THE ART WORLD

An unusual exhibit is planned for the Elfstrom Galleries to be hung from May 25 to June 11. The show will be of the work of art teachers in the Salem schools, and was arranged through the office of Miss Margaret McDevitt, supervisor of art in the public schools.

Art teachers who will exhibit are Ruth Sitlinger, Salem high school, Leona Galz, Parrish, Opal Hennings, Leslie, Robert Voight, Parrish, and Margaret McDevitt.

There will be a variety of media, oils, water color, pastel and pencil. Interpretation is varied, according to the management of the galleries.

A show of work done by other teachers in the schools, other than art instructors is being planned for later in the year and the work of teachers in the grammar school may be included in the later show.

In the meantime the exhibit of manuscripts is still on display. These manuscripts are the illuminated pages done by artists of the period of 1200 to 1400 A. D.
