

Seen and Heard...

By JERYME ENGLISH

MOVING NOTE . . . Leaving this month for Korb, California (near Eureka) will be Mrs. George W. Barnes and daughter, Linda, who will join Mr. Barnes in the southern city, where he had been since late fall . . . Mr. Barnes is now associated with the Northern Redwood Lumber Co. at Korb . . . he formerly was logging manager for Polk and Talbot Inc. . . . The Barnes hope to sell their South 23rd street home. George already having found living accommodations in the southern city.

SOON TO VISIT . . . are the John Arthur Millers (Edith Moxley), who were married here last September . . . Since their wedding they have been at Orient, near Columbus, Ohio, living in a darling country home. Edith arrives Wednesday and John will fly out around the 20th to be here during his spring vacation from Ohio State university . . . He is studying for his exams . . . the two will then return to Ohio the end of the month . . . The Millers will be at the home of her parents, the Fred B. Moxleys, who have lots of things planned during their daughter's visit.

HEADED SOUTH . . . next weekend will be Charles Barclay, who is driving down to Palm Springs to join his wife, Mary Jane, and two children, Gregory and Laurie, who have been sojourning in the sunny south with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Simmons, the past two months . . . The four Barclays will return to Salem around the 20th of the month . . .

TALK OF THE WEEK . . . given by Mrs. Lewis Stanley of Portland, a former Salem resident, who spoke before two groups relating fascinating tales of life in Afghanistan, where she has been for two years with her husband, who was with a construction company . . . Mrs. Stanley and son followed him to Afghanistan, going by way of Cairo . . . Hardly any white women are in the country and often, Mrs. Stanley was the only white woman around . . . She brought several native costumes and vests, which were modeled by the club women . . . A social custom in Afghanistan, according to Mrs. Stanley, is never to drink more than three cups of tea or less . . . as one or two cups would show the natives you didn't appreciate their hospitality . . . and the hosts never drinks with her guests . . . Mrs. Stanley brought back lovely gifts such as brass dishes, silver coffee cups and a bracelet, which dated back to the time of Alexander the Great . . .

Wedding customs . . . The Afghan women don't like it when their men leave for the states to study or on business and then marry American girls . . . the native women make it pretty rough going for the American brides . . . So most families try to arrange marriages before the men leave for the states . . . Mrs. Stanley was a guest at an Afghan wedding . . . she was a friend of the groom and he wanted his bride to wear an American dress . . . So he could see one, Mrs. Stanley found a wedding dress in a Young's Gown shop ad in one of her Oregonians . . . and the groom had his bride's dress made from the picture in the ad . . . All guests at the wedding must wear a stain of henna clay on a finger, which is then wrapped and tied in a silk cloth.

WHO WILL BE QUEEN . . . of the Civics club carnival? . . . Certainly the outstanding event at Salem high school each year is the carnival and much anxiety among the girls until the princesses are selected . . . The queen's identity kept a secret until that night . . . The "big night" this year will be March 25 . . . and several days before the princesses (17 in all) will be introduced at a student body assembly . . . The girls are all scurrying about looking for presentation formals and they will be escorted by a man of their choice . . .

Introducing the princesses . . . Betty Bangert, tall and dark haired . . . Joan Barnes, regal looking, a brunette with dark eyes . . . Virginia Benner, brown hair, blue eyes and five feet three inches tall . . . Brunette Shirley Clark is blue eyed and only five feet two inches high . . . Jean Clement is known for her tiny waist and turned-up nose . . . Dolly Davidson is a trim five feet three inches tall with bright hazel eyes and dark brown hair . . . The program for the Club Woman's half hour broadcast over KOAC Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock will be a round table discussion on "World Affairs" to be led by Charles P. Schleicher, professor of political science at the University of Oregon.

Hanna Rosa Court, Order of the Amaranth will meet Monday at 8 o'clock for initiation.

but . . . spring is about to come, now that cabbage plants are on sale 'most everywhere, but we won't know for sure about the season's change until the onion sets appear at the seed store, grocer's, 5 and 10, drug-store and grocery shop.

Changing world . . . You know, it used to be that the grocer sold groceries, the drug-store drugs and you'd go to the theater to see a show. Now you go to the meat man for phonograph records, drugist for dime novels, garage for children's toys and the movie for popcorn.

Cheap stuff . . . one of our reporters arrived at work Friday, with the dazed look of an amnesia victim. He'd heard strange noises in his head while coming in on the bus, in the stores and all along the street. He's all right now, we assured him it was the real thing, since one of the stores gave away 10 baby chicks to every customer, and little cockerels tucked away in purses, pockets and paper bags all over the place.

Hard times . . . We got to wondering what the fish markets in Portland are wrapping their merchandise in these days. Now that's really a critical condition.
