

Vaudeville to Start Fete in Independence

Final plans were being completed Saturday for the Independence Hop Fete to be staged from Wednesday to Saturday this week. The annual celebration, managed this year by Gene Malecki of Salem will get underway Wednesday night at 8:30 in the high school gymnasium where a five-act Vaudeville show will be staged. The show will feature trick riding by Red Brandon of Hollywood, and his trick horse "Sparky." Sparky will wear rubber hoof coverings for the act to avoid damaging the floor. Other acts will be given by Hugh Aspinwall, known as the "singing troubadour"; Florence Polter and Susan Howell, accordionists, on a mythical musical trip around the world; dance routines by students of the Paul Armstrong School of Dance in Salem, and impersonations by Malecki, who will be master of ceremonies.

Thursday will be highlighted by the children's parade, starting at 7 p.m. on Main street, with more than 500 persons expected to participate. Salem Cherrians will be among many groups in this event. After the parade, the Salem Saddle club will give a riding and thrill exhibition at the high school field.

The event will end Saturday night with the Feista ball at the high school gym starting at 9 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Richard Dix and his eight-piece orchestra from Portland. More than $500 in prizes will be awarded during the dance. All proceeds from the Fiesta will be turned over to the Independence high school recreation fund, Malecki said.

Wheat Prices Dip on Board

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (P)—Cash houses didn't want wheat as much today as in the past few sessions, and, as a result, prices dipped on the board of trade. Most other grain contracts also were lower, although new crop corn deliveries rallied briskly in the closing minutes to end higher.

The indifferent attitude of cash houses was attributed to the fact that the commodity credit corporation, as usual on Saturday, was not buying wheat here. In the past few days the CCC's buying has been very large, causing cash houses to lift hedges in the futures market.

Wheat closed $\frac{1}{2}$ - $\frac{1}{4}$ lower. September \$2.25 $\frac{1}{4}$ -, corn was $\frac{1}{8}$ lower to $\frac{1}{4}$ higher. September \$1.80 $\frac{1}{4}$ -, oats were $\frac{1}{4}$ -, lower. September 71 $\frac{1}{2}$ -, rye was 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ -2 $\frac{3}{4}$ lower. December \$1.58 $\frac{1}{4}$ -, and soybeans were $\frac{1}{4}$ to 2 cents lower. November \$2.43 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Huge Camp Pendleton Proves 'Maze' to Marine Reservists

By Don Dill
Staff Writer, The Statesman
WITH SALEM'S MARINE RESERVISTS AT CAMP PENDLETON, Calif., Aug. 18—Salem's C battery, 104th 105 mm. howitzer battalion, will begin their second period of active duty training Monday after having a week and of liberty in which to see the sights of Southern California.

To most of the men from Salem, Dallas, Aumsville and other surrounding towns the most impressive thing about southern California is the dry, dusty brownness of everything. Camp Pendleton, about 55 miles south of Los Angeles, is nothing but barren, rolling hills covered here and there with patches of wild oats, sage brush or cactus. There is an occasional eucalyptus tree, but none of the cool, green groves such as abound here in the Willamette valley.

Reservists begin their on-duty hours at 5:30 a.m. when first call is sounded. From that time until 5:30 p.m. their day is filled to the minute with cleaning their quarters; marching to mess; standing inspection; attending classes on driving, handling 105 mm. howitzers or carbines; military courtesy; operating signal equipment; or doing personal chores such as washing clothes. Off-duty time begins after the evening meal and is taken up with reading, writing, going to movies or snack bars, or just resting.

Camp Pendleton is one of the largest military posts in the nation and its barracks, mess halls, theaters and other installations are spread out on a grand scale. To the stranger the camp is bewildering and one is easily lost. One private of C battery was to report to his mess hall for K. P. duty, but became lost and wound up on the detail of another mess hall some two miles removed. The poor lad was about to be disciplined for being AWOL when the mistake was discovered. Others have started out for the enlisted men's club early in the evening only to return to their barracks at closing time, 10 p.m., to report their mission a failure. They were congratulated on being able to find their way back to their barracks.
