Safe Recovered from Luckiamute River

DALLAS, April 22—The arrest of four young men in Sacramento, Calif., apparently has solved the case involving the theft of a safe and $600 from the Y cafe at the junction of the Dallas highway and Independence road on April 13. Shown here (top left) is the spot in the Luckiamute river south of Independence from which the safe was recovered. At the right, Sgt. Avon Mayfield of the state police points to marks on the rail over with the safe was thrown. Lower right shows Deputy Sheriff Tony Neufeldt looking at the place where the safe was kept in the cafe, and at the lower left is the safe itself after being battered open. (State-man-Abel photos.)

Police to Bring Back for Trial

Sgt. Avon Mayfield of the state police and Tony Neufeldt, Polk county deputy sheriff, left Salem Friday for Sacramento to return four men who reportedly admitted stealing the safe from the Y cafe at the Dallas-Independence junction April 13. The four waived extradition Friday.

The quartet, Charles Gepner, Salem; Otis Langley, and Jasper and Douglas Samuel Boyington, will be returned to Polk county to face charges of burglary. The two officers plan to return from Sacramento with the men Monday.

Millmen Union Negotiating With Operators

Negotiations between members of the millmen's union, Salem local 1411, and about 14 local employers over a wage dispute are continuing and strike possibilities were pushed into next week at least, it was reported here Friday.

According to F. D. VanSweringen, executive secretary of Salem Building Trades council representing the millmen, a wage increase of 17 1/2 cents per hour is sought by the workers.

At a meeting Thursday night the millmen voted to strike if a "satisfactory wage agreement is not negotiated soon." No date for the strike was set, said VanSweringen, and the 300 millmen were still on the job Friday.

Members of the millmen's union are employed by local firms engaged in cabinet-making, door- and window-finish, and manufacturing and other finished lumber work. Their present wage scale is $1.45 per hour for unskilled labor, $1.60 for semiskilled and $1.77 1/2 for skilled.

The union's contract expired March 1 and has not been renewed yet, said VanSweringen. Negotiations, he said, will be carried on in Portland between union officials and James M. Scudder, attorney, representing the employers.

Seabee Pay Status Raised

Seabee reservists of the Salem area are on expanded pay status through organized CB company 13-9 here, it was announced at the unit meeting Friday night at the navy armory.

Navy department orders were received authorizing 48 paid drills per year, instead of the present 12. Weekly Friday night meetings will begin May 6.

Twenty reservists comprise the unit now and there are vacancies for about 20 more, officers said. Reserve enlistments will be accepted in grade which the Seabee held upon separation from the service.
