Salmon, Most Popular of Fish, Best When Baked or Broiled Just Right

Broiling salmon just right, and selecting attractive and flavorful garnishes makes the Friday menu a super affair. One portion of the halved lemons are scooped out to hold a tart jelly which not only looks attractive, but is a sweet-sour accompaniment to the fish.

Sometimes we wonder if westerners fully appreciate the abundance of fish that comes fresh from the sea to our tables.

Salmon is king of fish—and it's probably the most appreciated of all the offerings found at the fish man's shop.

Next to whole baked fish, pan, broiled or oven broiled slices or fillets are best. There's a trick to cooking fish, and it lies in getting the cooking process done just to the right degree. Fish is almost as easily overcooked as undercooked, especially salmon, which quickly dries after passing the "done" point.

In baking a small, whole salmon (the kind every fisherman in salmon waters aspires to pull in on his hook) care should be exercised to get it done, but not overcooked.

Summertime Travelers, Visitors

By Jeryme English
Society Editor

Summer visitors and travelers are holding the social spotlight these days along with the many brides-elect and parties given in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond M. MacCollin (Frances Kells) have arrived from Gainesville, Florida to spend the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Kells. Mr. MacCollin has been teaching architectural design at the University of Florida the past year. Their plans for the fall are still indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawes (Jean Sechrist), who have been in Los Angeles the past year, are here for the summer months, dividing their time between Salem with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sechrist, and in Mill City with his mother, Mrs. Anne Dawes. Mr. Dawes has been attending City College in Los Angeles and she has been studying the voice. In the fall he will continue with his college work at the University of Oregon.

Home from Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Paulson are being welcomed home from a three weeks motor trip which took them to Dell Rapids, South Dakota to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Paulson, and in Sioux Falls, where they visited with other members of the family. Their son, Tom Steves, accompanied them east and the three went on up to Faribault, Minn., where Tom remained to attend the Shattuck's Boys school summer camp. He will be there until August 1, after which he will go down to Dell Rapids for a visit before coming home. The Paulsons stopped in Evanston for a short stay with his brother and sister-in-law, the Maurics Paulsons, before returning to Salem.

Miss Mabel P. Robertson is home from a ten day visit in Tacoma, where she was the guest of an old friend, Mrs. George B. Guyles. Mrs. Guyles has often visited in Salem with Miss Robertson.

Headed South

Mrs. Russell Fuller of San Francisco, who has been visiting in Salem for a fortnight with her parents, the Frank Calabas, is leaving today by train for the bay city. She will be accompanied by Miss Hattie Brazell, who will also visit in San Francisco and then will go on south to Los Angeles to renew acquaintances and visit with friends she made while in Nuernberg, Germany for two years.

Miss Mary Evelyn Parke and Miss Loralie Neuharth are leaving today for a week's vacation in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hanson (Evelyn Halvorson) whose wedding took place on June 18 at the Central Lutheran church. The bride's parents are the Elling Halvorsons and the groom is the son of Mrs. Amelia Hanson of Portland. (Kennell-Ellis).

Honeymooners Seek Company To Vacation And Visit

By Adelaide Kerr
AP Nevestatures Writer

NEW YORK — Betty White, who has planned honeymoon trips for enough couples to people a good-sized town, says nine out of ten order the same kind of honeymoon. She explains: "They want to go where they will meet plenty of people of their own kind, preferably a place which caters to honeymooners."

Most brides worry some about their honeymoon. Miss White reports: "And so did she before her wedding to Harry Schector, New York advertising man."

"Honeymooners are alike in another respect," says Miss White. "They all want to know how to avoid looking like honeymooners. So I advise them to stick labels on their luggage, eliminate such festive touches as a corage, and, in public, to act as indifferent to one another as possible."

"For the most part honeymooners are the easiest kind of travel customers to handle. They are so anxious to please one another. But occasionally we have some problems to handle. The other day one boy came charging into the office to cancel his reservation. It seems his prospective mother-in-law insisted on going on the honeymoon. I let him talk, but I did not cancel the reservation. I think it will work itself out some way. Actually we have booked reservations for several mothers-in-law on honeymoons. But we don't recommend it."

Holiday Picnics Slated

Picnics and family gatherings in the garden or on the patio are always festive events on Fourth of July, many of the affairs annual events and looked forward to from one year to the next.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Jones will hold their annual picnic and swimming party at their country home on the Portland highway Fourth of July. Even though they are building this year, the party will go on. The no-host dinner will be served on the terrace before the fireplace and pool. Fifty are expected to attend the affair with several coming from out-of-town.

BPW Warned of Pressure Groups

JACKSONVILLE, Florida, June 30 — The dangers of bureaucracy in government and the disastrous results of certain pressure groups within this country were pointed out this morning by Dr. K. Frances Scott of Northampton, Massachusetts, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, in her report before the opening session of the federation's board meeting being held at the George Washington hotel.

"The efforts of pressure groups to seek personal advantage regardless of the effect on the public welfare is never ceasing," she warned. "It threatens our very conception of citizenship. Only demand from the citizens will regain for them efficient service from their government." Dr. Scott then pointed out that as citizens, American women have been timid about taking action on domestic issues of a controversial nature, although they have never been shy about taking a stand on the more remote international questions. She re-emphasized the federation's support of the United Nations.

In concluding her remarks, Dr. Scott requested that Business and Professional Women be constantly aware of today's changing and troubled world.

Golden Wedding Is Celebrated

On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. If a man brings a gift when calling on a girl, should she open it immediately, or lay it aside until he has gone?

A. She would most certainly show more appreciation by opening it at once.

Q. Does the family of the bride or that of the bridegroom mail out the invitations and announcements?

A. This is always the duty of the bride's family.

Q. When the hands are not being used at the dinner table, where should they be placed?

A. In the lap.
