

Clayton Wood Wins Albany 4-H Corn Show

ALBANY, Nov. 25 — Clayton Wood, Albany route 2, was named champion 4-H corn exhibitor at the Bank of Albany corn show this week. With the honor goes a 4-H summer school scholarship for 1949.

Winners besides Wood in the Willamette, Newberg, Chehalis soil type classification were in order, Ted Wilkinson, Albany route 2, Beverly Boyle, Crabtree, Jimmy Gorman, Crabtree route 3, and Barbara Haight, Albany route 1.

Winners in all other soil type classifications were, in order, Jerry Giesel, Lebanon route 2, Ernie Smith, Albany route 2, George Davis, Shedd, Gail Bates, Scio route 1, and Roy Liess, Scio route 1.

Twenty-seven entries in the show were judged by Dr. R. E. Fore, farm crops department, Oregon State college. Dr. Fore stated that quality of exhibits was very good considering the adverse weather conditions experienced by corn growers this year. Each club member entered grew one acre of corn this year. Seed for the project was provided through the courtesy of Hymen's Riverside gardens, Albany, and Harley Haskins, Lebanon. The exhibit will continue through Saturday.

GRENADES IN GUATEMALA

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Nov. 25 —(AP)—The government said tonight it had discovered a "Clandestine factory of hand Grenades" and arrested the owner and his wife. Seventy-seven finished Grenades were confiscated.

Reservations for Young Republican Conference Grow

Indications of a good attendance at the state young republicans convention in Salem next week and 35 institutions, State Chairman Steve Anderson said Thursday.

Besides Young Republican club members from several Oregon counties, an Idaho delegation is planning to attend the December 3-5 meeting, Dean Kloepfer of Burley, Idaho, national vice chairman of Young GOP, probably will be here for the sessions.

Two new committee chairmen are at work on convention plans, said Anderson, including Max McMillin of Silverton, heading the 35 institution and by-laws committee, and Jack Schoppert of Salem, reservations.

Democrats to Resubmit 31 Nominations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 —(AP)—Nominations of 31 persons for various federal posts in Washington, Oregon and Alaska on which the last senate took no action are expected to be re-submitted when the new congress meets in January.

Return of the democrats to control of the senate makes it fairly certain that the nominations will be sent back to the senate by President Truman.

Two Washington men named for the public advisory board under the foreign assistance act were not confirmed. They are Eric A. Johnson and Albert S. Goss.

At the same time the republican senate failed to act on the nomination of Jack R. Campbell as United States marshal for Oregon.

The senate did not confirm 16 postmasters in Washington and five in Oregon.

Oregon postmaster nominations not confirmed were: Ardis E. Bradley, Astoria; Farley J. Elliott, Bend; Victor C. Black, Dallas; Joseph Omin, Jr., Gold Beach, and Loyal E. Smith, Sherwood.

Deserted Pups Now Ready For Adoption

Seven puppies, found with their mother in desperate circumstances on a Hubbard road several weeks ago, are now ready "for adoption," it was announced Thursday.

The three females and four males are at the Silverton road farm of Ervin A. Ward, Marion county dog control officer. Ward found the dogs, apparently abandoned with their mother during freezing weather, on a country road near Hubbard.

The pups are brown and white and appear to be a mixture of collie and spaniel. They are about four weeks old. The mother will be returned to her owner who told Ward she was stolen from him nine months ago. Ward said he was trying "to find a good home for the pups."

Moral: Support Civic Projects

ASTORIA, Ore., Nov. 25 —(AP)—Several years ago Farries F. Kennedy was one of the most active campaigners in a drive to get a fire department water rescue car.

Last night Kennedy, 64-year-old contract electrician, fell into the Columbia river at the Van Camp cannery. His companion, Ed Beveridge, leaped into the icy water to save him.

The two clung to a piling until a passerby heard them. The water rescue car came and firemen pulled them out.

Group Plans to Sell Auditorium Idea to Salem

Plans for a pro-natal program to "sell" the civic auditorium plan to the community will be discussed at a general meeting of the Salem Memorial Auditorium association Friday at 8 p.m. in Salem Chamber of Commerce, Rex Kimmell, president, reported Thursday.

The five advisory committee chairmen for the new year will be elected at the public meeting. Joseph B. Felton, chairman of the nominating committee, will report the candidates for chairmen for the legal, location, building, finance and publicity committees.

Serving as chairmen of these advisory committees for the past year have been: W. H. Baillie, building; Col. Philip W. Allison, location; Sephus Starr, finance; Allan Carson, legal; Marian Lowry Fischer, publicity.

Wreck Blocks Rail Travel

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Nov. 25 —(AP)—A passenger train struck the rear of a derailed freight train near here tonight delaying all southbound passenger traffic out of Washington, officials of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad said. They said no one was hurt.

Ten of twelve cars of a northbound freight were derailed at Massaponax two miles south of here at 8:10 p.m. and the southbound Atlantic Coast line East Coast Champion ran into the cars, officials reported. About 300 feet of track was torn up and the railroad estimated it would take five or six hours to clear the tracks.

The engine of the southbound passenger train was knocked off the track by the impact with the derailed freight cars.

Willamette U. Debaters Tie

Willamette University tied with Southern California for first place Thursday in the senior men's debate event at the Western Speech association tournament in Seattle.

More than 300 students from 27 western colleges took part in the tournament.

Other Willamette university winners included junior men's debate, tied for first with Pacific university and senior men's impromptu, Robert Sayre, first.

Starting to Swim Young

ROSELLE, N. J., Nov. 25—Six-month-old Ariene Atwater shows her mother, Mrs. Harold Atwater, of Roselle, N. J., how a future Olympic champion floats. Ariene began her swimming career in the bathtub, then the bathtub and graduated to the Elizabeth, N. J., YMCA pool. Mrs. Atwater believes Ariene will be swimming skillfully within six months. Holiday Fare Featured at Institutions

Holiday fare was order of the day for state institutions in Salem Thursday, with Thanksgiving turkey dinners a feature.

In addition to festive meals, special entertainment was provided at most of the institutions.

Few pupils remained at the state blind and deaf schools here, as those with homes not too distant left for the weekend.

The state hospital served 3,600 pounds of roast turkey with appropriate trimmings, and followed the meal with entertainment. The state penitentiary used 2,200 pounds of turkey for its holiday meal, following a morning entertainment show.

A puppet show and movie were among entertainment features at Hillcrest girls' school. The state tuberculosis hospital had an evening show.

Most of the food for the holiday dinners at institutions was produced on state farms.

Civil Service Positions Open

The U. S. civil service commission announced in Salem Thursday that applications are being accepted for positions as junior professional assistant, junior management assistant and junior agricultural assistant.

The examinations for the jobs, the commission said, are of particular interest to college graduates and seniors because they offer an opportunity to begin a career in a variety of professions. The openings are in Washington, D. C., and other federal offices throughout the nation.

Further details may be obtained at the federal civil service commission office in the Salem post office building.
