EENT Clinic Moves into New Medical Center

Things will still be unsettled today, but the new eye, ear, nose and throat clinic at the Salem medical center on Center street is open to its patients. Shown above is a view of the new building housing offices and clinics of Drs. M. C. Findley, L. O. Clement, W. W. Baum, W. N. Thompson, and T. H. Dunham. Getting files and records in shape are, left to right, Mrs. Gervaise Elliott, 1113 Jefferson st.; Mrs. Margaret Moorman, 1065 Dietz ave.; Mrs. Louise Robertson, 781 N. Winter st.; Mrs. Mary Hoover, 1487 Broadway st.; and Mrs. Anna Mae Swink, rt. 7, box 423F. (Statesman photo).

Third Clinic Building Open In New Center

Third and last of the cheerfully colorful new clinic buildings on Center street will be in operation today, with the eye and ear clinic treating patients. The two-day job of moving from temporary quarters in the Nelson building was finished Friday.

The clinic, which comprises Dr. M. C. Findley, Dr. L. O. Clement, Dr. W. W. Baum, Dr. W. N. Thompson and Dr. Thomas Dunham, was in the Guardian building until that burned in November, 1947. They now have the central of three structures near Salem General hospital.

The one-story brick building includes, around a central office and waiting room, suites for each doctor, including combinations of treatment - examination rooms, refraction rooms, offices, and waiting rooms. Sections to be used in common are the X-ray equipment, hearing testing, surgery and orthoptic. The clinic's department for finishing and fitting glasses is also included.

The building, designed by Lyle Bartholomew of Salem and erected by A. A. Stewart of Salem, features varied pastel colors in decoration, to aid the effect and efficiency of natural and artificial lighting.

The clinic was begun in 1914 by Dr. Findley and the late Dr. B. L. Steeves.

Other clinics already in the area are those of Dr. Carl W. Emmons and John R. McNicholas and of Drs. Kenneth F. Power, W. E. Buren, Vern W. Miller, S. M. Lancefield, A. T. King and Winfield Needham. P. D. Quisenberry has opened a pharmacy in a nearby building, but not the coffee shop in the same structure.

Schmitz Hit by Bale of Hay; Injures Back

Charles E. Schmitz, 765 N. Cottage st., is confined to his home with a severe back injury suffered several weeks ago when he was hit by a bale of hay. This was the information given members of the Salem Credit association Friday noon in explanation of Schmitz' absence from the luncheon meeting.

Schmitz is manager of the Salem Credit bureau, and secretary of the association. While injured several weeks ago, the injury did not incapacitate him until the last few days, Katherine Rempel, assistant manager for the Salem office, said.

Schmitz was unloading a truck load of baled hay when one bale slipped. As Schmitz attempted to right it another bale fell on top of him, Miss Rempel reported.

State Authorizes Sale of Timber

The state land board Friday authorized the sale of 2,398,000 feet of timber in Douglas county, based on competitive bids with the minimum price fixed at $6 per 1000 feet mill scale. Approximately 125,000 feet of timber involved in the sale is pine and the remainder yellow fir.

2 Men Fined for Reckless Driving, Liquor Involved

Two Salem area men were given heavy fines in municipal court Friday following their arrests earlier on charges of reckless driving, liquor involved, and driving while intoxicated, and two others were held on similar charges.

Harry Ernest Young, Molalla route 2, was fined $200, sentenced 30 days and driver's license revoked for one year on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was booked for reckless driving, liquor involved, but the charge was later upped.

First of three drivers arrested on charges of reckless driving, liquor involved, was Kenneth Earl Griffin, 1017 Seventh st., West Salem. He was fined $250 on the driving charge and pleaded innocent to charges of illegal possession of liquor. The fine grew out of an accident involving five cars at Commercial and Ferry streets Thursday night.

Ted T. Kightlinger, 925 N. Winter st., and Milton Parker, 990 N. Winter st., posted $200 and $250 bail respectively on charges of reckless driving, liquor involved, following their arrests early Friday morning.

SALEM HIGH SCHOOL
An interschool debate will take place February 1 when Paul Collin's Albany debate team will meet Salem high debaters here. The debates will take place in U. S. History and American Problems classes throughout the day. The national high school debate topic to be used for the event is: Resolved, that the United Nations now be revised into a federal world government.

Albany's team will be seven 2-man teams to be met by various Salem high debaters in preparation for the Linfield Invitational tournament to be held February 10, 11 and 12.

ENGLEWOOD SCHOOL
Englewood first graders in Mrs. Sadie Grant's room have been entertained lately by watching little Junco eat on the feeder outside their classroom window. Some pupils made the feeder and put suet, birdseed, a pan of sand and grit and a pan of water on it. Eight or ten birds visit the feeder every morning.

Tara Lana was a recent winner in the Art Award contest over the KOAC program "Land of Make Believe."
Last week, Englewood school completed its drive for the March of Dimes. The total amount raised during a session of modeling Friday by student representatives was $97.65.

WEST SALEM JUNIOR HIGH
Names of students in West Salem junior high whose grades qualified for the high honor role were announced this week. Seventh graders are: Karen Johnson, Suzie Platt, Raymond Utterback and Richard Dickerson. Eighth grade: Barbara Culbertson, Ann Gallaspy, Robert Penzer, Louise Owens and Keith Johnson. Ann Ritchie and Wayne Simmons were on the ninth grade list.

"B" averages or better were made by: Gloria Gale, Darlene McCain, Pat Ramsey, Sandra Shaw, Betty Zysset and Donald Van Hess, all of the seventh grade. Nautilus and Phillip Richie in the eighth grade, Dan Phillips, David Fartsch and Peter Kilger of the ninth grade.

All candidates for the school's student body offices must now have at least a "C" grade average or better before their petitions are accepted.

HIGHLAND SCHOOL
Rabbits and other animals were featured in a recent assembly program presented by first grade students in Nola Clark's Highland class.

The "rabbits" were Janis Albada, Judy Lee Gardner, Jerry Kronser, Joe Chapman, Sandra Badgett and Ronald Jones. "Our Big Book" was read by Carol George, Jackie Coulson, Sandra DeKett, Sharon Throneberry, Ronald Jones and Wayne Simmons. Reading was announced by Judy Lee Gardner.

Musical games were given by Saundra DeKett, Darrell Allison, Carol George, Janis Albada, Jackie Coulson, Sharon Throneberry, Ronald Jones, Robert Phillips, Eddie Evenson, Judy Lee Gardner, Janet Mathistad, Kathleen Brady, Janet Thomas and Sandra Badgett.

The musical story "The Basket House" was also given as well as two choruses by the entire class. Joe Chapman and Kenneth Stull were stage helpers for the program.

Chicago Court Dismisses Suit Of Albany Man

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(AP)—The suit of an Oregonian who sought $90,000 damages from the Southern Pacific railroad was dismissed today because the judge thought it should not be tried here.

"These cases have been clogging our court calendars and materially interfere and delay the progress of other cases," said Superior Court Judge Samuel B. Epstein.

The Southern Pacific does not run to Chicago, and is represented here only by a business agent, M. J. Hart of Albany, who lost a leg in a switching accident in Oregon in 1946, was able to bring suit here because of a law permitting such actions at any place the railroad does business.

The judge, however, said that while Hart could bring suit, the court could—for reasons of convenience—refuse to hear it.

The railroad had asked dismissal, saying it was difficult for 14 defense witnesses to travel 2,300 miles to testify in a Chicago court. The judge said an influx of such cases into Chicago "commenced in 1941 when an enterprising group of lawyers saw the possibility of personal profits from the importation of them."

said that in the past four years its school population had doubled, its total population more than doubled and its birthrate more than tripled.
Most smaller towns stand in need of outside help in the matter of sewage disposal plants, costs of which would be prohibitive for the individual towns. The greatly increased burden of expenses in school buildings and additional teachers also cannot be met by many communities, he said.
The realtors will not meet next Friday noon, February 4. The group's annual banquet will be held at the Marion hotel beginning at 6:45 p.m. on that day. A "social hour" will precede the dinner beginning at 6:15.

William Goodwin, immediate past president of the Salem board, was awarded a fountain pen by members Friday noon for his "outstanding service" while in the chair.

Dallas Recruit Office Opens

DALLAS, Jan. 28—(Special)—Establishment of a full-time army and air force recruiting station here added a metropolitan touch to fast-growing Dallas this week.

Sgt. Thomas W. Bond has been assigned to the station and Thursday established headquarters in the Selective Service office on the second floor of the Church street armory. He will recruit throughout Polk county, making regular trips to post offices in Independence and Monmouth. He said he would travel to other communities in the county in response to inquiries, and would be available part of each day at the Dallas armory.

Sgt. Bond has been in the recruiting service two years and came here from Pendleton. His wife will join him here.

Postmaster Roy Black said he believed it was the first time a permanent recruiting station had been located here.

Realtors Hear Rep. Geddes Of Roseburg

Two major problems of small cities in western Oregon—sewage disposal and school expansions—will probably receive attention from the state legislature but not all of it will be favorable.

Rep. Paul Geddes of Douglas county told the Salem Board of Realtors Friday noon in the Marion hotel that most eastern Oregon legislators seemed to be lukewarm to such problems. As most indicated that some system of state aid or state loans would be necessary.

Pointing to his own home town of Roseburg as a typical example of a mushrooming town, Geddes
