Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cocking are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Connie Louise Cocking, to James Paul Woodroffe, son of Mrs. S. N. Woodroffe. The wedding is planned for late August.

Miss Cocking has been attending Oregon State college, where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta. Mr. Woodroffe, who served two years in the navy just completed his junior year at Willamette university.

Spinney-Burbank Nuptials Held

PEDEE — Miss Helen Burbank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Burbank, and Robert Spinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Spinney of Kings Valley, were married Saturday June 25, at the home of the Rev. Edward B. Hart, pastor of the First Baptist church of Corvallis, who officiated.

The bride wore a white suit with pink accessories and pinned to her coat was a corsage of white carnations and pink rosebuds. They were attended by Miss Vivian Burbank, sister of the bride, and Claire Potter, brother-in-law of the groom.

After a short wedding trip to the beaches they will return to Kings Valley to make their home, where Mr. Spinney is connected with the Simpson Lumber company. Mrs. Spinney has been employed in the office of the secretary of state.

Decries Lack of Sex Knowledge

KENT, O., July 2-(INS)—College students "don't know a thing about sex."

So says Dr. Clements C. Fry, Yale University director of psychiatry and mental hygiene, at a mental hygiene conference at Kent State, O., University. He stated:

"They read a book that says they ought to have some sex experience before they get married and that's about as much as they do know."

Dr. Fry classed "mom problems" and "pop problems" among the worst destroyers of good college student personalities.

"Mothers can wreck sons' lives by hanging onto them," Dr. Fry said. "Fathers can be as bad, trying to live through their sons' lives," he added.

BANDITS GIVE FIRST AID

First Woman 'Vet' In Idaho Wins Favor

LEWISTON, Ida., (AP)—Patients of Dr. Mardell West can consider themselves as "lucky dogs," for the doctor—besides being Idaho's only woman veterinarian—is a right pretty practitioner.

One of a class of 26 granted licenses by the state June 2 to practice veterinary medicine in

Dr. Mardell West

Idaho, Dr. West is the 23-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil S. West, Lewiston. She was graduated May 29 from Washington State college after a five-year course.

The doctor finds nothing unusual about the fact that she's Idaho's first woman veterinarian. Her interest in animals dates back to the days when she was a youngster with long brown hair and freckles who enjoyed caring for the neighbors' cats, dogs and canaries. Then came horses. She has had her own horse since she was 16. Right now, she's raising an eight-month-old colt foaled by her mare.

Her ability to ride cowboy—and her beauty—won her the title of queen of the Lewiston Roundup in 1947.

The doctor is only five-feet tall and weighs 120 pounds, but she likes to treat large animals. To a veterinarian, that means everything from calves to draft horses.

Museum Boasts Ancient Wealth

CHICAGO -(INS)—Treasures from the ancient world help to make Chicago's Oriental Institute the world's largest center for study of the beginnings of modern life.

They include:

- A winged bull carved from a single block of stone in the 8th century B. C. The figure, 18 feet high, weighs four tons. It was one of four in the palace of the Assyrian King Sargon II in Khorsabad, Iraq.
- A bed from Upper Egypt more than 5,000 years old. Its legs were carved to simulate those of a bull.
- A black stone bird, originally covered with gold and gems. It is represented the Egyptian sun god, Horus, 2,000 years ago.
- A huge sandstone statue of Egyptian King Tutankhamun. It was meant to serve as the king's body in after life.
- Four copper statuettes, the earliest known cast metal figures, from Syria.

Empire Supplies Sympathy, Not Money, to Bolster British Pound

By Edward Curtis

LONDON, July 2-(AP)—Britain's empire can give sympathy but little else in the battle to earn dollars and save the pound.

An Associated Press survey showed tonight that commonwealth nations would like to help the island kingdom solve her dollar woes. But most of them are having dollar troubles, too.

Support appeared general against cheapening the pound from its present price of $4.04.

Financial experts of the commonwealth gather here in a few days for emergency talks.

Cripps Calls Meeting

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, called the meeting because of the severe drain on the gold and dollar reserves of the sterling area.

Before Marshall aid began Britain's reserve fund was $2,208,000,000. It was down to $1,884,000,000 by the end of March.

Next week's report on the second quarter is expected to show a further heavy loss.

The fight to close the gap between dollar outgo and income is one Britain must win to keep even her present austere standards. Britain's dollar reserves are also those of the empire and much of the commonwealth.

The situation by countries:

Australia—There have been heavy cuts in dollar spending since the end of the war. But Australia still is spending $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 more a week than she earns.

New Zealand—Finance Minister Walter Nash declined to comment on talk—mainly in the United States—of pound sterling devaluation. He and other officials coming to London for the finance talks believe the sterling bloc must survive.

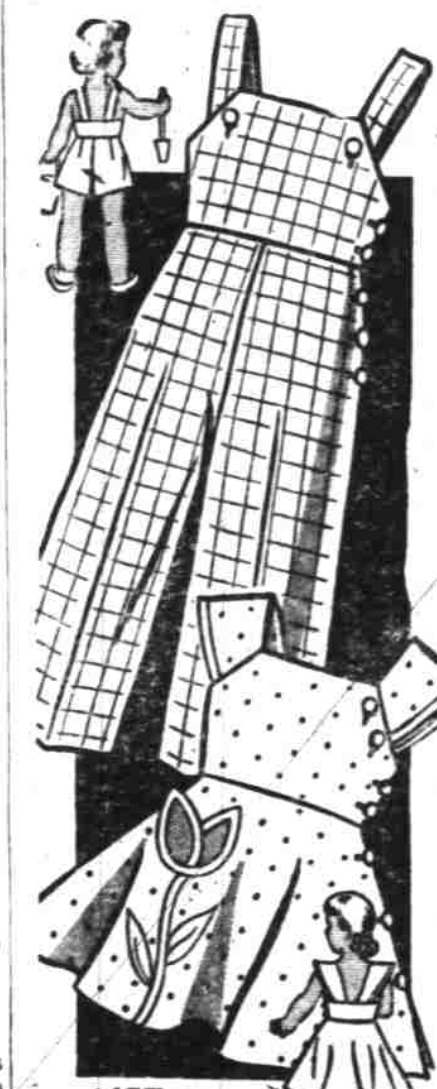

Pakistan—The semi-official newspaper, Dawn, declares it is difficult to see how finance ministers can give more than sympathy to Britain. Financial circles in Karachi view talk of sterling devaluation with grave concern.

India—Official circles in New Delhi place most of the blame for the dollar strain on falling prices in the United States.

South Africa—It is generally regarded South Africa may be asked to sell its gold to the sterling area. South Africa now sells its gold output to the United States to cover purchases there.

Canada—This northern neighbor of the U. S., is not in the sterling area. Canadian officials sympathetic with Britain but are short of dollars, too.

U.S. Government Leaves China Blockade Policy Up to Shippers

WASHINGTON, July 2-(AP)—The United States government is leaving it squarely up to commercial shippers whether to risk nationalist sinking by sending American ships into China ports held by the communists.

The nationalist government ordered the ports closed to foreign commerce but the U. S. has rejected the order as invalid unless the nationalists declare and maintain "an effective blockade."

Following the arrival of a new note from Canton the state department said today it is telling shippers who ask for official advice "neither to go in nor stay out" of the ports.

A spokesman said they are being, that if any American ship should be damaged by nationalist planes or warships trying to enforce the closure order. "The U. S. reserves its rights to claim damages."

In Canton, the nationalist cabinet authorized its navy to sink ships resisting search.

The U. S. navy, meanwhile, said it is not committing itself whether it will or will not keep out American warships.

It has no warships along the coast which the nationalists have declared out of bounds, and has no plans to send any vessels into any of the affected ports, the navy said.

The effect was to leave this issue in suspense like the question whether the U. S. is to extend formal diplomatic recognition to any regime set up by the communists.

Britain is reported to have taken a firmer attitude by serving notice it will tolerate no interference with British shipping.

Public Lecture By Dr. Benes

A public lecture on international relations by Dr. Bohus A. Benes, former Czech political figure who is a visiting professor on the Willamette university faculty, will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Waller hall.

It will be first of three such summer lectures for the public by the nephew and former private secretary of the late Edward Benes, a former president of Czechoslovakia who died last year. Bohus Benes was in his country's diplomatic service 30 years before the present regime was established in Czechoslovakia.

Other public lectures by him will take place on the Willamette campus July 20 and August 3.

University officials disclosed Saturday that Benes in his lectures will cover general international problems, using his native land as an example of the major problem of national survival for the small nations of the world.

Neuner to Promote Assistant to Fill Rex Kimmell Post

An attorney general's office successor to Chief Deputy Rex Kimmell who was appointed a Marion county circuit judge this week, will be chosen from among the present assistants to Attorney General George Neuner.

This was the statement Saturday by Neuner whose chief deputy has been Kimmell since the office was created in 1947. He previously had served several years in the office of the attorney general.

Kimmell will succeed Judge E. M. Page who has been appointed to the supreme court.
