

Miss Janice Muyskens A Bride

Before a spring setting of snapdragons, carnations and heather at the First Baptist church Saturday night Miss Janice Muyskens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Muyskens, became the bride of Douglas Coe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Coe. The Rev. Lloyd Anderson performed the nuptials and Mrs. Anderson was the organist. Lighting the tapers were Jack Muyskens, brother of the bride, and J. Darrell Muyskens, her cousin.

Of ivory satin was the bride's gown, designed with a sweetheart neckline enhanced with seed pearls, long sleeves and a train. A seed pearl tiara held in place her fingertip length tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Mr. Muyskens gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Marjorie Coe, sister of the groom, was the honor maid and bridesmaids were Miss Mildred Coe and Miss Mariana Morrison of Wendell, Idaho. The honor attendant wore pink. The bridesmaids wore in orchid taffeta frocks. They were all made identical with full skirts, low, rounded necklines and short sleeves. They wore matching mitts and carried nosegays of violets.

Loren Lottis was best man and groomsmen were Ray Nash and Philip Phipps. Ushers were Stuart Sharpnack, Harold Smither, Roy Hamilton, John Goffrier and Keith Gwynn.

Mrs. Muyskens attended her daughter's wedding in an almond brown crepe gown with darker brown accessories and Mrs. Coe chose an aqua wool suit with black accessories for the rites. Their corsages were of pink carnations. The newlyweds greeted their guests at a reception in the church parlors. Mrs. Thomas Sim cut the cake and Miss Alta Davis presided at the coffee urn. Mrs. Lee Cross was in charge of the dining room and serving were the Misses Gloria Kay Muyskens, Audrey Merrick, Doris Dierks, Sylvia Stillman, Carolyn Davis and Marilyn Broer. Miss Ellen Reynolds passed the guest book and Mrs. Roy Hamilton was in charge of the gifts.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Salem. Following away the bride donned a green wool crepe suit with brown accessories and a gold bracelet, a gift of the groom.
