

Keizer Men Ready Basement for Church

When a floor, partitions and a temporary roof are added, this basement will serve as a meeting place for Keizer Community church, until the structure can be completed next year. The congregation now meets in Keizer grange hall and hopes to move to this Churchdale avenue site within a few weeks. Shown here working are (kneeling) Ted Crews, 250 N. 23rd st., and (standing, left to right) Lee Wiens, pastor, 1980 Hazel ave.; John Manittson, 250 N. 23rd st., and Hugh E. Adams, 4090 N. River rd. Work Speeded on Community Church Structure at Keizer

KEIZER, Oct. 12—Hopin to begin services there by the end of October, volunteer workmen of Keizer Community church are speeding basement construction at their new church building. With a temporary roof to be erected, the basement will be used by the congregation until the rest of the structure can be completed next year.

The 42 by 88-foot basement, plus furnace room, will include an auditorium, nine classrooms and a kitchen. The walls and flooring will be finished before the move is made from the present meeting place in Keizer grange hall.

The work is being superintended by Pete Harms, who employs three carpenters, and volunteers from the congregation, according to Lee Wiens, pastor. Hugh Adams represents the church trustees in the project.

The new building site, on Churchdale avenue two blocks west of North River road, was donated by Frank Evans. Begun as a Sunday school under the American Sunday School union, the unit was organized as an independent and non-denominational church in December, 1946. It now has an average attendance of 90 persons and a Sunday school enrollment of 150.

How an injured cable calls for help

1. Here's the "ear"—an electronic ear called a low insulation alarm. It listens for underwater cables to signal they're in trouble. Right now the meter shows something's happened... perhaps a sharp submerged rock has cut a cable... and vigilant telephone men using another testing device locate the break that may be miles away.

2. On the job fast, a repair barge grapples for the cable and lifts it from its underwater bed... guided almost to the exact spot by the distant test center. And the moment the break was discovered, other telephone people in the Traffic Control Bureau set up emergency routes to make any delay on your calls as brief as possible.

3. At top speed, skilled workmen splice in a new section and the cable is soon back in service. Although there are hundreds of underwater crossings in the West, such emergencies are infrequent. But telephone people are on the job 24 hours a day to keep your telephone ready to work for you any time you need it.

4. When you make a telephone call, you hire a valuable servant for low wages... a more useful servant than ever before. It can do more jobs, run more errands. For today there are twice as many telephones in the West as ten years ago. Thousands more go in each week. And each new phone added makes your telephone that much more useful.
