Model Projects Put on Display

Two models of future projects for Salem, as prepared by the long range planning commission, are now on display at the Salem Chamber of Commerce office.

Cased in glass, one model shows a proposed new intercounty bridge entering Salem on Division street, overpassing Commercial street and turning into Liberty street.

The other display shows a proposed state buildings area extending north from the capitol between Court and Winter streets, with buildings as far north as Union street facing an open park area block extending from the present sunken gardens.

Measures at Issue Nov. 2

LIQUOR-BY-THE-GLASS Yes 314, No 315

Permission for hotels, restaurants, clubs and common carriers of passengers to mix and sell alcoholic liquor by the glass, with or without meals, would be granted an initiative measure proposing amendments to Oregon liquor control act.

Known as the liquor dispensing licensing act, the proposal provides for licensing of such establishments at $500 per year, with all liquor used to be purchased from the state liquor commission, at a tax of 25 cents per container. Bonding at $5,000 would be required. The liquor commission, through state stores, now controls all sales of hard liquor, handled by the bottle only. Present club licenses enable the customer to buy a bottle from the state store, check it at the club and pay a service charge in return for mixing of drinks from that bottle. Service of liquor is now prohibited on public passenger conveyances within the state.

The proposal is aimed at "furthering the temperate use of alcoholic liquor," according to its sponsors, the Oregon State Federation of Labor and Portland hotelmen. They say it would "simply eliminate the necessity of purchasing a bottle" and be hard blow at bootlegging.

Denial that the liquor producers and handlers are interested in decreasing consumption of liquor is voiced by the bill's opposition. They declare that it would make every licensee's establishment a possible saloon. that it would make liquor more readily available and that it would hurt the ban on sale of liquor to minors, who are now denied legal access to licenses.
