Bus Routes, Registration Data For Salem Schools Revealed

School bells will be ringing all over Salem just two weeks from today, marking an unofficial end to summer for both students and teachers.

Superintendent Frank B. Bennett has released the following information regarding registration and school buses which will run beginning September 12 on all regular routes.

Elementary students will be required to report at their respective schools Friday, September 9, at 9 a.m. for a short registration period. At this registration, children will be given lists of supplies to purchase before Monday morning.

Elementary buses will pick up students before 9 a.m. and will make return runs at 10 a.m.

Children entering the first grade must present a birth certificate or other evidence of age. Children will be eligible for first grade enrollment if they will have reached their sixth birthday by this November 15.

Registration Dates

Junior high pupils new to Salem should register at their respective schools between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. from August 29 to September 9. Junior high students will not be assigned lockers nor will fees be received before September 12 so it will be unnecessary for junior high students, except those new to Salem, to contact the school before this date. Supplies needed for the first day of classes will be a pencil and notebook.

New senior high school students also should register before September 12. Student body fees and locker fees may be paid before the opening of classes by calling at the school building between August 29 and September 9.

To Eliminate Routes

Construction of new Washington and Lincoln schools this year will eliminate elementary bus routes in the Capitola and Four Corners areas. Children living east of Rickey school will be transported to Lincoln school at Four Corners.

Bush, Liberty and all junior and senior high school routes will be similar to last year.

Children living north of the penitentiary railroad, west of and along Hawthorne and Rose avenues, as far north as D street, and west of but not including Rose avenue, north of D street to Market street, and as far west as and including both sides of Park avenue, will be transported to the Lincoln school.

First stop of the route will be at Market and Park streets. The bus will go south on Park to Center, east to Hawthorne, and south to Monroe, making its last pick-up at Hawthorne and Monroe. Children north of this area between Market and Sunnyview, normally will walk to the new Washington school.

New Route to Pringle

A new route to Pringle school will pick up children in the airport vicinity and go south on Airport road to Boone road. It will turn west on Boone road and south on the second road west of the railroad, pick up the children of Pleasant Point area and then horth to Pringle and Salem.

All children, regardless of previous registration, should attend the school in the district in which they now reside. If there are requests for transfers to other schools, and reasons which justify such change, or if transfers are necessary between buildings to equalize loads, these will be made after the opening of school when enrollments are known.

Sen. Anderson Opens Battle To Defeat Taft

HAMILTON, Ohio, Aug. 28—(AP)—Senator Anderson (D-NM) today ridiculed GOP barbs of "welfare state" and "statism" hurled at the Truman administration in opening a democratic drive to defeat Senate Taft (R-Ohio) in the 1950 elections.

Firing the first salvo next door to Taft's home county of Hamilton at a party rally at Lesourdsville Lake, north of here, Anderson denied in his prepared speech that Americans have lost any of their liberties under President Truman.

He said the president looks forward with hope to election in 1950 "sufficient numbers" to carry out every part of his legislative program then he added with an apparent reference to Taft:

"He (Mr. Truman) sees possibilities in many states, and while I would not want to tell any secrets, I can tell you in the bosom of the family that his eyes twinkle when he surveys the prospects in the state of Ohio.

"We will enter the 1950 campaign," said Anderson, chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee, "in the best shape the democratic party has experienced throughout its long history. We have strong candidates and effective issues, and we are ready for the fight."

Car Flips End Over End, But No One Hurt

Five persons escaped injury just south of Salem Sunday night in a two-car crash which a witness termed "very spectacular." It happened in the 3500 block of South Commercial street at 9 p.m.

All occupants were dismissed from Salem Memorial hospital following an examination. They were Lee Richardson and Shirley Moore, both of 225 Chemeketa st., Leona Kowitz, 1120 Rural ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Goudy of Albany.

Goudy and Richardson were the drivers, according to state police. Both were headed south. H. E. Reeves, who witnessed and reported the accident, said the Goudy car flipped end over end. It landed on its side in the ditch headed north. Several cases of fruit jars in the back seat added to the clatter which Guy Flagg, 685 E. Ewald st., said brought him running from his home three blocks away.

Reeves, proprietor of the Tip Top motel, directed traffic until state police arrived. Flow of cars on 99-E was slowed for 25 minutes after the wreck.

Group Calls China Paper 'Propaganda'

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—The American China Policy association today described the recent state department China white paper as a "propaganda document designed to obscure our total military and political disaster in the Pacific."

Alfred Kohlberg, chairman of the association's board, termed the white paper an effort to "bolster a weak cause rather than the presentation of a complete story."

Kohlberg, an importer of textiles from China, is publisher of the magazine "Plain Talk."

Calls on Truman

The association, in a statement voted by its board of directors at a meeting here August 18 and made public today, called on President Truman to appoint a commission of "informed Americans" to place the blame for past failures in China policy and "recommend a new and constructive policy."

The statement declared:

"In an attempt to whitewash the state department failure, the white paper stoops to an incomplete, misleading and partly untruthful presentation.

'Not Too Late'

"It is most important for Americans to realize that it is not too late in China. The white paper's stab in the back does not close but opens the question: How best to accomplish American security in the Pacific."

Woman Killed In 99W Crash

NEWBERG, Aug. 28—(AP)—Mrs. Ralph H. Burdick, 60, Sherwood, was fatally injured and her husband and three other persons in a second car were injured early today on highway 99W south of here.

Ralph Burdick, also 60, was listed at the General hospital here as in serious condition. He suffered broken ribs and internal injuries. His wife died five hours after the mishap.

State Patrolman Marvin Bazzel said the Burdick car was turning off the highway into a service station when struck by another driven by Mrs. June Emery, whose husband and 19-month-old son were also in the car. They suffered minor hurts.

Playground Program Ends

Salem's summer playground program, sponsored by the city and schools, ended Friday with picnics at all neighborhood playgrounds and at Olinger and Leslie fields.

Attendance figures have not been compiled, but Vernon Gilmore, playground director, believes figures will show a slight drop compared to last year, when more than 70,000 participated in the program.

Attendance during the first four weeks of the program were running slightly above last year but participation at Olinger field fell off during the last three weeks which may account for the estimated drop.

Children to Find Fairyland at State Fair

Oregon children visiting this year's state fair here in Salem will find a fairyland all their own peopled with all the imaginary characters to be found in story books. Above, 6-year-old Sharon Gresham, whose home is on Silverton road near the fairgrounds, admires little Boy Blue while some of Mary's lambs look on coyly. The colorfully painted fairyland characters will adorn the gates and decorate the grounds of the special children's park at the fair located between the horse pavillion and the stadium. The fair opens Labor day, September 5. (Statesman photo.)

Carolinas Feel Swift Remains Of Hurricane

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 28—(AP)—High winds and torrential rains — remains of the furious multi-million dollar hurricane — battered the Carolinas today.

The rain sent some streams out of their banks and caused a few lowland residents to be evacuated. The wind uprooted trees, broke store windows, tore shingles from roofs, and put power and communications lines out of order. Tides were higher than usual along the Georgia-Carolina coastline, but not as high as expected and damage was neglibible.

While gales up to 60 miles an hour lashed Carolina cities, the once giant hurricane — which cost Florida millions of dollars in damage — blew itself out crossing the central piedmont section of the two states.

Floods appeared limited to smaller streams and their frequently-inundated lowlands. But Raliegh, N. C., Weatherman Garrett DeMots said it was too early to determine the effect of the heavy rains on the larger North Carolina rivers.

Lumberton, N. C., and Florence, S. C., reported guest of 60 miles an hour, but damage was limited to broken trees. Greensboro, N. C., had a recording of 58 miles an hour without damage to the city. At Charleston, S. C., a 55-miles wind pulled trees from the sandy soil, tore down power lines and piled a choppy sea into the streets in the bay area.

But the wind generally had dropped to 30-35 miles an hour by nightfall.

Town Okehs Plan to Spend Inheritance

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., Aug. 28—(AP)—A mass meeting of 200 citizens today unanimously approved a plan for spending the town's $1,320,000 inheritance.

The program, worked out by the Perryopolis community planning association, calls for immediate circulation of petitions to incorporate the little community of 1500 as a borough, and the eventual expenditure of $650,000 for improvements.

The money was left the town a year ago by Mrs. Mary Fuller Frazier of Philadelphia, a former resident. She specified half the money was to be used for public improvements and the rest to tain those improvements.

Under the present plan, it may be almost a year before actual construction of the improvements begin since the Fayette county court will not receive the incorporation petition before December. An election must be held once the petition has been granted.

The porjects involved include $250,000 for an educational center, $50,000 for a municipal building, $250,000 for a sewage disposal and water system, $82,000 for streets and highways, $10,000 for street lights and $18,000 for shade trees and parks.

Navy Vets Paint Widow's House

PORTLAND, Aug. 28—(AP)—Navy veterans pitched in today and painted the white bungalow of a widow of a servicemate in two hours and 35 minutes.

Wielding the paint brushes were nine members of the Fleet Reserve association, veterans of 16 or more years of navy duty. The five room home belongs to Mrs. Helen Howe.

Russ Restore Citizenship to Former Nazis

BERLIN, Aug. 28—(AP)—The Russians have restored full citizenship to all former nazis in eastern Berlin except a few known war criminals.

This was disclosed today by the soviet-licensed national Zeitung, a newspaper that appeals frankly to one-time followers of the nazi party philosophy.

A decree was issued, saying:

"All members of the nazi party and its organizations who did not commit any war crimes are given their political rights and their citizenship."

C of C Urges Economy in Government

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(AP)—The United States chamber of commerce today urged its 2,500 member organizations across the country to "demand further economies in government" in line with recommendations of the Hoover commission on reorganization.

The stand was set forth in a letter from Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the national chamber, to Louis A. Johnson applauding cutbacks in defense spending.

The business executive's statements were touched off by Johnson's announcement that he will reduce defense spending $433,968,611 this year by closing various military installations and by other cutbacks. This was in line with senate appropriation committee recommendations.

Many communities and various congressmen subsequently expressed displeasure with the action. In this connection, the chamber president asserted:

"Every reduction in payrolls or other expenditure items affects adversely individuals and communities. Such results must be balanced in the national interest against a lightening of the burden of the taxpayer and a strengthening of the financial position of the government."

Falling Bricks Fail To Move Barflies

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)—It takes more than a storm to dispel the calm in Duffy's Tavern.

Last night a squall blew down a brick coping over the front window of Thomas Duffy's place. Police looked in to see if anyone was hurt.

"Why, we heard some bricks smash," Duffy told them, "but nobody's left the bar yet to have a look."

Truman Calls Demos to Talk Over Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—A direct movement by President Truman to end a feud among his democratic advisers on farm programs was disclosed today by Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla).

Thomas, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, told a reporter that the president has invited "quite a group of us down to the White House Wednesday to talk over the farm legislation."

It was learned that those invited in addition to Thomas include Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the house agriculture committee, Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D-ILL) and Senator Anderson (D-NM).

Threat of Veto

"I hope the president tells us exactly what he wants for a farm program next year," Thomas said. "If he does that I'll certainly support it. It would be silly to do anything else because he certainly would veto it."

Thomas, alone among the 13-member senate agriculture committee, has been plugging publicly for another year of the rigid, high-level price supports already voted by the house.

Favors Supports

"But I'm going to be for the president's recommendations because I'm sure he's for high supports just as I am," Thomas said. "We've had too many farm plans to deal with. We have the Brannan plan, the Gore plan, the Anderson plan and the Aiken act."

The administration is behind the Brannan plan but events have shown it has no chance in this session.

Inclusion of Lucas and Anderson, former secretary of agriculture under President Truman, assured presence of at least two supporters for a compromise, flexible-price support bill now pending before the senate agriculture committee.

Prominent U.S. Doctor Dies

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 28—(AP)—Dr. Irvin Abell, 72, Louisville surgeon of national prominence, died of a heart attack while on a fishing trip in Ontario, Canada, today, according to word received here by his family.

Dr. Abell had been president of nearly every major medical organization in the nation, including the American medical association (1938-39), American gastroenterological association (1939-40) and the American college of surgeons (1946-47).

Catholic Archbishop Of Albania Deposed

LONDON, Aug. 28—(AP)—The Tirana radio said today the Orthodox Catholic Archbishop of Albania had been deposed by the church's ruling body.

The broadcast, recorded in London by teleradio, said a Holy Synod convicted Archbishop Christopher Kissi of activity "detrimental to the Albanian Orthodox church and interests of the Albanian people."

Senate Fight On Arms Aid Near Climax

By Max Boyd

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—The senate fight over the administration's big arms aid program stepped up in intensity today with two major committees aiming at a showdown vote by midweek.

The foreign relations and armed services committees will have another go tomorrow at proposals for two major changes in program which calls for $1,450,000,000 cash plus sending surplus arms to strengthen other nations against any Russian aggression.

The two proposals involve a fight led by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), for a $160,990,000 slash in the bill's $1,160,990,000 military help for European members of the Atlantic alliance; and an amendment by Senator Knowland (R-Calif) to mark non-communist China in for assistance.

In Opposition

Chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the armed services group came out today in opposition to the Vandenberg amendment. The biggest part of the cut Vandenberg wants would be $155,000,000 that President Truman is asking to step up arms production in western Europe.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff has testified this amount will enable pact members to retool existing factories and produce more than $700,000,000 of arms.

Defends Project

In a radio broadcast (WBAL, Baltimore), Tydings defended this project. He said it is designed "primarily to help these western European countries obtain the means, the tools and the raw materials in some cases, to manufacture their own weapons, small parts and ammunition."

"Without this," Tydings said, "we would have to do pretty much all of it ourselves. We cannot go on forever furnishing arms in large quantities, even to our friends."

Republican Leader Wherry (Neb) reiterated his opposition to the whole present program in a prepared radio speech.

Should be Delayed

Wherry, who has announced he will vote against the arms bill, contended it should be delayed until the defense council contemplated under the Atlantic alliance is formed and makes recommendations for an overall program. He said he is opposed to "piece-meal scattering of arms and armaments among treaty countries."

Another republican, Senator Morse (Ore), a member of the armed services committee, endorsed the arms aid plan in a radio interview.

Morse said he intends to vote "for whatever the facts show are necessary" to provide military help for the pact nations until the defense council can organize and make recommendations.

Qualifies Stand

However, Morse said that tentatively he feels Vandenberg is right in saying that "we do not need, for that interim period, the total amount of funds, or the total amount of implementation, provided for in the administration bill." Morse did not say which items he might favor cutting.

Morse added that if senate debate shows the full amount is needed he is going to vote for it. He said that "we cannot afford, from the standpoint of the security of the American people, to let our allies in Europe face the Russian border without adequate military implementation to meet an immediate aggression."

Finds First 100 Years Hardest

MT. HOLLY, N.J., Aug. 28—(AP) Mrs. Henriette C. Sargent celebrated her 102nd birthday today and said she felt even better than when she measured her age in only two figures.

"I feel better now than at 99," she said.

She expects, she said, to reach 105.

Sports

Portland Pair Wins Best Ball

PORTLAND, Aug. 28—(AP)—Allan MacAllister and Ben Hughes paired up today to score a 13-under-par 131 at Riverside and win the 36-hole annual Oregon best ball golf championships.

Hughes, a public links player, had eight birdies and MacAllister, of Waverly club, added five more to slash their total below the regulation figures. The doubled no birdies in their performance.

Their score was 67-64—131. It was three strokes better than second place winners Cliff Smith and Matt Hatala.

Other scores included: Jack Brande and Jack Owens, Salem, 72-70—142— (2) —140. Charles Kindred and Don Zeigler, Corvallis, 72-70—142—(5)—137.

Chinese Reds Launch New Thrust in North

By Spencer Moosa

CANTON, Monday, Aug. 29—(AP)—Communist forces thrust to Jucheng today in a new threat to Canton 170 miles away to the north.

The Nationalist defense ministry said the reds captured Kweitung in southeastern Hunan province and drove to the outskirts of Jucheng, only about six miles from the border of Kwangtung where this refugee capital is situated.

Jucheng is only 45 miles from Kuchong, gateway to Canton on the Canton-Hankow railway 125 miles to the north.

The Nationalists were disheartened meanwhile by the red capture of Lanchow in the distant northwest.

Loss of Lanchow, capital of Kansu province, was acknowledged officially, and private foreign reports said the reds were pushing on rapilly westward in a full-scale drive towards Sining, capital of Tsinghai province. Sining is 110 miles from Lanchow.

This defeat came as a blow to Canton, for the moslem armies in the northwest had been counted upon as a main hope of continuing Nationalist resistance to the reds.

Two Drown In Snake River

HOME, Ore., August 28 —(AP)— Search of the Snake river continued today for the bodies of a Portland man and a young Huntington mother who drowned while crossing the river during a picnic outing near here.

State Policeman F. M. Woll identified the victims as Clyde Boylan, about 50, Portland, and Mrs. George Morton, 20, Huntington. He said they were lost in the current Friday evening when a boat run by Eric West, Weiser, Ida., tipped as the passengers stood up in midstream.

West attempted to save the woman, but passed out just as he reached the shore with her on his back and when he recovered she was missing.

Other members of the picnic party from a ranch near here had already been transported to the Oregon side of the river. Mrs. Morton is survived by her husband and two daughters, age three and one.
