C-97s Considered For Duty on Airlift

WIESBADEN, Germany, Dec. 25—(AP)—Cargo planes with capacities more than double that of the C-54s now in use are being considered for the Berlin airlift, Air Secretary Stuart Symington said Friday.

Symington told a news conference the project calling for the replacement of C-54s with the huge C-97s might take two years—indicating the United States is prepared to carry on the airlift that long, or longer if necessary.

Lions Clubs Request Road Improvement

STAYTON—Improvement of the Stayton-West Stayton road is being sought by the Stayton Lions club which voted in the meeting Tuesday evening to have the secretary write a letter to the Marion county court requesting the improvements.

In bad shape for several years, the road is narrow and winding and is in need for general improvement. Shoulders need widening and leveling too.

The road is an important link between Stayton and the Southern Pacific railroad at West Stayton and is also heavily traveled during the summer by farmers taking their fruits and vegetables
