Chapter Has Birthday Luncheon

Chemeketa chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held its 33rd birthday luncheon Saturday afternoon at the Gold Arrow. During the program, Miss Ola Clark told an interesting story of the efforts of the charter members of the chapter leading up to its organization and first meeting in November of 1915 held in the Thielsen home.

One of the gavelts presented to the chapter by Henry Meyers contains four strips of oak from the old Concord bridge and walnut from the first walnut tree planted in Oregon. Another gavel, made from wood from the old battleship Oregon, was presented to the chapter during the regency of Mrs. C. A. Sprague. During the 33 years Chemeketa chapter has been active in many civic and national projects, among which was its cooperation in the building of the log cabin at Champeog national park. One room was furnished by this chapter.

One of the projects completed just recently is the "Mortality Schedule" in Oregon from 1850 to 1960. This project was started by Mrs. Alexander J. Berger, national chairman of genealogical records in 1944. Mrs. C. A. Ratcliff, a former regent of Chemeketa chapter, has headed a group of project. Copies have been sent to the Oregon state library and to the national headquarters of the DAR. Mrs. Ratcliff also told that as a result of this research she compiled an historical manuscript which is headed by a group of historical sketches in a book edited by Helen Krebs Smith, "With Her Own Wings." Mrs. Ratcliff attended an autograph tea a week ago given by the Portland Federation of Women's Organizations in the Oregonian Hostess House.

As state chairman of radio, Mrs. M. A. Pekar reminded members of the DAR semi-monthly programs, the 1st and 3rd Mondays of the month at 2 p. m. over KOAC. The 15th birthday broadcast will be "The Ewing Young Oak," given by Mercedes J. Paul of Newberg.

The next meeting of Chemeketa chapter will be December 4. This is guest day and an Indian program is being arranged by Mrs. Herbert J. Johnson, chapter chairman of American Indians.
