

World Church Board to Meet At Amsterdam

Delegates from 150 churches will participate beginning Sunday in one of the largest demonstrations of religious unity, as the first assembly of the World Council of Churches convenes at Amsterdam.

The delegation from Oregon is Dr. Ralph Walker, pastor of Portland's First Baptist church, and a speaker well-known to Salem.

Most of the U. S.'s delegation of more than 500 persons left last week for the 14-day conference, which was originally scheduled for 1941. The meeting follows by 10 years the formation of a provisional organization at the Utrecht conference. Since then four study commissions have been preparing for the meeting.

The theme will be "Man's Disorder and God's Design." The reports of the study groups, for debate, are on the sub-topics of the church and international affairs, the universal church, evangelism and "the Church and the Disorder of Society."

Five provisional presidents will conduct the meetings, including America's Dr. John R. Mott.

As the session convenes Sunday, church bells across America are to toll each hour on the hour from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., local time.

Federal Jobs Open in East

Announcement of examinations for four positions in various federal agencies was made Wednesday by the U. S. civil service commission.

The jobs are draftsman, with entrance salary of $2,152-$3,727; engineer, $2,974, requiring four years' college or experience in engineering, age limits 18 to 35 years; printer's assistant, $1.10 per hour, 18 to 45 years except for veterans; elevator operator, $1.10 per hour or $2,020-$2,152 per year, requiring 3-6 months' experience and veteran preference.

All the positions are in Washington, D. C., except the draftsman, which is for the northwest states. For the latter two, women are especially sought. Additional information is available from the civil service secretary at Salem post-office.

Wm. Chapman, Former Mill Foreman Dies

William H. Chapman, 43, former mill foreman for Keith Brown Lumber Co. here, died Wednesday at the residence, 2225 Broadway st., after several months' illness.

Chapman was born at Sheridan, Ore., and had spent most of his life in the Willamette valley, having attended Hazel Green and Keizer schools. He was married June 2, 1929, in Salem to Viola Fisher.

He was a member of the United Brethren church and a member of the local Industrial Supervisor's club.

Surviving, besides the widow, are a daughter, Virginia, and a son, Robert, both of Salem; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chapman, of Salem; sisters, Mrs. Alta Maguren, Mrs. Ethel Christofferson, and brothers, Merle and Vernon Chapman, all of Salem; a sister, Mrs. Freda Black of Alhambra, Cal., and a brother, Fred Chapman, of Los Angeles, and by several nieces and nephews.

Announcement of services later will be made by the Clough-Barrick chapel.

Visitors Taste Lebanon Herb Tea in Garden

LEBANON, Aug. 18 — Mrs. Phil Lanning pours at the 11th annual herb tea in the Clarence Shimanek gardens, 377 Grant st. More than 350 guests from 30 garden clubs all over Oregon attended the tea for which Lebanon Garden club was host. Guests selected their own "brand" for the tea from herbs set out on tables, and cakes and cookies were flavored with the herbs for which the Lebanon Garden club has won a national reputation. Jobless Pay Claimants in Older Brackets

Only one in four claimants for benefits under the unemployment compensation commission law are men under 45 years of age, commission officials estimated this week.

Of 7,770 workers entitled to compensation during one week in May 5,059 were men but considerable more than half were past the 45 year-old mark. More than one-third of the men claimants had observed with their 65th birthday.

Only 95 women admitted having attained the usual age of retirement. Of the 2,711 women 1,580 of 58.3 per cent were under 45 years.

Major Jens Due Back from Camp

SEATTLE PORT OF EMBARKATION, Seattle, Aug. 18—(Special)—Maj. Charles A. Jens, attorney and instructor of law at Willamette university law school, is one of the 35 Oregon reserve officers completing two weeks of active duty with the army transportation corps, 422nd traffic regulation group, commander by Col. Thomas F. Gunn, Grants Pass.

Major Jens was on duty with the staff judge advocate's office during his stay here.

A reserve officer since 1930, Major Jens was in the Attu campaign in the Aleutian islands and later served as deputy director in the office of foreign affairs with the army headquarters of military government in Korea. He is a member of the Kiwanis, VFW and American Legion.

which began in 1921, on lease from the U. S. forest service. With the camp now in use all summer by different denominations, it is hoped to obtain a caretaker and keep the lodge open the year around.

Sustained Yield Plan Explained At Rotary Club

Timber is a crop which can be grown repeatedly, like grain crops, Dr. George Peavy, mayor of Corvallis and former dean of the school of forestry at Oregon State college, told Salem Rotary club members Wednesday at the Marion hotel.

Peavy urged that members become familiar with the co-operative sustained yield units as pertain to the reforested Oregon and California lands. Exchange of lands among private government owners to fill out the present checkerboard locations was discussed.

Planning of the forestry crop makes for permanence of cities and lumber operations, Peavy said, using the town of Shelton, Wash., as an example. The Simpson Logging Co. has signed up 270,000 acres, including federal lands, on a 100-year contract, and the town which had started to lose is now taking on permanence, the speaker said.

4-H Cannery Vie at Salem

The bonus for picking hops looked better than prospects for county or state fair prize money to many 4-H club members who had signed up for the Spreckels canning contest but did not appear Wednesday for the competition in Salem.

This was the explanation given by Anthol Riney, Marion county 4-H club agent, for the small field participating. Donna Lee Klein of Aumsville took first in junior division and Betty Wintermantel of Sidney took first in the senior division.

Sally Klein was second and Marion Brown of Stayton, third in the junior division. Joyce Wyatt of Brooks and Dorothy Hammer of Mt. Angel tied for fourth place. Patricia Cree of Mill City took second in the senior division.

Juniors canned one pint of fruit of their own selection while seniors canned one pint of fruit and one pint of vegetables. Mrs. Dorothy Hunt of Corvallis judged the workers.

Human ears can seldom hear the incessant clamor of the bat as he flits about overhead because the bat's signaling voice lies in the wave band of about 50,000 cycles or vibrations per second. Human ears can only detect sound in the band from 20 to 20,000 cycles.

WCTU to Celebrate 25 Years Of Operating Children's Home

The Oregon Woman's Christian Temperance union will observe the 25th anniversary of its Children's Farm Home near Corvallis in special ceremonies at the institution Sunday.

The program will start at 2:30 p. m. with thousands of members and friends expected to attend. Principal speaker for the occasion will be Marshall Dana, world traveler and editor of the Oregon Journal editorial page.

Mrs. Jennie Nunn, Salem, member of the WCTU board of trustees, said picnic accommodations will be available for guests on the home grounds, starting at noon.

The home was completed in 1923 on a 225-acre tract located about three miles north of Corvallis on the Albany road. Since then hundreds of boys and girls have found a "substitute home" on this picturesque farm.

Eight cottages have been constructed and now accommodate 162 boys and girls. Life in the cottages is governed by a "household" kindly discipline, the children are taught the basic principles of cooperation.

Most children at the home are from broken homes. They are carefully selected from a long list of applicants, and are between the ages of 5 and 18 years.

The Children's Farm has worked steadily for a program of health education and promotion of hygienic methods of living. The home's health program is directed by a Corvallis physician and a resident nurse. Only one death from disease has occurred at the home in 24 years.

Grade school children attend the school on the grounds while high school students are transported daily to and from Corvallis high school.

The home is a beehive of activities the year around. Some of these include organizations such as the Loyd Temperance Legion, 4-H clubs, Boy and Girl Scouts, orchestras and radio clubs. All students participate in athletics, skating parties and various extra-curricular work.

Summer brings daily vacation bible school, trips to summer church camps, the annual July 4 picnic and homecoming and vacation trips to the Newport coast. Swimming in the home's pool and boating on a lake on the grounds are other favorite summer sports.

Publishers Invite State Legislators To Salem Dinner

Several score state legislators and potential legislators from the 13 northwest counties of Oregon have been invited to a dinner meeting Friday night by the legislative committee of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers' association. The association's position on legislative matters is to be explained at the session.

The dinner will be at the Marion hotel at 6:30 p. m. Presiding will be Walter May, legislative committee chairman and publisher of The Oregon City Enterprise. The meeting is one of several the committee will sponsor throughout the state.

Methodists to Dedicate Lodge At Suttle Lake

The new lodge at the Methodist church's Suttle Lake camp will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p. m., with Clyde Williamson of the Bank of Albany, prominent church layman, as principal speaker.

Dr. Roy A. Fedje, Salem district superintendent of the church, said laymen of the state have been invited to participate in the program and to bring a picnic lunch to the camp, near the east end of Suttle lake on the Santiam highway.

The program will include music by a choir from young people attending the camp.

The lodge, built of lumber donated by eastern Oregon lumber firms, includes a dining hall seating 240, a social hall, kitchen, cook's living quarters and showers.

Dr. Fedje said the project culminates development of the camp
