

New Tenants Announced for Trading Center

Occupancy by business firms of the new retail shopping center on North Capitol street took another step this week when several new tenants were announced. Two major chain stores coming here include Hughes Ladies Apparel store and Owl Drug company. The apparel store is slated to open for business next September in a building to be constructed on the Marion street side of the center. The drug company will occupy a building at the North Capitol and Center streets corner of the project. Other tenants reported Tuesday by George H. Grabenhorst, who has handled transactions between owners and tenants, include Emma K. Haley, who now operates the Oregon Beauty Salon; Kennedy's Cleaners, and a barber shop. All will be in the 76,000 square feet Sears, Roebuck & Co. building, now going up. The project is owned by the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company. It will offer parking space for about 490 cars.

Giant Cosmic Ray Cyclotron Makes Debut

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 29—(AP)—Striking new knowledge for mankind was promised today at the dedication of the giant new cosmic ray cyclotron of the University of Rochester. The promise was made by Dr. Lee DuBridge, president of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, Calif. "The plain truth," he said, "is that no one can predict the practical results. If you are expecting the cyclotron to yield the design for a new and more powerful atomic bomb you are almost sure to be disappointed. Other possibilities, but unsafe to predict, he said, are new nuclear power plants (atomic power plants), a cure for cancer, or a trip to the moon. He added: "What this cyclotron will certainly do is just one thing—it will yield to the skilled physicists who work with it, new knowledge about the behavior of the structure and the characteristics of nuclei. And sooner or later this new knowledge will have striking, important and valuable uses to men." The cyclotron is the world's second largest.

Union Meeting Halts Tacoma Phone Service

TACOMA, March 29—(AP)—Disciplinary suspension of 34 Tacoma Telephone workers who participated in the five-hour walkout of 1,000 employees early today led tonight to threats of an area-wide "disruption of service." This morning's work stoppage which began at 8 a. m. and continued until 1 p. m. was for the purpose of holding a meeting to discuss the failure of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company to reach an agreement on a new wage contract, Higgins said. The phone company immediately ordered 34 men to return home, describing the step as "disciplinary action against several employees who were instrumental in promoting the walkout. A decision will be reached later on the severity of punishment, company officials said.

Dairy Co-op Meets Opposition In Proposal to Serve Silverton

SILVERTON, March 29—Mayflower Dairy Co-operative's application to extend delivery services to Silverton and Mt. Angel met stubborn opposition from the city council and chamber of commerce in a hearing here Tuesday morning. The two groups came to the defense of DeGuire's Dairy which is now sole fluid milk distributor in Silverton. The milk control section of the state department of agriculture, with Melvin J. Conklin as examiner, conducted the hearing. E. J. Keller of the co-op defended the application which states that Silverton and Mt. Angel are the only Marion county communities in which the co-op does not now have a license.

Letters Presented
The co-op presented letters from 18 Silverton people expressing dissatisfaction with present milk distribution in Silverton and asking for extension of the co-operative. Of these 18, four names also appeared on the 300-name petition presented by DeGuire expressing complete satisfaction at the present delivery here and adding the statement that the signers felt "there is no necessity for other dairies in the town."

Appearing on the witness stand for the co-op were Gene Foster, fieldman for the dairy; Silas Torvend and James Phillip, farmers, who pointed out that approximately 100 farmers in the Silverton trading area are members of the co-op it "isn't exactly an outside industry"; Will Henry, co-op manager; Mrs. Joe Stanton, housewife, who said there had been a shortage of milk in Silverton at various times during the past year.

Wiesner stated that his reason for appearing was that DeGuire "gave that personal touch to his service which only a small producer can do in a small town and which is the real heart of the small town." He added that his committee had been out in an effort to obtain additional small industries for the town and keeping "those we have seems a sensible idea."

Personal Touch

Parade Ousted As Feature of May Week End

A joint meeting of the student council and faculty student affairs committee on the Willamette campus Tuesday voted to eliminate the downtown May day parade as a part of May Week and festivities April 29 to May 1. The action was taken because of a crowded week end slate in Salem at that time and because of the expense involved in erecting floats. In further action taken on May Week end plans the group decided to limit the drama department produced play to one presentation, Friday night at Salem high school, and to change the inter-fraternity and inter-sorority singing contests to inter-living organization contests. This will allow students residing in Lausanne, Baxter, Laurel and Frederickson halls to participate in the contests.

Portland Tax Plan Revised

PORTLAND, March 29—(AP)—Commissioner Ormond R. Bean today revised the section of this city's proposed income tax that applies to business. A tax of 1/2 of 1 per cent on wage earners' income is proposed. The ordinance will be presented to the city council Thursday. A public hearing was scheduled for April 4, after the Portland retail trade bureau entered a protest against the proposal.

Solon Claims Dam Profiteers In Northwest

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—Rep. Jensen (R-Iowa) told the house today that "Wall street operators" are out to take big profits from expansion of public power facilities in the Pacific northwest. He called for a congressional investigation. His intimation in a speech on the interior department appropriation bill was that these "operators" hoped to sell private facilities to the government at inflated prices.

Jensen suggested that among those who ought to be questioned at a public hearing are former Gov. Mon Wallgren of Washington, Paul J. Raver, head of Bonneville power administration, and Guy C. Meyers, whom he identified as a "Wall street financial operator." Jensen has long been a foe of public power projects. Jensen said he has correspondence revealing that the Bonneville power administration "is deeply involved in political shenanigans and is contributing to the enrichment of a group of Wall street promoters and Wall street holding companies at the expense of the federal taxpayers and of the power consumers of the state of Washington."

At the beginning of this year, Jensen said, "Guy Myers and his hungry heeled loaders with swag bags moved into the Capitol building at Olympia, Washington, and lobbied through a law which would legally permit" the sale of the Puget Sound Power and Light company to a public utility district in Skagit county, Washington. The house adjourned for the day without acting on the appropriations bill.
