Edith Moxley Married to John Miller on Sunday

All white flowers decorated the altar and chancel of St. Paul's Episcopal church Sunday afternoon for the beautiful wedding of Miss Edith Marie Moxley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bartruff Moxley, who became the bride of John Arthur Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller of Columbus, Ohio. It was at 4 o'clock that the Rev. George H. Swift performed the nuptials. Miss Ruth Bedford played organ selections before the bridal party entered and the wedding marches.

Bouquets of gladioluses and asters were arranged at the altar interspersed with white tapers in candelabras. The alternate brides were marked with clusters of gladioluses tied with white satin bows and just before the ceremony the ushers closed the aisle with satin ribbons.

Mr. Moxley escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. The pretty, brunette bride was a picture in her handsome gown of ivory tulle which she had made herself. The fitted bodice was made with long pointed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline with standup collar in back. A shirred band enhanced the waistline and extended around in back ending in two swirls. The full skirt, which was edged in a band of the shirring, was slightly train. Her fingertip veil of ivory flusion cascaded from a halo of bouvardia and stephanotis. She carried a bouquet of white speciosum lilies and bouvardia tied with ivory satin ribbon.

Proceeding the bride to the altar were Mrs. William Ean of Corvallis, and Mrs. James F. Bell of Portland, as bridesmaids, and Mrs. Richard L. Rides of Eugene, the matron of honor. They all wore identical frocks of Copenhagen blue faille taffeta designed with cascading, full, peg-top skirts and low necklines. In their hair were open crown wreaths of pink bouvardia and they carried cascade bouquets of rubrum lilies tied with satin ribbon. The honor attendants ribbon was of deep rose and the bridesmaids were of pink.

Attended the Groom
James Rownd of Columbus, Ohio, came west to stand with the groom as best man. Seating the guests were Gene Ealy of Columbus, James F. Bell, Richard L. Rides and William Ean.

For her daughter's nuptials Mrs. Moxley selected a honey beige sheer wool dress fashioned with bands of shirring at the hipline and a matching felt hat adorned with brown feathers and veiling. Her orchids were yellow and brown. Mrs. Miller, who flew west for her son's marriage, chose a cinnamon brown silk gown with double peplum, one of satin and a matching felt hat with veiling. Pinned to her gown were green orchids.

The newlyweds greeted their guests at a reception at the Moxley home on Mission street. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. Carl Nelson and Mrs. Donald A. Young. Cutting the cake were Mrs. E. T. Lake of Livingston, Montana, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. George Weiler. Assisting were Mesdames Hollis Huntington, George Rolander of Portland, William Shinn, William Duncan of Silverton, Mrs. Cath Brown, H. William McElhinny, Miss Florence Duffy and Miss Helen Zielinski.

Mr. Miller and his bride are driving south to San Francisco and Monterey, Calif., on their honeymoon and will return to Salem the middle of the month for a few days before going on to Columbus, Ohio to make their home. For going away the bride donned a grey suit, the full skirt a darker shade than the jacket, which was enhanced with smoke grey pearl buttons. Her

Women's Department

Handcrafts at State Fair Shown In Larger Quantity Than Ever

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Woman's Editor

Visitors to the women's department of the state fair are finding many changes in the arrangement, but familiarly in the exhibits themselves.

Again, as in many years past, the pieced and applique quilts dominated the show, being displayed completely around the large room, above attractive show cases of other handwork.

Aghans, crocheted bedspreads and tablecloths follow closely in numbers as well as space taken for display.

The weaving exhibits seemed small, from the interest in weaving shown in various communities throughout the state but they are displayed well. Embroidery continues year after year to be popular for entrants as well as those who view the show. Doilies, pillow slips and wall hangings predominate.

Crowds in the woman's building seemed to me to be unusually large, and the arrangement, with glass cases arranged around the room, with space in the center for those who sit and look, accommodates more than previously. But Salem day crowds completely filled the room.

One of the displays attracting special attention is the wedding party of dolls, placed just at the right of the entrance in including eight large figures. The display is owned by Mrs. R. G. Lacey of Kingwood Heights and clothes were designed by Mrs. C. D. Frazer of West Salem. The dolls are said to be 50 to 75 years old.

Standing in various spots about the room and viewing what sometimes seem to be uninteresting bits of work, we were struck with the fact that invariably an admirer will show up, and with exclamations of delight, point out following: Mrs. Cathryn Young, Mrs. Verna Marx, Miss Elva Boone, Janet Stevens, Shirley Lang and Bertha Picha, Mrs. Tom Baker, Mrs. Alvan Freeborn and son, Mrs. Al Vernon, Mrs. Guy Vaughan and Arlie Jean, Mrs. Lena A. Boone, Mrs. Claude Hickerson, Mrs. Emil Stevens, Mrs. John Freeborn, Mrs. Frank Picha, Mrs. John Vernon, Mrs. Stephen Hills, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. Florence Ragdale, Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mrs. Ernest Lettiken, Mrs. Nellie V. White, Miss Bertha Allen and the hostesses, Mrs. Dollie Picha and Mrs. Hewitt.

It pays to share the line

"Catching fish or using the telephone...it's just plain neighborly to share your line! I've found that being courteous is the best angle for getting good party-line service. And it's so easy to be a good neighbor...just follow these pointers..."

Party-line pointers

- Space your calls instead of making a whole series of them.
- If yours is an emergency call and the line is in use, explain the circumstances to the person using the line.
- If you are calling from a dial telephone, always make certain the line is clear before you dial.
- When the children use the telephone, ask them to be considerate, too.
- Replace the receiver properly when you finish your call.
