

Objections to Railroad Tunnel Proposal Heard by City Council

(Council news also on page 1.)
Strenuous objections to a proposed 13th street tunnel for Southern Pacific railroad's mainline were presented to the city council at its meeting in city hall Tuesday night.

Two letters from residents of the affected street and a third from the five doctors practicing in a clinic at 13th and Center streets decried the Salem long-range planning commission plan which has been accepted by the city as a working basis for negotiations with the railroad in an attempt to remove traffic hazards attendant to present mainline crossings.

The letter signed by Drs. Charles S. Campbell, Lewis D. Clark, Horace D. McGee, Maynard Shiffer and Robert F. Wolf stated: "We cannot allow this scheme to even approach reality without uttering a most vigorous protest. We will use every means available to us, legal and otherwise, to fight it."

The council last month had asked City Manager J. L. Franzen to call together railroad and civic officials to discuss the plan. Alderman David O'Hara, who served last night as mayor in the absence of Mayor R. L. Elfstrom, indicated the property owners' fears were premature, saying, "I doubt if this change will come within the lifetime of any of us here."

In other city council business Monday night: Renewal of lease, at $50 per month rent, was authorized for Mrs. Floyd Belt to operate a kindergarten in the Pringle park cottage, after she agreed to continue sharing the place with Boy Scout units. A spokesman for cub pack 17, Morse Stewart of the sponsoring South 12th street businessmen's committee, appeared to ask, instead, that the council limit use of the cottage to scout and other civic groups.

Blocking of North Winter street daily from noon to 12:45 p.m. was authorized in the block of St. Joseph's academy, to provide a play area for students of St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart academy, over the objection of Alderman Albert H. Gilie who said he feared the council was setting a precedent and believed the school had sufficient play area on its ground. Mrs. Donald Burke, president of the academy's Mothers club, appeared in behalf of the proposal.

City Manager Franzen reported policing of parking in the State-12th street areas would continue daily, but recommended again change in present parking limitations on one hour in the former and two hours in latter areas. A plan to prohibit parking on Fairground road and North Capitol streets near their junction from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. daily was dropped.

Street improvements placed on next year's list covered paving of Candalaria boulevard from Iowa avenue to Ben Vista drive and Hansen avenue from Liberty road to Doughton street.

Permission to reestablish business signs on plaques which have replaced old ones was granted Smoke Shop, Needham's bookstore, Price's and Mercon Shoe Co. Thirteen assessment ordinances to charge property owners for recent street improvements were enacted by the council.

Alfred L. Olmstead, Mill City, charged with reckless driving with minor involve and driving without operator's license; fined $100 on reckless driving count and posted $10 bail on latter charge.

Walter F. Hunter, 1185 S. Commercial st., violation of basic rule, fined $25.

The first Leslie student council meeting of the year will be held Tuesday. On the agenda will be a probable revision of the school award system and the creation of a "Minute Men" service organization.

By-Pass Route Petitions Get 1,000 Names

Petitions containing between 1,000 and 1,200 signatures of residents seeking a truck route to bypass Salem were turned over to the Salem traffic improvement committee in a meeting at the county courthouse Monday night.

The petitions will be presented by the committee to the state highway commission in the regular commission meeting in Portland November 3 and 4. Most of the signatures were those of residents living along North Capitol, South 12th and South Commercial streets, present through truck routes.

E. A. Roberts, committee chairman, also announced that he has received letters from eight organizations, requesting construction of a by-pass truck route, probably east of Salem.

Organizations joining in the movement are the Oregon Motor Transport association, the South Salem Progress club, the Salem Kiwanis club, the Salem Chamber of Commerce, the Salem Long-Range Planning commission, the Salem Women's club, the Salem school board and the Salem Lions club.

The 90 and 9 convention Monday was held in cooperation with the Oregon Christian Missionary society, sponsors of evangelistic work in the state.

Speakers during the all-day session were the Rev. Aldis Webb of Tillamook, the Rev. Hugh McCallum of Eugene and Hugh Olds, Lebanon, state president.

Two new committee chairmen were introduced Monday night in a meeting of the board of directors of the Marion county Red Cross chapter at Salem headquarters.

They are James Wiles, member of the accident prevention division of the state industrial accident commission, new chairman of the chapter's first aid and accident prevention committee; and Mrs. Gordon Shattuck, chairman of the college activities committee for Willamette university.

Included in reports read at the session was one from the home service department which stated that 194 persons received aid from the Marion county chapter during September with an expenditure of $543.87.

The board also reported that several local chapter members will attend the Junior Red Cross regional conference in Corvallis in October.

Mrs. Ernest Arneson, director of nursing service, gave an account of her recent trip through Norway and Red Cross activities in that country.

Secret Society Suspected in Assault Case
City police Monday were investigating the beating of two 14-year-old junior high school boys by a band of older youths Saturday night at Market and 20th streets, and officers indicated arrest.

McKay Urges Careful Planning For Healthy Economic Growth

More jobs for Oregon's continuing growth in population and careful planning to anticipate the problems of industrial expansion were urged Monday by State Sen. Douglas McKay in a talk on "The Future of Oregon" before Salem Chamber of Commerce.

He addressed a luncheon forum at the chamber dining hall in connection with a local observance of the centennial of the state's admission to the Union.

McKay asserted that major new industrial locations in Oregon must be accompanied by establishment of new small manufacturing plants and other businesses. He said eastern Oregon offers many potentialities in agriculture and manufacturing that must be tapped to build a more widely distributed economy for the state.

At the same time, McKay added, planning must be undertaken to avoid such problems of new industrial growth as slums, smoke and pollution.

McKay, a past president of Salem Chamber of Commerce, was introduced Monday by Mrs. Anna Morgan, president of the local Business and Professional Women's club. Other speakers' table guests of the club were Justice George Rossman, W. L. Phillips and Charles A. Sprague.

Mrs. Morgan also introduced officers of the Salem club. Mrs. Marion Wooden is chairman of BPW week activity and Susan Faherty headed the committee arranging the Monday program.

400 Delegates Attend Meeting Of 90-9 Group
About 400 delegates from all sections of Oregon attended the 12th annual state convention of the 90 and 9 men's brotherhood of the Christian church in Salem Monday.

New officers elected are Ike Bartell, Dallas, field and executive secretary; Edwin Dewees, Portland, treasurer, and S. B. Holt, Salem, budget director.

The budget committee reported that the organization's 1948-49 budget will be $12,000. The funds will go for support of six boys' camps being operated by the group in Oregon.

The 90 and 9 convention Monday was held in cooperation with the Oregon Christian Missionary society, sponsors of evangelistic work in the state.

Speakers during the all-day session were the Rev. Aldis Webb of Tillamook, the Rev. Hugh McCallum of Eugene and Hugh Olds, Lebanon, state president.

Police Join Hunt For Missing Girls
City and state police were asked Monday to search for two teen-aged Salem girls who have been missing from their homes and Parish junior high school since October 5.

They are Pearl Mae Overton, 13, daughter of Mrs. William Dunlap, 1760 C st., and Pearl Lea Adams, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Adams, 1145 N. 15th st.

On the day of their departure, the girls left notes for both parents informing them they were running away from home.

Guns Stolen, Cash Ignored

WEST SALEM, Oct. 11—Two new guns were the only items stolen Saturday night in a burglary of Wink's place, 558 Edgewater st., police Chief W. H. Porter reported Monday.

Entry was gained by prying open the window to a restroom. Cash and other items were not disturbed, Porter said. The guns were a .22 calibre Savage repeater and an L. C. Smith 12 gauge double-barrel shotgun. The place is operated by E. J. Winkenwerder.

Halleck Visits WU Fraternity

U. S. Rep. Charles Halleck, republican majority leader of the house of representatives, was a guest Monday night of Beta Theta Pi fraternity at Willamette university.

The Indiana congressman, a member of the fraternity, has been in Oregon several days and was featured speaker at the week-end republican convention in Portland.

A resident of Rensselaer, Ind., and a lawyer, Halleck was first elected to the house from the second Indiana district in 1935. He is also a member of the American Legion, Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Phi.

Pair Held on Check Artistry Charges for District Court

Kenneth A. Moore, Portland, charged by police with cashing about $2,700 worth of worthless checks in Salem and Portland recently, was bound over to the grand jury in district court Monday on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Lou W. Howard, Jefferson, was also bound over on a charge of attempting to cash a worthless check on a Salem store. He was arrested here Saturday. Both men are being held in the Marion county jail in lieu of $1,000 bail each.

Moore was arrested by city detectives Saturday in a downtown hotel. A total of $500 worth of lot, including a Colt .22 automatic pistol and two rifles were recovered from the room, police said.

He is charged with cashing a fictitious check at Howard Maple's Sporting Goods store, 372 State st., in payment for a deer rifle. Another check cashed by Moore, police said, was in payment for the Colt automatic pistol.

Meanwhile Monday, city police arrested Eugene Braucht, a clerk at Barb's Sporting Goods store, 175 S. High st. Both purchases were made last week.

Braucht is charged with selling a gun to a person not having a permit. He was cited to appear in municipal court at 8:30 this morning.
