Elks Minstrels To Make Debut Monday Night

Old time minstrel techniques plus slapstick innovations—that is what the Salem Elks club's zanier-than-ever charity shoe promises when the houselights go down on opening-night Monday at the Elks auditorium.

Frank Zinn, dean member, and man and director for the 1948 performance, is the constant guardian of the Stephen Foster negro harmonies and honored minstrel traditions. He promises audiences, Monday through Thursday a genuine minstrel show with slapstick for hilarious spice.

Everything from Shakespeare to Olson and Johnson is included in this year's all Elk production, balanced around the minstrel theme.

A chorus of 30 voices and a 10-piece orchestra will back up Mr. Interlocutor Charles Claggett and end men Frank Zinn, Wesley Stewart, Harry Brown and D. D. Craig. The Elks quartet of Lawrence Alley, Boyd Babbitt, Norval Edwards and Ralph Caley will add to the comic musicale. Dr. Charles A. Howard will be the announcer.

Tickets for the performance may be purchased at Needham's book store and the Elks temple. Proceeds from the show go to the annual lodge Christmas party and gifts for the needy.

Franchise Petition Suit Dismissed

Portland General Electric company's suit seeking a court judgment to invalidate initiative petitions to give Salem Electric an unlimited franchise was dismissed Saturday morning to Marion county circuit court.

The complaint was filed against city, county and state officials before the general election and asked that a declaratory judgment be issued by the court to declare the petitions illegal. Salem voters approved the initiative franchise in the general election.

The action was dismissed by Judge George Duncan on the request of PGE.

License Plate Act Prepared

Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry Saturday was completing a bill for consideration of the 1949 legislature permitting issuance of permanent automobile license plates.

Newbry said such a law, if approved by the legislature, would save the state a large amount of money annually in the purchase of license plates and result in the employment of fewer clerks in the state automobile division during the licensing period.

Merchant Patrol Agency Formed By Three Brothers

Inauguration of the Salem Merchant Patrol and Property Protection agency by three Salem brothers, all with police experience, was announced Saturday.

Operators are Harley, Thurlow and Charles E. Cordray, 2560 Cherry ave. Harley Cordray is on the Salem city police force now and will not be engaged in the patrol activities. The agency now has one car and will soon have three, it was announced. One vehicle will have auto-telephone in order to provide escort service for night depositors. The service includes an hourly check, from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m., of subscribers' properties, including business houses and homes whose owners are vacationing.
