

Judge Page Reported Under Consideration for High Court

Speculation continued Sunday over who will succeed the late Percy R. Kelly on the Oregon supreme court with persistent reports in some quarters that Circuit Judge E. M. Page of Marion county was under consideration.

Gov. Douglas McKay and Judge Page have been close personal friends for many years, and the latter is regarded by many attorneys and others as one of the outstanding circuit judges in the state. Kelly, who died Tuesday, was a member of the supreme court for 13 years after serving as circuit judge in Linn county for a long period.

World Frontier Of Democracy, AAUW Told

SEATTLE, June 19 (AP)—Barriers that sheltered America have been annihilated—the world is now our frontier, Judge Dorothy Kenyon of New York City told the American Association of University Women tonight.

Judge Kenyon warned the 2,000 delegates to the AAUW biennial convention that "there is much to be done . . . time is of the essence." Her keynote address on "Crossing New Frontiers" was delivered at the opening session.

The title of her speech is the theme of the five-day convention which has drawn AAUW members from all parts of the country.

Judge Kenyon, a New York attorney, is second vice president of the AAUW and United States delegate on the United Nations commission on the status of women.

America, she said, has a dual responsibility—toward the world and the homefront. The outward goal is twofold, to improve the economic health of other countries and bring freedom and equality to their peoples under a system of democracy.

In an era of shrinking distances, she asserted, "world government is upon us in spite of ourselves."

With our ideas of democracy imperiled by poverty and disease throughout the world, we find a market place in the United Nations for spreading the contagion of our democratic principles, Judge Kenyon said.

"But it is not enough just to persuade . . . we must practice democracy if we want it to prevail."

She cited three tests for determining the success or failure of our own democracy: 1. In the political field, can all citizens vote without discrimination or fear of reprisal?

2. In the field of thought, can we think and express our opinions on all subjects freely? Can we be taught to think for ourselves by teachers and scholars who in turn are free to think for themselves . . .

3. In the field of human rights, is there freedom and opportunity for all "without distinction?" Judge Kenyon said that if we can pass these tests "we have come a long way in the conquest of our new frontiers and toward fulfillment of the dream in every person's heart—the dream of world peace, security, justice and freedom."

Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.), predicting the house would pass the bill "overwhelmingly," told a reporter he thinks all its provisions will stand.

Priest said he could appreciate the scientists' viewpoint, but he contended the measure taken as a whole provides for academic freedom and research with a minimum of government regulations.

The affidavit provision reflects house thinking, Priest said, and was insisted on in house committee by "a rather large vote."

The bill would require persons getting the science scholarships to swear they are not members or believers in any organization favoring violent or illegal overthrow of the government.

This is not a part of a similar bill which has passed the senate. The atomic commission recently imposed a loyalty, non-communist oath on all 497 persons certified for its scholarships. It did so after congress put on heavy pressure upon learning a communist had received such a fellowship.

Scientists Balk At Fealty Oath Proviso in Bill

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—A scientists group balked today at a fealty oath proviso in a bill to set up a government science program.

They want it taken out and the bill passed. It is about to come up in the house—probably this week or next.

The affidavits would apply to candidates for science scholarships and fellowships of a proposed national research foundation.

Such affidavits are dangerous "because of the state of mind they reflect and impose"—besides they are "valueless as security precautions," the scientists said.

The view was expressed by the administrative committee of the Federation of American Scientists after a meeting at Cambridge, Mass.

The committee statement pointed to the controversy in congress over the handling of such scholarship programs of the atomic energy commission and its security measures and observed:

"Our entire scientific research program is threatened by a progressive encroachment of security considerations on freedom of inquiry."

Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.), predicting the house would pass the bill "overwhelmingly," told a reporter he thinks all its provisions will stand.

Priest said he could appreciate the scientists' viewpoint, but he contended the measure taken as a whole provides for academic freedom and research with a minimum of government regulations.

The affidavit provision reflects house thinking, Priest said, and was insisted on in house committee by "a rather large vote."

The bill would require persons getting the science scholarships to swear they are not members or believers in any organization favoring violent or illegal overthrow of the government.

This is not a part of a similar bill which has passed the senate. The atomic commission recently imposed a loyalty, non-communist oath on all 497 persons certified for its scholarships. It did so after congress put on heavy pressure upon learning a communist had received such a fellowship.

Marion 4-H Girls Elected at Summer School

CORVALLIS—Two Marion county club members attending 4-H summer school at Oregon State college were elected presidents of their living groups and are serving on the 4-H school's council. Shown talking to Anthol Riney, Marion county 4-H club agent, on the campus are Karleen Drager, 16, Turner, left, and Frances Fox, 12, Silverton.

Jefferson Budget Committee Submits Increase for 1949-50

JEFFERSON — The budget for the city of Jefferson was published after the budget committee and city officials burned midnight oil pondering ways and means of keeping it under the 6 per cent limit. The amount to be raised this year by taxation is $1,617.56 compared to last year's $1,526.

The city officers said they are handicapped without a reserve in the treasury. Jefferson is growing steadily, and more and more demands are being made on the city treasury with the budget just meeting present obligations.

If a serious break in the water mains, or other unforeseen trouble occurs, nothing can be done but to vote on a bond levy to finance repairs or extensions, they pointed out.

The published budget lists $13,840 as estimated expenditures for the coming year. Total receipts for the ensuing year are set at $11,621. The city's chief revenue is from water rentals totaling $7,000 per year. Another $3,000 comes from the state tax street fund and $246 from county road funds.

The state liquor fund contributes $350, and the Mountain States Power company $250. The remainder of the revenue comes from licenses, franchises and recorder's court.

Salaries of city officers make up $4,970 of the city expenditures during the year. The fire department is allowed $500, the library $100; lights and power total $1,350; warrants and interest, bonds and principal total $950 and interest on bonds, $120. Streets improvements (black top, etc.) remain at the $3,000 received from the state tax street fund.

"They pulled us all out," she went on, "and took us to their cars. We drove out into the woods, and they gave me three licks with a rope."

"They put ropes around the necks of two of the men and then whipped them. They didn't whip my daughters, but put a rope around Sally's neck."

"They told us they'd be back if we talked."

Mrs. Burton said the men accused her of running an "indecent place" which she denied.

Mrs. Burton said she had not talked with any law enforcement officer concerning the case.

NANKING, Monday, June 20 (AP)—A United States embassy spokesman today called "fantastic" Chinese communist charges that the American consulate in Mukden had engaged in espionage.

In the first official reaction to accusations broadcast Saturday by the Red Peiping radio, the American spokesman said: "Any reference to the consulate in Mukden as an espionage organ is, of course, too fantastic to even require comment."

"We really don't have enough information here in Nanking to comment. As you know, we have not been in regular contact with our consulate-general in Mukden for about seven months."

West Virginia Flood Leaves Houses Broken

By the Associated Press (Picture on page 1) Receding flood waters of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers left nine persons dead and at least a dozen missing Sunday.

Heavy rains sent the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers raging over their banks early Saturday. As the waters receded, Petersburg, Va., found 60 homes and 285 other buildings wrecked. Some 300 families were evacuated. For approximately 36 hours, Petersburg—a town of 2,000—was virtually isolated, with roads blocked and communications down.

The army sent amphibious landing equipment to the Moorefield, W. Va., area to assist in rescue work. Sheriff C. L. Pradt estimated the lowland damage might run as high as $1,000,000.

Bridgewater, Va., residents lined up for typhoid shots when the town's sewage system failed. In Petersburg, all water had to be boiled after the county health department declared the water supply polluted. In Moorefield, the water was turned on Sunday after being shut off all day Saturday, but no one was sure how long the town's small reservoir could supply the community.

Parched New England hoped the weather bureau's forecast of possible thunder showers Sunday night would materialize. The showers would be the area's first general rainfall since the Memorial day week end. Farmers and conservation officials say a two-day steady rain is needed to protect willing crops and end the threat of forest fires.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Motorcycle Wreck Victim Leaves Family

(Story also on page 1) ALBANY, June 19 (Special)—Howard M. Miller, killed in a motorcycle crash here Sunday, was a construction worker and had lived in Albany about a year.

He was born Nov. 1, 1920 at Hoquiam, Wash., later moving to Los Angeles where he was inducted for army service in 1943. He was a PFC in the medical detachment with the 110th Inf. Reg. and was discharged in 1945.

He lived at Salem and Eugene briefly before coming to Albany where he married Claire Mann, June 6, 1948.

Surviving besides the widow are a daughter, Kathleen, three stepchildren, Meredith, Iris and Muriel Mann, all of Albany; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Los Angeles; five sisters and a brother.

Funeral services will be announced later.

Swiss Boatmen Best Rapids, Win $1,000

CANON CITY, Colo., June 19 (AP)—Conquering roaring rapids that wrecked five other entries, two daring Swiss boatmen teamed together today to win a $7,000 race down the Arkansas river.

Robert Ris and Max Romer, both of Bern, Switzerland, were the only ones to finish the grueling contest from Salida to Canon City. The victory was worth $1,000. They received $500 first prize and $500 additional for being the first team to pass under the world's highest suspension bridge which spans the Royal Gorge west of here.

J. Kessler of Long Island, N.Y., nearly lost his life when his kayak-type craft overturned about 15 miles from the start. He was trapped and couldn't free himself. Red Cross life guards, who were patrolling the river, were credited with rescuing him.

George Irwin of Canby, one of the drivers, sustained head and back injuries. Terry McCoy, 7, Woodburn route 1, incurred internal injuries. They were taken to an Oregon City hospital. Irwin's wife was also hospitalized.

There was no stop sign at the intersection, according to state police. They said both cars were badly damaged.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Scientists Balk At Fealty Oath Proviso in Bill

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—A scientists group balked today at a fealty oath proviso in a bill to set up a government science program.

They want it taken out and the bill passed. It is about to come up in the house—probably this week or next.

The affidavits would apply to candidates for science scholarships and fellowships of a proposed national research foundation.

Such affidavits are dangerous "because of the state of mind they reflect and impose"—besides they are "valueless as security precautions," the scientists said.

The view was expressed by the administrative committee of the Federation of American Scientists after a meeting at Cambridge, Mass.

The committee statement pointed to the controversy in congress over the handling of such scholarship programs of the atomic energy commission and its security measures and observed:

"Our entire scientific research program is threatened by a progressive encroachment of security considerations on freedom of inquiry."

Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.), predicting the house would pass the bill "overwhelmingly," told a reporter he thinks all its provisions will stand.

Priest said he could appreciate the scientists' viewpoint, but he contended the measure taken as a whole provides for academic freedom and research with a minimum of government regulations.

The affidavit provision reflects house thinking, Priest said, and was insisted on in house committee by "a rather large vote."

The bill would require persons getting the science scholarships to swear they are not members or believers in any organization favoring violent or illegal overthrow of the government.

This is not a part of a similar bill which has passed the senate. The atomic commission recently imposed a loyalty, non-communist oath on all 497 persons certified for its scholarships. It did so after congress put on heavy pressure upon learning a communist had received such a fellowship.

Jefferson Budget Committee Submits Increase for 1949-50

JEFFERSON — The budget for the city of Jefferson was published after the budget committee and city officials burned midnight oil pondering ways and means of keeping it under the 6 per cent limit. The amount to be raised this year by taxation is $1,617.56 compared to last year's $1,526.

The city officers said they are handicapped without a reserve in the treasury. Jefferson is growing steadily, and more and more demands are being made on the city treasury with the budget just meeting present obligations.

If a serious break in the water mains, or other unforeseen trouble occurs, nothing can be done but to vote on a bond levy to finance repairs or extensions, they pointed out.

The published budget lists $13,840 as estimated expenditures for the coming year. Total receipts for the ensuing year are set at $11,621. The city's chief revenue is from water rentals totaling $7,000 per year. Another $3,000 comes from the state tax street fund and $246 from county road funds.

The state liquor fund contributes $350, and the Mountain States Power company $250. The remainder of the revenue comes from licenses, franchises and recorder's court.

Salaries of city officers make up $4,970 of the city expenditures during the year. The fire department is allowed $500, the library $100; lights and power total $1,350; warrants and interest, bonds and principal total $950 and interest on bonds, $120. Streets improvements (black top, etc.) remain at the $3,000 received from the state tax street fund.

"They pulled us all out," she went on, "and took us to their cars. We drove out into the woods, and they gave me three licks with a rope."

"They put ropes around the necks of two of the men and then whipped them. They didn't whip my daughters, but put a rope around Sally's neck."

"They told us they'd be back if we talked."

Mrs. Burton said the men accused her of running an "indecent place" which she denied.

Mrs. Burton said she had not talked with any law enforcement officer concerning the case.

NANKING, Monday, June 20 (AP)—A United States embassy spokesman today called "fantastic" Chinese communist charges that the American consulate in Mukden had engaged in espionage.

In the first official reaction to accusations broadcast Saturday by the Red Peiping radio, the American spokesman said: "Any reference to the consulate in Mukden as an espionage organ is, of course, too fantastic to even require comment."

"We really don't have enough information here in Nanking to comment. As you know, we have not been in regular contact with our consulate-general in Mukden for about seven months."

West Virginia Flood Leaves Houses Broken

By the Associated Press (Picture on page 1) Receding flood waters of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers left nine persons dead and at least a dozen missing Sunday.

Heavy rains sent the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers raging over their banks early Saturday. As the waters receded, Petersburg, Va., found 60 homes and 285 other buildings wrecked. Some 300 families were evacuated. For approximately 36 hours, Petersburg—a town of 2,000—was virtually isolated, with roads blocked and communications down.

The army sent amphibious landing equipment to the Moorefield, W. Va., area to assist in rescue work. Sheriff C. L. Pradt estimated the lowland damage might run as high as $1,000,000.

Bridgewater, Va., residents lined up for typhoid shots when the town's sewage system failed. In Petersburg, all water had to be boiled after the county health department declared the water supply polluted. In Moorefield, the water was turned on Sunday after being shut off all day Saturday, but no one was sure how long the town's small reservoir could supply the community.

Parched New England hoped the weather bureau's forecast of possible thunder showers Sunday night would materialize. The showers would be the area's first general rainfall since the Memorial day week end. Farmers and conservation officials say a two-day steady rain is needed to protect willing crops and end the threat of forest fires.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Funeral services for Chris Gruenfelder, who farmed in the Fruitland district for a number of years, will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Howell-Edwards chapel with interment at Belcrest Memorial park. Word of his death in Washington was received here Sunday.

Motorcycle Wreck Victim Leaves Family

(Story also on page 1) ALBANY, June 19 (Special)—Howard M. Miller, killed in a motorcycle crash here Sunday, was a construction worker and had lived in Albany about a year.

He was born Nov. 1, 1920 at Hoquiam, Wash., later moving to Los Angeles where he was inducted for army service in 1943. He was a PFC in the medical detachment with the 110th Inf. Reg. and was discharged in 1945.

He lived at Salem and Eugene briefly before coming to Albany where he married Claire Mann, June 6, 1948.

Surviving besides the widow are a daughter, Kathleen, three stepchildren, Meredith, Iris and Muriel Mann, all of Albany; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Los Angeles; five sisters and a brother.

Funeral services will be announced later.

Swiss Boatmen Best Rapids, Win $1,000

CANON CITY, Colo., June 19 (AP)—Conquering roaring rapids that wrecked five other entries, two daring Swiss boatmen teamed together today to win a $7,000 race down the Arkansas river.

Robert Ris and Max Romer, both of Bern, Switzerland, were the only ones to finish the grueling contest from Salida to Canon City. The victory was worth $1,000. They received $500 first prize and $500 additional for being the first team to pass under the world's highest suspension bridge which spans the Royal Gorge west of here.

J. Kessler of Long Island, N.Y., nearly lost his life when his kayak-type craft overturned about 15 miles from the start. He was trapped and couldn't free himself. Red Cross life guards, who were patrolling the river, were credited with rescuing him.

George Irwin of Canby, one of the drivers, sustained head and back injuries. Terry McCoy, 7, Woodburn route 1, incurred internal injuries. They were taken to an Oregon City hospital. Irwin's wife was also hospitalized.

There was no stop sign at the intersection, according to state police. They said both cars were badly damaged.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Albert McCoy, father of the injured boy, drove the other car.

Scientists Balk At Fealty Oath Proviso in Bill

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—A scientists group balked today at a fealty oath proviso in a bill to set up a government science program.

They want it taken out and the bill passed. It is about to come up in the house—probably this week or next.

The affidavits would apply to candidates for science scholarships and fellowships of a proposed national research foundation.

Such affidavits are dangerous "because of the state of mind they reflect and impose"—besides they are "valueless as security precautions," the scientists said.

The view was expressed by the administrative committee of the Federation of American Scientists after a meeting at Cambridge, Mass.

The committee statement pointed to the controversy in congress over the handling of such scholarship programs of the atomic energy commission and its security measures and observed:

"Our entire scientific research program is threatened by a progressive encroachment of security considerations on freedom of inquiry."

Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.), predicting the house would pass the bill "overwhelmingly," told a reporter he thinks all its provisions will stand.

Priest said he could appreciate the scientists' viewpoint, but he contended the measure taken as a whole provides for academic freedom and research with a minimum of government regulations.

The affidavit provision reflects house thinking, Priest said, and was insisted on in house committee by "a rather large vote."

The bill would require persons getting the science scholarships to swear they are not members or believers in any organization favoring violent or illegal overthrow of the government.

This is not a part of a similar bill which has passed the senate. The atomic commission recently imposed a loyalty, non-communist oath on all 497 persons certified for its scholarships. It did so after congress put on heavy pressure upon learning a communist had received such a fellowship.

Jefferson Budget Committee Submits Increase for 1949-50

JEFFERSON — The budget for the city of Jefferson was published after the budget committee and city officials burned midnight oil pondering ways and means of keeping it under the 6 per cent limit. The amount to be raised this year by taxation is $1,617.56 compared to last year's $1,526.

The city officers said they are handicapped without a reserve in the treasury. Jefferson is growing steadily, and more and more demands are being made on the city treasury with the budget just meeting present obligations.

If a serious break in the water mains, or other unforeseen trouble occurs, nothing can be done but to vote on a bond levy to finance repairs or extensions, they pointed out.

The published budget lists $13,840 as estimated expenditures for the coming year. Total receipts for the ensuing year are set at $11,621. The city's chief revenue is from water rentals totaling $7,000 per year. Another $3,000 comes from the state tax street fund and $246 from county road funds.

The state liquor fund contributes $350, and the Mountain States Power company $250. The remainder of the revenue comes from licenses, franchises and recorder's court.

Salaries of city officers make up $4,970 of the city expenditures during the year. The fire department is allowed $500, the library $100; lights and power total $1,350; warrants and interest, bonds and principal total $950 and interest on bonds, $120. Streets improvements (black top, etc.) remain at the $3,000 received from the state tax street fund.

"They pulled us all out," she went on, "and took us to their cars. We drove out into the woods, and they gave me three licks with a rope."

"They put ropes around the necks of two of the men and then whipped them. They didn't whip my daughters, but put a rope around Sally's neck."

"They told us they'd be back if we talked."

Mrs. Burton said the men accused her of running an "indecent place" which she denied.

Mrs. Burton said she had not talked with any law enforcement officer concerning the case.

<