GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

"See!... the lights go on in the kitchen AFTER we leave... I told you they were selfish with their refreshments..."

Your Health

There is an infection of the beard called barber's itch and neglected, gradually spreads to other parts of the face covered by the beard and, after a period of years, the skin becomes shrunken and has a faint yellowish color. The pustules continue to develop. Persons with with disorder of the scalp and loss of hair in the eyebrows.

Hollywood On Parade

By Gene Handsaker

HOLLYWOOD Latest luxury in Hollywood house design? The alarm goes off, you throw open your second-floor master-bedroom window and inhale the orange-scented California air. Then you wriggle into your swim suit and plunge out the window, down a slide, into your swimming pool. Father Williams and husband Ben Gage are discussing with an architect the feasibility of such a gadget.

The kitchen will be an innovation. A bunk in a corner alcove will be for Ben to slouch on and peruse the evening papers while Esther prepares dinner on the servants' day off. There'll be easy chairs in the kitchen and a table with conventional chairs. Also a corner fireplace that is really a common fireplace with one in the adjoining dining room.

The kitchen will be their "keeping room," which in old New England was the family living room. "A good name," Esther says. "Keep the family together." Her baby is expected in August. Their New England farmhouse at Pacific Palisades will have a view of the Los Angeles city hall. Or will on days when wind blows the smog away.

Lou Costello is the traditional funny fat man who slips on the banana peel, but he has had to sacrifice a little of his money-making weight. He was up to 202 and felt puny. Now, by avoiding bread, butter, potatoes and desserts, he's down to 184 and says he feels great. "I'm not gonna sacrifice health for a career," Lou claims. "He and Bud Abbott, currently cavorting through 'Abbott and Costello Meet the Killers,' look forward to playing London's Palladium for four weeks, starting the last week in August. Afterward they plan to visit the town, near Naples, where Lou's dad was born. They'll be supposed to raise money for transforming former U. S. army barracks into a recreation center for kids.

Starting sight: Burt Lancaster beating the daylight out of Paul Henreid for a scene in "Rope of Sand." Burt didn't really hit him, but the camera angle will make it look like it. And when special-effects men turned on the wind machine, blowing up an indoor sandstorm, you'd have sworn it was really happening, as it's supposed to in South Africa. Or at least near Yuma, where the company went on location.

"I kept telling you to sell this house with a Statesman Want Ad!"

"They'll Do It Every Time" By Jimmy Hatlo

Who is it? You can smack that ol' beat-up rock you've used for two years, right down the middle.

But, where does that brand-new $2.99 super-duper model you just bought go? You guessed it...
