Again and Again

Canning Recipes Same as Usual but Ones Liked Best; Use Raspberries

Pardon us if you've filed these recipes away before, but we can't help giving out the same ones each year when we think they're about the best formulas possible.

Take the raspberry recipes for instance, those which we have accumulated through the years are pretty good. We're open to suggestions, but must repeat our favorites. Here's the usual list:

STIRRED RASPBERRY JAM
3 cups crushed raspberries
3 cups sugar
Bring berries to hard boil, let boil 2 minutes. Add sugar, stir until dissolve. Boil 1 minute. Put over low flame and heat hard for 4 or 5 minutes with a flat wire whip. This will thicken as you beat. Pour into glasses. Do not cook over 3 cups at a time. Makes about 6 glasses. This is good for other berries, too, including cranberries for sauce.

RASPBERRY JELLY WITH LEMON
8 boxes raspberries
1 whole lemon
sugar
Slice lemon and cook with berries to extract the juice. Drain through jelly bag. Cook juice 5 minutes, add an equal quantity of heated sugar. Cook 4 minutes and it will jelly.

RASPBERRY SHRUB
2 cups sugar
1 cup sharp vinegar
2 quarts ripe raspberries
Heat sugar and vinegar to boiling point and pour over berries. Let stand 1 hour, stirring often. Let drip through jelly bag bring to a boil and pour into sterilized jars. Process 20 minutes in hot water bath.

CANNED RASPBERRIES
Pack berries in sterilized pint jars, shaking them down but not mashing them. Add no liquid. Put in a hot water bath and cook for 20 minutes, with lids and rubbers on. (This is to sterilize the lids and rubbers). Pour boiling hot syrup made from cup for cup of sugar and water, over the berries, put the lids back on and seal the jars.

On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. How should the wedding invitations be worded if the bride is a very young widow?

A. The invitations should be issued in the names of the bride's parents, and should be worded exactly as the invitations to her first wedding, with the exception that instead of the name "Mary Elizabeth," it should read "Mary Johnson Smith."

Q. Should the dessert spoon or fork be placed on the table at the beginning of the meal?

A. No; they should be brought in on the dessert plate.

Q. Should a woman rise when seated at a table in a restaurant, and another woman comes by and stops to shake hands?

A. This is not necessary, unless she is very young and the other woman is elderly.
