BPW State Convention To Open

Most honored of the many guests will be Judge Sarah J. Hughes of Dallas, Texas, national first vice president. Judge Hughes will arrive in Salem this afternoon by plane at 3:39 o'clock. She will speak over KSLM Saturday afternoon at 2:15 p.m.

Today's program includes registration at the hotel at 11 a.m., executive board luncheon at the hotel at noon, with Mrs. Arthur Weddle, Salem state president in charge, a 1 o'clock pre-convention board meeting and 4 o'clock sessions of the resolutions, rules and credential committees.

A "Gypsy" dinner is set for the chamber of commerce at 6:30, followed by a fun session at the armory.

Saturday's activities will be the 8:30 formal opening of the convention with Mrs. Weddle presiding, and Salem members, Mrs. Mabel Clock, Mrs. Charles Forrester and Mrs. John Versteeg, participating. During the 10 o'clock session, general order of business will be accomplished, with the report of the nominating committee being one of the important pieces of work. Polls for election of officers will be open at noon.

Saturday's International relations luncheon will be held at the First Methodist church at noon, followed by a business meeting.

A formal banquet will honor Judge Hughes and is set for 6:30. Because of limited space, the banquet will be held at the Marion hotel and at the American Legion club, and the program will be at the armory. A reception will follow.

At 8:30 Sunday morning new officers will be installed at the breakfast at the Marion hotel. Luncheon will be served to retiring and incoming officers at Nohlgren's and an excursion will be taken to Silver Falls.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Make the vibration test to see whether your voice is sounding more shrilly than you may think it is!

Sometimes, in the case of exceptional women, it's a little difficult to put your finger on just what her special charms are. It's never difficult, however, to put your finger on the uncharming qualities of any person. For instance, when a woman's voice is unpleasant, everyone is aware of it instantly. The ears of all those around her protest their discomfort. Her silence is welcomed heartily.

When Shakespeare said, "Her voice was ever gentle, soft and low, an excellent thing in a woman," he was speaking for the whole male population. There is nothing more annoying to the male contingent than a shrill voice. The louder it gets, the shriller it gets—and the more annoying. But fortunately shrillness is something to which no woman need resign herself. It is easy to correct.

What Causes Shrillness
Shrillness is caused by the improper placement of your voice. You've heard people who sing through their noses. You don't like to listen to them either. One type of shrillness comes through speaking through your nose. Naturally your voice must rebound in all your head cavities. When you speak correctly you bring the air up through your throat. It then vibrates past your vocal cords into your head, but it must finally come out of your mouth.

It's very hard to actually hear the way you sound to others. Besides, you are accustomed to the way your voice sounds to yourself, which makes it hard for you to judge it. I'll show you a little test for your voice placement right now that will tell you immediately just how nasal your sound!

Make This Test
Press your index fingers to either side of your nose. Now say the letter "p." Say it several times. Do you feel a vibration under your fingers?

You do? Then you're wrong. You're placing your voice incorrectly. It's not rebounding back from your head and out your mouth but coming through your nose.

There's only one time you should ever be able to feel vibration in your nose. That's when you are saying m, n and ng. Try saying them. Now you must feel a very definite vibration. It almost tickles.

If you will practice saying a, b, c, d and then m, n, ng with your fingers pressed to your nose about twenty times a day you'll learn to take all the nasal shrill out of your voice. You'll be able to recognize the difference between correct and incorrect vibrations. You'll begin to let your voice flow out of your mouth.

The Powers Girls have named this exercise "The Taming of the Shri!" It does, too!

AVOID ELEVENTH HOUR FRENZY!
That's what the Powers Girls call it when you fail to do your nails, you hair, your clothing care, on the right day. Then you are frenzied at the last minute. They avoid it, and you can too, by following a definite program during the week. There are certain days best for each grooming activity. I'll send you my "Calendar for the Fastidious" free of charge if you will write me in care of this magazine and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. Send for your calendar today and follow the schedule of the Powers Girls.

On Etiquette

By Roberts Lee

- Q. Should the host and hostess always provide new decks of cards for a bridge party?
A. Yes, always, and for a poker party, too. To throw out a soiled, delapidated deck of cards would be about the same as if the host were unshaven and wearing a soiled, wrinkled shirt.
- Q. When riding in an automobile with other passengers, has one the privilege of opening a window for his own comfort?
A. Not without first asking the consent of the other passengers.
- Q. What is the most popular hour for a luncheon, whether formal or informal?
A. One o'clock.
