Cards Regain Second Place

Cubs Topple Braves; Solons Beat Tigers

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—The crushing Brooklyn Dodgers continued to sweep past all opposition, rolling on to their sixth straight victory today with an easy 11-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

The victory, coupled with Chicago's 5-2 triumph over Boston, widened the Dodgers' first place margin over the Braves to a game and a half. The defeat also dropped the Braves into third place, three percentage points behind the St. Louis Cardinals, who whipped the Philadelphia Phils, 6-2. The Phils fell into a fourth place deadlock with the New York Giants, who finally snapped out of their five-game losing skid with a 4-3 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The loss plummeted the Pirates into the National League cellar, a game behind the Cubs.

The New York Yankees increased their American League lead over runner-up Detroit to five games, lambasting Cleveland 12-8 while the Tigers were losing to Washington, 9-8.

The Dodgers collected a dozen hits against their southpaw pitcher, with Ken Raffensberger being tagged with the loss. Roy Campanella smashed two home runs for the winners and Pee Wee Reese hit one. Don Newcombe allowed five hits in registering his third victory with no defeats. He fanned nine.

Walt Dubiel gained his second decision over the Braves, although he needed help from Emil Kuhn in the ninth. The Cubs pounded Vern Bickford for 11 of their 15 hits. Bickford was hit for 15 hits in the last half of the eighth. The Giants pounded upon Elmer Riddle for four runs in their half of the inning to give Relief Pitcher Hank Behrman his third victory.

Blasting Bob Feller for five hits in the first inning, the Yankees tallied nine times in the opening frame and went on to make it two in a row over the Tribe. The Indians fought back, knocking out Alie Reynolds in the ninth with a three-run uprising, but Joe Page stifled the threat, getting Joe Gordon to pop out with the bases full. Gordon previously had hit his ninth home run. A night game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns, at St. Louis, was postponed because of wet ground. The Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox were not scheduled to play.

Kamloops: The Story of the Big Rainbows

Youngsters on a Sandpoint, Ida., dock smile as they see Wes Hamlet with a trout "almost as big as us." Hamlet made the record catch from Lake Pend Oreille—37-pounder.

SANDPOINT, Ida. — Long as a fisherman's arm, bigger than a fisherman's tallest tale: that's the fighting Kamloops rainbow trout of Lake Pend Oreille (pronounced Pon-dor-ay).

The heaviest rainbow ever caught was manhandled out of this north Idaho mountain-rimmed lake in 1947 by Wes Hamlet of nearby Coeur d'Alene (see picture at left). Sit back, shut your eyes and dream about it.

Sleek, wolf-jawed, its sides the mirror of a western sunset, Hamlet's fighting fish weighed 37 pounds. Held elbow high, its tail nearly brushed the dock. Fight? "I thought I'd hooked a submarine," says Hamlet.

Pend Oreille's anglers don't yarn about the one that got away; they can't think of anything bigger than the ones that have been landed. Laurence Hamilton of Reardon, Wash., astonished himself and the world when he gaffed a 32½ pound Kamloops in 1945, first year the season was opened on the giants. It cracked a rainbow record of 26 pounds that had lasted 29 years.

C. C. Shepherd of Rathdrum, Ida., landed a 36-pounder in 1947. The spotlight of Waltonism shone brightest on Joseph D. Bates, Jr., of Longmeadow, Mass., last year. He boated a 31-pound 12-ouncer with eight-pound test line and a 5¼-ounce spinning rod.

The Kamloops is no native to America, which explains his late arrival on the scene. He's an emigrant, forcibly removed from his native Canada where he was happily undiscovered for centuries. Undiscovered, that is, by the multitude, western Canadians knew of the giants that lurked in the depths of Kamloops lake and Kootenay lake in British Columbia, big enough and fierce enough to bite off your measurin' arm.

Pend Oreille had lots of fish but nothing bigger than 10-12-pound valley darters. Local sportsmen got wind of the Canadian rainbow secret and began slipping over the line to tangle with the heavyweights. When they got down to comparison, they decided the only difference between their home lake and the British Columbia fish pastures was Kamloops trout.

They went back home and raised some cash around town, bought 100,000 Kamloops eggs from a Canadian spawn-taking station and turned them over to Idaho hatcheries. In the fall of 1942 they dumped 20,000 fingerling Kamloops into Lake Pend Oreille. Some fish were held back for brood stock and now the plantings come from United States citizen fish.

The war kept fishermen off the lake and the season was closed on Kamloops. When at last the war ended and folks had time to fish again the world looked around and gasped when Hamilton pulled in his unbelievable whopper.

Tuesday Mat Roundup Made

With all hands now signed by Matchmaker Elton Owen, the lineup is set for Tuesday night's mat card at the armory. Two prelims, the first starting at 8:30 o'clock, will precede the four-man tag team s.e.r.a.p. Owen himself will referee.

The first match will bring on the debut of Dale Kisser, 18-year-old younger brother of Tiger Jack, long a popular artist here. Young Dale, tutored by his illustrious brother and said to be a beautifully proportioned 175-pounder, tangles with Tony Faleiti, the Italian meanie in a one-faller. Right after that Big Brother Jack, advancing rapidly in the local mat picture, takes on Bill (Bull) Weidner, the punishing strong man. This will be a 2-of-3 faller.

The main event looms as one of the best tag teams in months. In it are the Buck Weaver-Al Sasser and Frank Siojack-Lefly Facer teams. Weaver and Sasser are easily a pair of the top scientific swiftness to show here in years, and against them will be the muscular and thoroughly capable Coast junior heavy titlist and his southpaw roughian partner. "This one should be one of the best," Owen claimed as he announced his full card.

Capot Nips Ponder, Nabs Belmont Event

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Capot gave Greentree stable a powerful claim on the 1949 three-year-old championship today when he beat Calumet Farms' favored Ponder by a half-length to win the $91,500 Belmont stakes.

Just as expected, it was strictly a three-horse race between Capot, Ponder and Isidor Bieber's Palestinian, which took third money another half length back of the Calumet colt. The fourth horse in the eight-horse field, Mrs. Eben H. Ellison, Jr.'s, Sun Bahram, was 12 lengths back of Palestinian to give an idea how much the others were left out of the act.

Most everybody in the crowd of 40,241, but the Greentree forces thought Ponder, the Kentucky Derby winner, was going to take this final jewel in the triple crown, because of his reputation for coming from behind. But jockey Ted Atkinson, who was winning his first Belmont victory aboard Capot, knew what he was doing as he had the brown son of Menoplaque in front for most of the dusty mile and one-half route. Capot had won the Preakness, but most "experts" thought the longer Belmont distance would prove too tough for the Greentree galloper.

Third choice in the betting Capot rewarded his backers with a $13.20, $4.90 and $2.80 return for $2. Capot's time for the once-around Belmont's huge mile and one-half track was 2:30 1/5, on a fast strip.

Capot took down $60,000 for this one, hoisting his 1949 earnings to $181,735 and his total for two years of racing to $273,885.
