Banker Alois Keber Retires At Mt. Angel

MT. ANGEL, March 4 — The friendly, familiar face of Alois Keber will no longer greet patrons of the Mt. Angel bank, for on March 1 he retired as assistant manager. He spent 42 years in the banking business, 32 of them in the Mt. Angel bank.

He began his banking career in the State Bank of Madelia, Minn., his home town, in 1907. After four years there, he migrated to Oregon and accepted a position as cashier of the state bank in St. Paul. In 1917 he came to Mt. Angel and became assistant to his brother, Joseph J. Keber, cashier of the Mt. Angel bank. When the bank became a branch of the United States National bank of Portland in 1933, he was made assistant manager.

On Monday, his last day at the bank, Keber was presented with a wrist watch as a token of appreciation and remembrance by the bank staff.

Keber has taken an active part in civic, church, school, political and social life. He has been city treasurer for many years, and a republican committeeman for East Mt. Angel precinct.
