Six Juveniles Arrested on Varied Counts

Six juveniles, five from Salem, were arrested by city police Sunday and Monday on various charges of larceny, vandalism and assault with intent to rape.

In the latest case, a 17-year-old Salem boy was arrested Monday afternoon on a charge of assault with intent to rape.

The boy, who was placed on probation in 1947 after being arrested for fighting, was taken to Marion county district court where he was ordered to appear in juvenile court to answer to the charge.

He is being held in the county jail in lieu of $3,000 bail. A district court warrant has been issued for a second boy, who faces the same charge, and city police still were seeking the boy late Monday.

Two 15-year-old boys, one from Salem and the other listed as a transient, confessed Monday morning to city police to theft of about $8 in cash from Verné DeAutremont and the Salem Air service Sunday afternoon.

One boy was captured at the airfield and the other on the grounds of the Fairview home. Police said Monday all but $140 had been returned to the owner, and that one of the boys had offered his hunting knife as payment for the remainder of the money.

The boys are being held for juvenile court action in the Marion county jail.

In another juvenile case Monday, two 11-year-old boys and an 8-year-old girl admitted to city police that they broke at least five windows July 15 in the Highland school.

The youths were warned by the juvenile officer and then turned over to their parents who were informed they will have to pay for the damage.

Col. McCormick Assigns Niece to Run Times-Herald

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—(AP)—The Washington Times-Herald, guided for years by the late Eleanor Meddell-Patterson, again will have a woman at its helm.

Col. Robert R. McCormick announced today that his 28-year-old niece, Mrs. Maxwell Peter Miller, Jr., will be put in charge of the round-the-clock newspaper.

Mrs. Miller — "Bazy" to her friends — is the daughter of a U.S. senator and the granddaughter of another. She is active in republican politics and breeds Arabian horses on her Indiana farm.

Ban Against Flagstad Ends

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1—(AP)—A ban against the appearance of soprano Kirsten Flagstad in the war memorial opera house was rescinded today by the "board of trustees."

The vote was 6-5. The original ban, voted 6 to 4 with one member absent, had aroused an ultimatum by the opera association directors to cancel the entire season.

In originally voting against Miss Flagstad's appearance, the trustees said she had become a controversial figure during the war by going to Norway to be with her husband, an accused quisling.

Catholics Told To End Work In Romania

By Leonard Kirshen
BUCHAREST, Romania, Aug. 1—(AP)—Romania's communist-led government today gave all Roman Catholic welfare orders in the country until August 15 to wind up their affairs.

An official announcement said catholic monks and nuns are no longer needed for welfare work, because the state now takes care of all their former functions.

It said the personnel of some 15 organizations devoted to charity hospital and other social work among Romanian catholics are dissolved as of today. Their members are given 15 days to decide on:

- 1. Retiring to three coisters and two monasteries set aside for them.
- 2. Entering old age homes.
- 3. Quitting clerical life and registering for regular jobs at local employment bureaus.

Catholic sources said the ban would affect about 1,400 nuns and 100 monks, all Romanians except for about 20 foreigners.

Lawyers Back Latourette for Judge Position

PORTLAND, Aug. 1—(AP)—Attorneys of the Oregon State bar have named Judge Carl C. Latourette of Clackamas county their preference for appointment to any third federal bench in Oregon.

A bill to establish the new judgeship is now before congress. The attorneys were polled in a mail ballot and the state bar said Judge Latourette, a democrat with strong party backing, was the first choice of 400 members. Ballots were returned by 132 of the state's 1930 active attorneys.

Robert F. Maguire, Portland, who recently returned from 18 months service on the allied military tribunal in Germany, was the second choice. Hugh L. Biggs, Portland, a former U. S. district at-

Gary J. Wiens Wins Award For Model Car

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 1—(Special)—Gary J. Wiens, 124 Ash st., Dallas, was awarded second prize of $100 Monday in the senior division of Oregon's annual model car contest sponsored by the Fish-er Body Craftsman's Guild of Detroit.

The second prize was awarded in duplicate, in accordance with contest rules, because Wiens' father is a General Motors employe.

Top winner of the 11 Oregon boys who were awarded prizes was Gale Morris of Portland who won regional honors for Washington and Oregon in the junior division. He will be awarded an expense-free trip to Detroit where he will compete for one of eight university scholarships given to national winners during final judging August 24-27.

torney, was third. Latourette was also the second and third choice of many. There were 23 lawyers listed on the ballot.

Allan G. Carson, Salem, drew 43 first choices; Orlando John Hollis, Eugene, 55; Bruce Spalding Salem, 35; Orval N. Thompson, Albany, 22.

World Union Question Wins Legion Award

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—(AP)—A teen-ager from Utah asked a veteran British journalist tonight how the United Nations could achieve one-world government by peaceful means.

The question was put by Ernest L. Wall, Ogden, Utah, to Sir Willmott Lewis, Washington representative of the London Times.

It was adjudged the best of many, directed to a three-man panel by delegates to the American Legion boys' forum. Senator Gordon (R-Ore) presented Wall with a $50 wrist watch as first prize.

Sir Willmott's answer: "World government is, for some indefinite period in the future, impossible — but those who believe in it should continue to work for it."

"Meanwhile, let us keep the United Nations. Let us not get discouraged at its apparent failures." Other questions were addressed to Lewis, Mutual Broadcasting System Commentator Albert Warner and Scripps-Howard Columnist Fred Othman by Theodore C. DeMerritt, Malin, Ore.

Air Traffic in Salem Area Drops Slightly

Air traffic through Salem during July dropped slightly from June's but was the second highest since the CAA control tower went into operation in late February, Stanley Dilatush, chief traffic controller, announced Monday.

Bulk of the activity was by local civilian planes, which made 4,038 flights. Following were 1,305 civilian itinerant (non-local), 352 air carriers (UAL), 60 army itinerant and 36 navy itinerant.

Navy flights are expected to increase considerably during August with commissioning of the navy air reserve facility and volunteer unit here Friday.

Dilatush said the tower expects to receive by Thursday a loaned 278-kilocycle transmitter from the navy and hopes to have it installed by Friday so it can contact the navy aircraft in for the commissioning ceremonies. Added to the tower's present 118.3-megacycle transmitter, it will enable radio contact with any plane's equipment, he said.

Filbert Worm Dust, Spray Needed Again

The second spray or dust for filbert worm control should be applied before August 4, according to Dr. B. G. Thompson, entomologist at Oregon State college. Thompson reports heavy moth emergence and egg laying on July 27-28. Since filbert moth eggs hatch in about eight days, August 4 is the deadline for spraying or dusting to kill the larvae before they enter the filberts. The same materials as used in the first spray or dust are recommended. For spraying, growers may use either three pounds lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water or two pounds of 50 per cent wettable DDT to 100 gallons of water.

For growers following a dust program, a 40 per cent lead arsenate or a 5 per cent DDT dust applied at the rate of 40 to 50 pounds per acre is recommended. Where DDT is used, it is suggested that the ground beneath the trees be well sprayed or dusted also. Regardless of what insecticide is used, thoroughness of application is necessary. Thompson reminds growers that the only feeding done by the larvae before they enter the nuts is on the undersides of the leaves.

A combination spray is recommended for those growers having a worm and blight problem. The recommended spray consists of Bordeaux mixture 6-2-100 (6 pounds of copper sulfate, 2 pounds of quick (caustic) lime or 3 pounds of hydrated lime, and 100 gallons of water) plus lead arsenate (3 pounds in 100 gallons of spray) plus an efficient, compatible spreader-sticker. The combination spray is based on experimental work carried on by Dr. P. W. Miller, plant pathologist of the U. S. department of agriculture, and Thompson.
