mitchell this fall where they will grow beef cattle on irrigated hay on an extensive scale. The alfalfa hay crop was very heavy this year, they report. Jesse Paschall, also of Scio, has been in charge of the Paschall ranches out at Mitchell for some time.

Flax for seed isn't doing too well this year. Even that which did quite well in the beginning is showing some damage from the few days of hot weather. Part of the buds were cooked and feed heads are limited in many fields.

A week or two ago, the ranch reporter, reported that seven lambs had died on the Alfred Jensen ranch near Silverton. The total has now mounted to 11 with veterinarians differing on opinion of cause of death. One claimed it was pneumonia probably brought about from a mineral deficiency. Another claimed it was probably salt poisoning, brought about from the lambs eating too much salt following a brief time without any. Whatever the cause, the result is hard to take. The lambs, unusually fine specimens of purebred Suffolk, kept for breeding purposes, are a big loss, and the owner feels the exact cause may not yet have been discovered. He is quite philosophical about the matter, however, and remarks that with the amount of losses taken this year, by the law of averages things ought to come along pretty slick come 1949.

Silverton — Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Schneider of 505 Oak st. have moved to the Mt. Angel district near the Frank Walker ranch to assist with farm work. The Schneiders have leased their town property for several months.

Turner — Mrs. Gordon Sheaffer of Myrtle Creek is visiting the Ben Wippers.
