Ministers Find Evidence of 3 Floggings

ASHLAND, Ala., June 30 (AP)—Three floggings were uncovered in this rural county today by two Methodist ministers making a private investigation of mob violence. The Rev. H. Frank Ledford, of Ashland, and the Rev. Luther Brown of Millerville, said they are investigating rumors of additional beatings and acts of night riders. They said they verified these floggings:

1. J. J. Gavens, 60, white herb doctor, lured from his home to treat "a sick woman" the night of May 30, and beaten with a black-jack. His wife exchanged shots with the unmasked assailants.

2. Willie Horton, 33, negro infantry veteran, and his brother, Herschel, beaten and lashed until they bled by white robed and hooded men the night of June 1. Willie was quoted by the ministers as being told "he had been talking too much."

Ashland is in rural Clay county 85 miles southeast of Birmingham, where several floggings and cross burnings had been reported in recent weeks. The Jefferson county (Birmingham) grand jury meets in special session there tomorrow to investigate white-robed night riders.

Ku Klux Klan officials, who denied their members were involved in Jefferson and Walker county beatings, could not be reached for comment on the Clay county cases.

Paradise Island Features New Swimming Pool, Bathhouses

One of Salem's older picnic and playground areas will have new appeal to holiday crowds or persons wishing a cool picnic supper after a hot summer day.

Paradise Island, long a favorite family recreation spot, has had a complete face lifting this spring under the new ownership of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Nation.

Located on the Turper road just beyond the Salem airport, Paradise Island has been cleaned up with brush grubbed out, hundred of flowers set out in beds bordering the park and on small islands in the picnic area. One island is set in begonias and a parking area is bordered with more than 1,000 stalk plants.

Of special interest is a new swimming pool which has been completed with a diving board and turfed bank for sunbathing. The pool is out of the swift current of the mill stream. New bathhouses feature clean, airy dressing rooms and modern lavatory facilities.

Play equipment for children include new teeter-totters, a soft-ball diamond and slides. A sand box will be added later. For adults there are new picnic tables and stone fire pits, and a 20 by 50 foot concrete dance area with a music box.

Altogether there are eight to ten acres in the picnic area and more than $3,000 has been spent in improvements. The Nations bought Paradise Island farm last fall when they came to Salem from Phoenix, Ariz., and intend to continue development of the park.

Seattle Man to Build House At Hiroshima

SEATTLE, June 30 (AP)—His daughter created a sensation when she married a Japanese during the war and later made Floyd W. Schmoie the grandfather of twin daughters.

"And from the time the first bomb fell on Hiroshima, I had the feeling I owed at least one house to Japan," the 54-year-old Schmoie said today.

So on July 17 he and three other Americans are sailing from San Francisco aboard the General Gordon to fulfill Schmoie's resolve — "a house for Hiroshima."

Schmoie started the project and raised $4,000.

"We're donating our own time. We are shipping nails, wiring, glass and roofing and plumbing materials from Seattle and will get lumber in Hiroshima. We'll use Japanese carpenters."

Minister Due Also Accompanying him will be the Rev. Emory Andrews, associate pastor of the Japanese Baptist church here; Miss Daisy Tibbs, home economics teacher at South Carolina's Harbison college, and Miss Ruth Jenkins of the University of Arizona, a relief worker in Germany last year with the American friends service committee.

The "Hiroshima House" will be a child care clinic. Schmoie and the Reverend Andrews will supervise construction. Miss Tibbs and Miss Jenkins will set up a general public health and social welfare program to be carried out by licensed agencies for relief in Asia (Lara), the occupation government organization.

Washington U. Graduate Schmoie was graduated from the University of Washington and taught there 15 years, and is a former secretary of the northwest branch of the American friends service committee.

His daughter, Esther, married Gordon K. Hirabayashi, a Japanese, during the war. She had twin daughters while Hirabayashi was serving a year at McNeil Island federal prison for failure to report to a conscientious objector's camp. He later was pardoned.
