

A.P. Giannini, Bank Combine Founder, Dies

(Picture on page 1)

SAN MATEO, Calif., June 3-(AP)—Amadeo Peter (A.P.) Giannini, who rose from boy produce peddler to head the world's richest bank, died in his sleep this morning. He was 78.

Founder and chairman of the big Bank of America, Giannini died at his San Mateo home, "Seven Oaks." He had been ill for nearly a month with a cold. Doctors said the illness put too much strain on a weakened heart.

Giannini retired in 1945 from chairmanship of the bank, a six billion dollar corporation. He was promptly named "founder-chairman" by its directors.

His only son, L. M. Giannini, succeeded him as president of the bank. He also leaves a daughter, Mrs. Claire G. Hoffman of San Mateo.

Giannini also served, until his retirement in 1936, as president of Transamerica corporation, a vast holding company affiliated with Bank of America. His career constantly verged on the spectacular. Two years after he opened his bank (then the Bank of Italy) it was burned out by San Francisco's great fire of 1906. Giannini hauled its cash and records to safety—hidden under a cartload of produce. With this stake he reopened his bank and was strong enough to weather the 1907 panic.

He once stopped a run on the bank by having employees carry gold bars through the lobby with much display; reluctant depositors had renewed confidence as seeing this.

Giannini liked to identify himself with the "little people." That's what put him into the banking business on his own.

A successful produce merchant, Giannini first went into banking when he inherited from an uncle a seat on the board of directors of a San Francisco bank.

West Salem Court Sold for $90,000

Sale of West Salem apartment court in a transaction involving about $90,000 was reported Friday by the H. E. Corey real estate firm here.

Malcolm Neal of Salem route 7, box 209, acquired the apartments at 1219 Sixth st., from J. S. Friesen. The latter's payment included Neal's 10-acre ranch north of Salem.

Both parties were represented by Joe Noonchester.

Hickenlooper Casts Doubt on A-Bottle Story

WASHINGTON, June 3-(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said tonight there is no sure proof that a bottle dug up from a buried waste box was the original missing container in the Chicago "lost U-235" mystery.

Casting doubt on the atomic energy commission's report yesterday that the bottle had been found and positively identified, Hickenlooper told newsmen:

"The possibility of espionage in the case cannot be discounted. There is something more involved in this than the 'four gram jitters' to which reference has been made."

The Iowa senator alluded to AEC Chairman E. Lillenthal's plea against "jitters" merely because four grams of U-235—about one-eighth of an ounce—is still missing from the original lost ounce.

FBI notified Lillenthal that the AEC has said the other seven-eighths of an ounce was recovered from waste material at the Chicago Argonne atomic laboratory, where the loss was discovered last February 8. The FBI was not notified until seven weeks later.

"That missing four grams is 4,000 times the amount of material involved in the Canadian spy case," Hickenlooper said. "Therefore, the possibility of espionage cannot be discounted."

(This was the case of Dr. Allan Nunn May, a British scientist, who worked in collaboration with Canadian scientists on atomic research during the war. He was placed under arrest in London in 1946 while the Canadian spy investigation was under way and pleaded guilty to having given one milligram—one thousandth of one gram—to secret agents while he was in Canada. May was sentenced to ten years in prison by a British court.)

Hickenlooper, who has demanded that Lillenthal be fired in the current senate-house investigation of the whole atomic secrecy setup, took a skeptical view of the AEC's report on finding the missing U-235 vial.

"That like the finding of an empty pocketbook after the valuables have been removed," he said. Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) said it may be next Tuesday before the senate-house committee resumes its hearing on Hickenlooper's charges of "incredible mismanagement" by Lillenthal.

GOP Outfumbles Demos to Lose Congress' Baseball Game 16-10

WASHINGTON, June 3-(AP)—In a rip-roaring last inning rally, the democrats hit two balls clear to the outfield, scored six runs and beat the republicans in the annual Congressional baseball game tonight, 16-10.

With the score at 10-all, relief pitcher Albert Gore (D-Tenn) came to bat with two men on base. He whacked a hit down the third base line to bring both runners home. It would have been a hit in any league.

Moments later, with three men on, Rep. Chester Gorski (D-NY) fed a blooper that fell for a double and scored three runs. It wouldn't have been a hit in any league except the Congressional.

A good time was had by all the 3,000 spectators who showed up for this game, sponsored by the Washington Evening Star for the benefit of underprivileged children.

Even the Republicans had something to cheer about.

They once trailed, 6-8, but came into the fourth inning only a run behind, 9-10.

How the Republicans scored the tying run will give you a pretty fair idea of what sort of game it was.

Rep. Glenn Davis (R-Wis), the Republican pitcher, tapped the ball gently, and after various characters had railed with it, he wound up safe on second.

Rep. Jerry Ford (R-Mich) struck out, and Rep. Hal Velde (R-Ill) bounced the ball to Pitcher Gore, who threw to first where Rep. Gene McCarthy (D-Minn) held forth.

McCarthy caught the ball between his knees, and was so overwhelmed that he threw to second base. Meanwhile, Davis was cantering around the bases—and home with the tying run.

McCarthy was forgiven, however. He earlier had smacked a well hit fly that had rolled for a two-run homer. Rep. Mendel Rivers (D-Sc) also hit a two-run homer for the winners.

Perjury Before Jury Admitted By Chambers

NEW YORK, June 3-(AP)—Whittaker Chambers admitted today that he lied under oath to the same federal grand jury that indicted Alger Hiss on a charge of testifying falsely.

Chambers said he told the grand jury he had no direct knowledge of Russian spy activity.

"Then you admit now that you testified falsely and committed perjury before the grand jury in this building?" he was asked.

"That's right," Chambers replied.

The government has based its perjury case on Hiss' denial of Chambers' charges that Hiss passed government secrets to him. Chambers has admitted he was a courier for a pre-war Soviet spy ring.

Hiss has said that Chambers lied.

Chambers testified yesterday that the deal to steal the secrets was made by himself, Hiss and Col. Bois Bykov, an alleged Russian spy, at a chinatown restaurant in New York in 1937.

Hiss, in the fourth day of his trial, managed to smile occasionally at his wife, Priscilla, as he watched Chambers answer the bitter, searching question of grey-haired defense Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker.

From the outset of the trial, Stryker has branded Chambers a "moral leper" whose testimony against Hiss cannot be trusted by the jury of 10 men and two women.

2 Men Held as 100 Shoplifted Articles Found

A tip from a suspicious Four Corners merchant Friday led to the recovery of more than 100 shoplifted articles allegedly taken from stores in several Willamette valley cities.

Arrested and charged with larceny was William Brown, 31, 1945 N. Liberty st. Pete Erban jr., 23, 645 S. 19th st. was arrested on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Erban was taken to Marion county jail and Brown was lodged in the city jail. Bail has not been set.

Marion County Sheriff Denver Young and State Police Captain Ray Howard arrested the pair at Four Corners Friday afternoon.

A .22 calibre high-standard automatic pistol was found in the glove compartment of a nearby car which was registered to Erban.

The loot was found at the residence of Brown's mother, Mrs. Young, 85 articles were recovered from Brown's residence. Sheriff Young said it was the biggest assemblage of shoplifted loot he had seen since taking office here. He said the items ran the gamut from pinking shears and "chose girls" to spark plugs and fishing tackle. Cameras, binoculars, tools, appliances and a fire extinguisher were on the list.

At Brown's address an electric drill and a variety of clothing were found.

The articles were believed taken from stores in Salem, Dallas, Albany, Eugene, Oregon City and Portland, according to Young.

Road Repair Work to Start

Work on repairing roads damaged last winter in Marion county will begin Monday, Marion county court reported Friday.

A total of 15 miles of road, consisting of small lengths of damaged surfaced roads, will be oiled and resurfaced. Another 35 miles of road, not so badly damaged, also is slated for repairs. Because of the extensive damage done to surfaced roads no gravelled roads will be surfaced this year.

Roads which will have certain sections resurfaced this summer include Horseshoe Lake road, Latham-Brooks, Mt. Angel-North Howell, Gervais-Simmons-Macleay, Chemawa-Hazel Green, West Woodburn - Broadacres - Butteville, Boones ferry, West Woodburn-Gervais-Checkerboard, Mt. Angel-Gervais and Monitor - Silverton.

Spaniel Bears Nineteen Pups

SEATTLE, June 3-(AP)—Sally the Spaniel was up to her furry ears in pups tonight and her sad look may have been due to:

1. The fact that her litter of 19 wasn't a world record, or
2. Nineteen are just too doggone many pups.

Sally, a pedigreed Springer Spaniel, gave birth to the crop last night. A check of records showed a Foxhound named Lena had one batch of 23 puppies at Philadelphia in 1944.

Sally and family are owned by Bill Bennett of Renton.

Mediators Act To Avert Ship Strike June 15

WASHINGTON, June 3-(AP)—The federal mediation and conciliation service intervened today in an effort to head off threatened strikes in the shipping industry in the east, gulf and west coasts.

Cyrus S. Ching, director of the service, requested employer and union representatives to attend mediation conferences next week.

Ching said in telegrams to management and union officials that "harmful consequences on important domestic and foreign policies" could follow a possible work stoppage in the shipping industry June 15.

He urged that the parties concerned cooperate fully with the efforts of the service to bring about a settlement of the disputes.

Ching asked representatives of the Pacific American Shipowners Association and the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association to a mediation conference next Tuesday at the mediation and conciliation office in San Francisco.

All contracts involved in the dispute expire June 15.

Plasterers Bureau Holds Meeting Here

A fight against the practice of lining school buildings with inflammable materials was initiated Friday night by the Northwest Plasterers' bureau at a dinner meeting in the Marion hotel.

Sixty men, representing contractors, materials manufacturers and dealers, architects and labor, attended the annual Salem meeting of the bureau. Charles Clay, Seattle, head of the bureau, presided, and director Charles Norton, a Salem contractor, handled local arrangements.

Norton and others called attention to several new school buildings which are being lined with plywood and other inflammable materials. Termining this practice dangerous from the community standpoint, the bureau members decided to appeal to architects and directly to school boards when new buildings are authorized.

A Salem plasterer, Jock Donahue, who located here from Scotland in recent months, contrasted work methods of the two countries.
