Thanksgiving Day Finds Salem Bound for Church, Dinner Table

HIT hasles A. Seraque

The people of the United States celebrate Thanksgiving day in a time of unrivaled prosperity. The farms and orchards have yielded bountcously over the land. Mines and forests have been generous in their outpouring of resources for man's use. Factories have operated full blast; people and goods have been transported in great miracle of America, as will their fellow countrymen over the land. Some will be in mighty and beautiful eathedrals, others in the quiet of their homes before a festive table. Others will troop to small country or village churches such as the classic Oak Grove church shown above - - its doors open to all who believe in and give thanks to God. The Oak Grove church, located in the Oak Grove community about 10 miles northwest of Salem in Polk county, is one of the early ploneer churches of this region. Except for flickers of a few moments' duration the electricity was off from 5:12 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. when repairs to the line were completed.

West Salem, drawing the bulk of its power from Bonneville through the Salem Electric cooperative, was darkened at the peak of the evening rush hour. Hardest hit by the failure were the food markets, where pre-Thanksgiving sales were slowed by the failure. Traffic lights were also off causing some confusion to home-from-work drivers.
