Early Apples First of a Long Series Of Varieties; Recipes Are Suggested

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Woman's Editor

It's high time we took stock of green apples. Our good old Gravenstein, the one which bears only every other year, has produced a crop large enough to extend over two years.

Pies of course, and applesauce. Also this year we are going to put up even more of those quartered apples we liked last year but didn't can enough of. We dropped the fruit into boiling syrup and let it almost clear, then packed fruit and syrup into jars and processed for five minutes in hot water bath. They are easy to make, and give you a bit more variety on the canned foods shelf.

We'll freeze applesauce this year too. We'll just make it as if to be used fresh, then pack it in the cartons and take it to the freezer. Frozen apples were a popular item at the grocer's last year.

Most people like apple pies plain, but others like to fancy theirs up just a little. One of the most satisfactory ways to add glamor to an apple pie is to grate some cheese into the crust.

We like to add a little color, either red or yellow to applesauce and our personal taste is for both cinnamon and nutmeg, though others prefer either no spices or just one.

Here is a new angle on apple cobbler.

- APPLE CINNAMON PUFFS
- 1 cup sugar
 - 1 cup water
 - 1/2 teaspoon red coloring
 - 4 or 5 medium sized apples
 - 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
 - 2 tablespoons double acting baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 cup shortening
 - 1/4 cup milk
- Boil sugar and water and coloring for about five minutes. Peel and slice the apples thin, place in a greased shallow pan (8x12 inches) and pour syrup over them. Now sift dry ingredients together, cut in the shortening and stir in the liquid. Drop by spoonful on top of the apples and make a dent in each. Mix 1/2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon together and put in the dents. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in 450 degree oven. Serves 8 or 10.

Jaunting About Johnson's

Nancy Miller
Fashion Board Member
Salem High School

You'll find me behind the sweater bar at Johnson's this week (your favorite spot this time of year). On one side of me are cuddly "Baby Lambs" and on the other fluffy-fluffy angoras. The new purple angoras are one of my favorites. And to go with it Johnson's have the Carousel skirts you'll be seeing in your favorite "Back to School" magazine.

The skirts are straight, of course — in basic browns and greys, with gay angora pencil line stripes. What a perfect match with any angora — specially purple or red ones — and a perfect price for a wool skirt at only $8.95. Suppose you've heard Johnson's are getting lettings green and royal blue angoras, too. (This year we can call be "different".)

For back-to-school everyone likes at least one pretty plaid wool dress — and I'm certainly no exception. I have one picked out for my "everywhere" dress. It's red and green checkered with leather studded buttons and belt. Maybe you will want a cute casual dress, too. . . they'll certainly be nice on cool football nights.

For that special date with your one and only (or your one out of many) — you'll be wanting a "rustling-bustling" taffeta dress. The fashion experts tell us that richness of fabric is the thing this fall. So you can't go wrong in a taffeta, tulle, or bengaline — one-piece or two-piece dressy-dress.

Don't forget to buy Angora-cuffed anklets when you get your new sweaters — looks so neat. Angora-cuffed anklets are still fashion leaders in footwear this fall.

Come in and see me sometime this week, maybe I can help you choose some new gaudy clothes for your "back-to-school" wardrobe.
