Schoolhouses Discussed at Teachers Meet

MONMOUTH, April 30—(Special)—More than 750 Oregon educators, principals, and teachers attended the annual conference on elementary education at Oregon College of Education Saturday. Dr. Charles R. Bursch, director of school-housing for California's department of education, was featured speaker.

Modern trends in use of the school plant demand further integration of the use of school buildings to further social and cultural activities in the community, Dr. Bursch declared. He detailed several striking illustrations of modern design of schools.

Dr. Bursch had an example of the latest in school design in OCE's brand-new $120,000 primary unit. Dr. Rod Langston of University of Oregon challenged the assembled educators to break away from "rigid cultural patterns and free little children to live a fuller life than we have known."

Dr. Langston declared that full use of modern learning techniques would do more to prevent a third world war than all the pacts and peace treaties ever signed. He was introduced by Mildred Kane, vice president of the Oregon Society for Childhood Education, and a member of OCE faculty.

President H. M. Gunn welcomed the visitors. Other speakers included Dr. Ray Faulkner of the arts department of Stanford university, with a collection of natural-color art slides. Several demonstrations were given in varied fields.

Police Pilots to Fly to Nevada

Five members of the Salem police force and four other flying enthusiasts will make a flying good-will jaunt to Reno and Carson City, May 6-7-8, it was announced Saturday.

Making the trip in four private planes will be Detective Leonard Skinner, Patrolmen Harley Corray, Joseph Schuetz and James Hammack, Radio Operator Clive Scott, Paul Woodroff, Ernest Porter, Charles Hansen and Steve Calvelage. The planes will be piloted by Scott, Woodroff, Porter and Hansen.

It will be the second good-will jaunt to Nevada for members of the Salem department. A similar flight was made last year. They will take letters from Governor Douglas McKay, Mayor Robert Elstrom, City Manager J. L. Franzen, and Police Chief Clyde A. Warren to the respective officers in the Nevada cities.

Hits Hydrant; Fined $25

Smashing over a fire hydrant and stop sign at Donna avenue and Portland road cost John A. Kainz, 737 Center st., $25 in fines in municipal court Saturday.

Kainz was arrested after a newsboy who had witnessed the early-morning accident gave information to the police. Kainz said he understood he had 24 hours in which to report the accident, when asked why he hadn't notified police.

Gasoline Sales Up 5% Over Last Year

Gasoline sales in March of this year were up 5 per cent over a year ago after showing declines for three consecutive months. Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry reported Friday.

Gross taxes of $1,785,663.04 were paid on 35,713,261 gallons.

Despite the March gain revenues from this source for the first quarter are still 4 per cent under last year as a result of severe January and February weather conditions, Newbry said.
