

Miss Sim Now Mrs. Morley

At 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church Saturday night Miss Phyllis Jane Sim became Daniel W. Morley's bride with the Rev. Lloyd T. Anderson performing the ceremony. The altar was banked with arrangements of orchid and white gladioluses and the sanctuary was lighted by candles. Mrs. Emily Turner was the soloist and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson the organist.

Taper lighters were Mrs. Francis Benton of Eugene and Miss Eleanor Matthews of Milwaukie, who wore yellow brocaded satin gowns. Preceding the bride to the altar were the matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Schmieding of Eugene, who wore green brocaded satin, Mrs. Keith Gwynn and Miss Cleo Schiedel as bridesmaids, who wore orchid brocaded satin gowns. The dresses were all designed identical with bouffant skirts and cap sleeves and they carried bouquets of gladioluses in the cream and orchid shades. Sherrie Milligan, the flower girl, was in a green brocaded satin frock and Noel DeLapp was ring bearer.

Of white satin was the bridal gown fashioned on traditional lines with a French lace yoke and sleeves trimmed in seed pearls. Her fingertip illusion veil was edged in lace and held in place with a seed pearl tiara. She carried a white bible marked with an orchid and orchid streamers. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sim, was given in marriage by her father.

Oswald Morley was his cousin's best man and seating the guests were Richard Sim, brother of the bride, Richard Gallagher, John Goffrier, Harold Smither, Keith Gwynn and Douglas Coe.

Reception Follows
A reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Sim attended her daughter's wedding in a bachelor button blue crepe gown and corsage of white carnations and gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Will Morley, uncle and aunt of the groom, received with the bride party. Mrs. Morley's gown was of dusty rose satin and her flowers were carnations and gardenias.

Presiding at the urns and cutting the cake were Mrs. V. T. Jackson, Roseburg, aunt of the groom, Mrs. C. W. Capon, Portland, Miss Ola Grandstaff, Portland and Mrs. Harry Sim, all aunts of the bride. Assisting were Misses Betty Mae Street, Portland, Virginia Morley, Lois Martin, Wilma Dunn, Jean Hatfield, Irene Williamschen, Janet Campbell, Nadiene Ott, Clara Belle Roth, Carolyn Davis, Joan Collett, Isobel Herbert and Ellen Reynolds. During the reception Evangeline Moshofsky sang.

The newlyweds will go to Crater lake, Oregon Caves and through the Redwoods, returning by way of the coast route on their honeymoon. For going away the bride donned a grey wool suit, grey hat, white accessories and orchid corsage. In the fall the couple will be at home in Minneapolis, where they will attend Northwestern Schools.
