100,000 Trees End on Trash Pile

Upwards of 100,000 Christmas trees will end up on the trash pile this week end, George Spaur, deputy state forester, declared Friday. He said one-sixth of the trees harvested would be left either in the woods or unsold on the corner lot.

Financial loss to tree operators was estimated at more than $250,000. An estimated 600,000 yule trees were cut in Oregon this year.

The forester said this figure was a decrease in the waste over the past five years.

PORTLAND TRAFFIC DEATH

PORTLAND, Dec. 24 (AP)—John A. Fenton, 70, was killed by an automobile at an east side intersection here Friday. It was the city's 51st traffic fatality of the year.

A 1783 volcanic eruption in Iceland resulted in the loss of 53 per cent of the island's cattle; 77 per cent of the horses, and 82 per cent of the sheep.
