Air Scout Unit Elects Leader

Robert Chivers has been elected president of the Salem Air Scout squadron in an organizational meeting, it was announced Saturday.

Other officers elected are William Roper, secretary, and Richard Mitchell, treasurer.

The squadron announced it will start construction of a relief map of the Willamette valley area, showing all mountains, rivers, airways, airports and navigation aids. The unit also made tentative plans for a ski trip in the middle of January and voted to spend this week's meeting with Salem Exchange club to help repair toys for Christmas presents.

Gardening Today

By Lillie L. Madson

The big thing on this week's garden calendar is, of course, the Salem Garden club's Christmas Greens show. This will be held Monday afternoon and evening from 2:30 to 9 o'clock with a brief 2 o'clock meeting of the club preceding the show. The place is the Salem Woman's clubhouse at 460 N. Cottage and the show is open to everyone.

There is no charge but there will be a silver offering (with punch or tea) to defray expenses of the show. Edith Schryver is chairman of the show and Mrs. R. E. Cartwright is co-chairman.

Speaking of Christmas greenery—the American Association of Nurserymen has a new deal this year which has considerable merit. The plan was announced first last year, but has been further developed in 1949. It offers a time and effort saving solution for Christmas shoppers if they have any gardeners on their lists. You obtain a gift certificate (of course you have to pay for it) from your nearby nurseries identified by the association's insignia, and then you can mail it to any part of the country where it may be redeemed at any time the recipient wishes and for anything in the nursery line for the amount of the certificate. This way he can select the type of nursery plant material he prefers, that does best in his locality and at the time of the year he wishes to plant it.

The certificates themselves are designed to resemble a stock certificate. The plan is in effect throughout the year and is ideal for birthdays or holidays other than Christmas.

During the week I went "window shopping" in local stores which carry garden materials. In one, I noted a most attractive shelf of garden books. Included were "Camellias" edited by Mary L. Sharp and sponsored by the Oregon Camellia society. It sells for $4.50. Then there was the "Sunset Flower book" at $2, and the "Sunset Flower Arrangements" for $1.50. These may also be had at Salem book stores at the same price. Also don't forget the "Western Flower Arrangements" by Carl Starker.

For the friend with the small greenhouse there are the soil heating units at from $6.50 to $27, each including a thermostat. Roses, I found, came nicely boxed, easy to wrap, with tops dipped in wax and roots enclosed in peat moss and wax paper. Both the patented varieties as well as the old favorites were being offered at prices from $1.25 to $2.50. The display of bulbs is quite pretentious with some lovely rubrum ones, grown in Salem's vicinity, selling at around $1.25.

The feathered friends of the gardener are not forgotten either, as very fussy birdhouses and bird feeders are being offered by at least one garden store at $2.25. Of course if you are handy with tools these could be made and really do make a very attractive and acceptable gift to anyone who has a birdhouseless tree on the lot.

Camellias and azaleas can be picked up at the garden stores at no exorbitant price. I found some very attractive ones ranging from $2.15 to $5.35. A Mikenzaku, two feet tall and with 11 flower buds was offered for $3.75. And if you want to be very utilitarian there are always air-tight containers of various sprays and dusts — which might be a hint to a neighbor who does not spray his garden and whose pests frequently move over into yours — (if you have such a neighbor).

Tulelake, Cal. to Lag Hour Behind State

TULELAKE, Calif., Dec. 4 —(AP) This northern California city will run an hour behind the rest of the state starting Monday.

Unable legally to abandon California's daylight saving time, businessmen will open and close establishments to conform to standard time schedules in nearby Oregon. The schools already have made the change.

Leever Named Division Chief of Power Company

ALBANY, Dec. 4 — Charles R. Leever, Portland, is new Willamette division engineer for the Mountain States Power company, the company announced Friday.

Leever's appointment was confirmed Thursday in a meeting at the company's Albany office. His appointment, the company said, was made necessary because of the firm's current expansion program.

Leever was graduated from Oregon State college in 1928. From 1929 to 1943 he was assistant division superintendent for the California-Oregon Power company in Klamath Falls.

Since receiving his discharge from the service in 1945 he has operated an auto supply store in Portland.
