

Rococo, a term used to describe a type of European art which began early in the 18th century, is derived from the French word, rocaille, which designated artificial grottoes and rock arrangements of the gardens at Versailles.

Seen and Heard...

By IERYME ENGLISH

FOR NEW YEAR'S . . . Headed south on Tuesday will be Secretary of State and Mrs. Earl Newberry, who will spend New Year's in San Francisco at the Palace hotel and attend the East-West game . . . Their daughter, Shirlee, will spend the holidays in Ashland with her former school friends . . .

Also bay bound will be the Duane Gibsons and W. Frank Crawford, who are driving down to San Francisco on Wednesday . . . They plan to spend ten days in the bay city with headquarters at the Sir Francis Drake hotel . . . they also have tickets for the East-West game . . . before returning home the four plan to go further south for a sojourn . . .

Mrs. and Mr. Alfred Montgomery and coed daughter, Nancy, will spend New Year's eve in the mural room of the St. Francis hotel . . . They leave Thursday by train.

At the Empress hotel in Victoria, B. C., for New Year's eve will be Janet Bower and Mary White, who head north on Thursday . . . they had planned to drive in Mary's new club coupe, which arrived in time for her Christmas surprise . . . but due to weather conditions the trip will be by train . . .

TRAVEL TIME . . . for many the new year means trips abroad or following the sun south . . . Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Fry, jr., leave January 3 by plane for New York City and then for a four months tour of Africa and into the interior . . . Enroute they will make stops in Portugal, Lisbon and down the coast to Johannesburg . . . From there they will travel by river boat, train and car to Cape Town and into the interior . . . then on to Egypt with trips to the famed battlegrounds at Tunis, Algeria and Libya . . . The Frys will fly back to Spain for a several weeks stay before returning to the states in May . . .

Headed . . . for South America for the fifth year on January 3 will be the C. L. Criders of Dallas . . . They are most fascinated with the country and each year pick a different country to visit longer . . . this year it will be Peru and they will sojourn at beautiful Lake Titicaca . . . The travelers will make the trip by plane, as they have other years, and will stop enroute at Los Angeles, Mexico, Panama, Guatemala and Costa Rica . . . The Criders have made the trip so often that the hotel managers give them warm welcomes . . .

WEDDING ECHOES . . . A bride of the Christmas season was Maryana Bollinger, who became Mrs. Reed Vollstedt a week ago . . . The First Congregational church the setting . . . filled with guests, many from out-of-town . . . and dozens of the couple's college friends from Oregon State here for the occasion . . .

A flurry of excitement . . . when the bride's veil caught fire from the candles as she walked down the aisle . . . but put out immediately by one of the guests . . . even the minister and groom starting to come forward to the rescue . . . Maryana and Reed both speaking their vows clearly and not the least excited . . . Again at the reception her veil just missed the candles on the bride's table as she walked past to cut her cake . . . but Reed rescued the veil from the flame this time and held her veil back . . .

The reception . . . the Chi Omega house the setting . . . hardly room for the several hundred guests to move . . . but we managed to get through the crowd to the "ining room" . . . the bride's table all in ice blue satin with an off-center arrangement of white carnations with pink tapers and blue satin with tiny silver bells caught at the corner of the cloth . . . a white and silver iridescent cloth on the punch table . . . with Francis Wade pouring until the servers arrived . . . Adorable were the twins, Jackie and Jane Vollstedt of McMinnville, who passed the dream cakes, also wrapped in blue paper . . . Jackie wore a white suit and Jane's blue dress was of ruffled marquette . . .

Welcome home . . . for Mabel Robertson, who has been in Europe since summer, and attending her first wedding of the season . . . also greetings to Edward and Betty Porter, who have been living in Portland . . . Betty has completed her nurses training and after a much needed vacation, will be practicing . . . Barbara Smith, a Chi Omega, came up from her home in San Mateo, Calif., for her sorority sister's wedding . . . and she was the lucky catcher when Maryana threw her bouquet from the stairway . . . Lots of rice when the couple left speeding away in their new car, all decorated with streamers, soap, and tin cans . . .

DECORATION NOTES . . . The entrance way to the Daniel Fry home flanked with two white trees to which are tied apples and spotted with flood lights . . . Christy Cooley's pale pink Christmas tree decorated with fuchsia lanterns, grapes and other fruit and tied with chartreuse bows . . . the decorator her mother, Mrs. Richard L. Cooley . . . Mrs. Robert Gornsen decorated her son Paul's tree with red balls and white paper doilies . . . Mrs. Frank Turner's tree is of built as and bows . . . a silver tree with red and silver buttons and red cellophane bows . . . When Barbara finished decorating her daughter, Linda, turned around and said, "Now let's decorate the real tree."

Mrs. Walter Kirk's stunning mantle edged in cedar garlands . . . also the mirror above garlanded . . . at one end a large glass vase filled with gay Christmas balls and adorable gold angels and white and gold tree at the other end . . . altar candles for light . . .
