Rites Today for Ruth Menard

FOUR CORNERS, Nov. 16—Funeral services for Ruth Menard, resident of Dee, Ore., will be held Wednesday, November 17, at 1:30 p.m. from Clough-Barrick chapel with burial at Belcrest Memorial park.

Born in Tacoma Sept. 7, 1905, she attended school in Tillamook and was graduated from high school there in 1921. She was employed by Botts and Winslow there before her marriage. She was married July 15, 1928, to John T. Menard, who survives, as do her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gould of Salem; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Gould Hardt of Lebanon and Mrs. Jean Gould Cochran of Grand Coulee, Wash.

The association did not suggest whether it favored joint U. S.-Canadian government financing for the project over the costly route.

Congress was asked to appropriate $150,000,000 to place the nation's idle merchant fleet in operating condition as a national security measure.

Congress was also asked to appropriate more funds for development of hydroelectric power in this region. The group suggested that appropriations be made on a continuing basis until power needs of the region are met.

Earlier the association was told by private power men that the only possible source of new power—until McNary dam is completed—would be in small dams constructed by private utilities.

Light Clothes at Night Urged

These pictures show why Secretary of State Earl T. Newby has emphasized the importance of wearing light clothing on stormy nights, to reduce the accident toll. Those attired in the lighter clothes are visible many yards before those whose clothing blends too much with the darkness, and drivers have a chance to avoid striking them. The boys, left to right, are Roger Weaver, 225 Park ave., and Darrell Lunda, 685 Thompson ave. The girls—well, they are the wives of Statesman staff members who also aided in illustrating the point. Newby pointed out recently that 81 pedestrians wearing dark clothing were killed by autos during 1947, while only six persons attired in light apparel lost their lives. (Statesman photos).

Western Rail Line to Alaska Wins Backers

PORTLAND, Nov. 16—A railroad linking the U. S. and Alaska through British Columbia and the Yukon Territory was advocated here today by the Pacific Northwest Trade association.

Economic development of the northwest portion of the continent would be accelerated and the nation's arctic zone defenses in Alaska bolstered by the rail route, the group reported.

The term "fifth column" was first used in the Spanish Civil War of the 1930s.

Yearly County Births Double In Eight Years

Births in Marion county doubled from 1939 to 1947 (from 1,350 babies to 2,700), and the increase is starting to have a marked effect on the Salem school system, City School Superintendent Frank Bennett told Salem Kiwanis club Tuesday. He said there were 142 more students now in the first grade than in the sixth.

The superintendent, pointing out that the increase would make more and more necessary the additions of classrooms and teachers, also stressed that it had been proved that communities with the highest levels of education were the most prosperous.

Also on the Kiwanis program was the presentation of a certificate to the club's 1947 president, Guy Hickok, for outstanding service, and a red ribbon to Phil Schnell, current president, in recognition of the club's sponsorship of new Kiwanis units. The presentations were by Ivan Norris of Tillamook, Kiwanis lieutenant governor.

Prof. Ronald Lush of Salem College and Academy introduced his school's "Hungry Six" who provided music. They included Jerry Friesen, leader; Dennis Mikkelson, Lee Duerksen, Dick Zeller, Evans Starkey and Leon Short.

Grace Gilliam, Former State Employee, Dies

Grace Gilliam, cashier in the state treasurer's office from 1932 to 1935, died Saturday in Pilot Rock where she had resided since retiring. It was learned in Salem Tuesday.

Miss Gilliam, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Gilliam, Oregon pioneers, was born in Pilot Rock. As a young woman she taught school in Umatilla county and was county treasurer in that county prior to moving to Salem in 1935.

After retiring in 1935, Mill Gilliam remained in Salem for two years before moving to Pilot Rock where she made her home on the old family homestead with her sister, Mrs. Ella McBroom, and her brother, Elmer Gilliam.

She was a member of the Methodist church and attended the First Methodist church in Salem and was also active in the Salem Professional Women's club. Surviving besides her brother and sister are two other sisters, Mrs. Hadden Agnew of Pasadena and Mrs. Guy Howe of Portland. Funeral services will be announced later.
