Protection for Players Asked

By Gayle Talbot
CINCINNATI, May 3—(AP)—Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler gave Leo Durocher a clean bill of health today and demanded that every baseball club in the country take immediate steps to protect its players from the abuse of fans.

In less than two hours, Chandler found there was not sufficient evidence to indicate the New York Giants' manager had "deliberately assaulted" Fred Boysen, a fan of Puerto Rican descent, after a game at the Polo grounds last Thursday.

"Under the circumstances, the suspension against Durocher is lifted immediately and Durocher will rejoin his team on Wednesday, May 4th," Chandler announced.

The commissioner took a belt both at club owners who have not properly policed their parks and at fans who have abused the athletes.

There is ample evidence," he said, "that the Polo grounds was not properly policed on the afternoon of April 28th, or Fred Boysen would not have been permitted to move about in the box seat section, for which he had no ticket, and to hurl insulting language, which he directed at Durocher principally, and would not have been on the field at the conclusion of the game.

"Fair play demands that vicious name-calling by fans, in the direction of players, be not indulged in. Ball players have a right to protection from unwarranted abuse."

President Horace Stoneham of the Giants, beaming at the quick acquittal of his peppery little manager, promised the situation would be rectified immediately at the Polo grounds.

Durocher, having paid what he earnestly hopes is the last of numerous trips to Chandler's office here just sat and relaxed and drank milk after the ordeal had ended.

In New York, Benjamin H. Chasin, attorney for Boysen, upon being informed that Durocher had been cleared, said: "That's good." He declared, however, that he will proceed with the prosecution of Durocher on a simple assault charge. The reinstatement he continued, will have no legal bearing on the law case.
