

Jordan Garden Club Convenes

STAYTON—Hostess recently to Jordan Garden club was Mrs. Daisy Farmer. Mrs. Lois Fitzgerald presided over the business meeting. Each member gave a New Year's resolution in response to roll call. Plans were discussed for sending gifts to the Children's Farm home at Corvallis with details to be taken up at the next meeting. Bess Phillippi was a guest from Scio Garden club.

A paper on African violets was given by Mrs. Fitzgerald. Several specimens of the violets were on display. Mrs. Fitzgerald won the door prize. Mrs. Venus Standley displayed some pottery. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The club will be guests of Mrs. Nellie Sandner in February.

Linn County Fire Patrolmen Inspect Newest Methods

SWEET HOME—Mel Crawford and Phil Knight, key men with the Linn County Forest Fire patrol, with headquarters here, returned Saturday from a tour of inspection of patrol stations throughout southern and western Oregon.

The object of the tour was to learn different methods of fire fighting and forest preservation used in the districts visited.

The Linn county patrol is one of the first organizations to fight a forest fire in the state. It was formed through the influence of the late M. J. Nye, who as a young man went to work for the Hill interests in Linn county. Nye, with a handful of men, fought the first forest fire near Cascadia. From that day the Linn organization has grown into one of the best and well equipped organizations in the state. Many lookouts dot high view points, which, during the dry season, are manned by experienced men.
