

Efforts to End Hawaii Dock Strike Recess

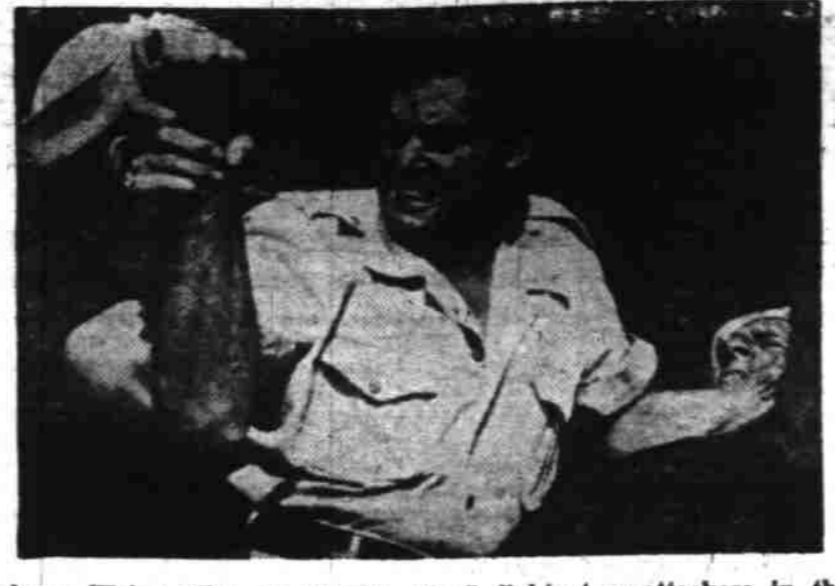

By Ed Creagh
NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Efforts to end Hawaii's 133-day-old dock strike were called off tonight for the week-end, with all sides reporting no progress toward a settlement.
Cyrus Ching, director of the federal conciliation and mediation service, announced that union and employer representatives would meet with him again at 9:30 a.m. (EST) Monday.
After four days of intensive probing of the issues in the strike, which involves 2,000 dock workers and has dealt Hawaii's economy a severe blow, there were these estimates of the situation:
Ching: "They're as far apart as when they came here last Wednesday."

Harry Bridges, president of the CIO international longshoremen and warehousemen union, "the attitude of the employers on wage and other questions offers absolutely no possibility of a settlement."

W. Russell Starr, spokesman for the Hawaiian employers council: "We have made no progress despite efforts by all concerned."
Bridges made several wage proposals of an undisclosed nature in a separate meeting with Ching today.
The employer negotiators took them to the Plaza hotel, where they are staying, to consider them over Sunday.
Plainly wearied by the hours of talking, the 73-year-old Ching said with a wry smile that he was going to the zoo.
"With no reflection on any of the people I've been talking with," he said, "I am just a little tired of the human race."
He did not say how long the talks might continue next week.
Bridges went all-out for arbitration today.
He said he might ease his wage demands if the employers would agree to arbitrating other differences with the union. But he made it clear that he is determined to get a good settlement.

Flegel Aims Blast at Liquor Control Board

PORTLAND, Sept. 10—(AP)—State Senator Austin F. Flegel of Portland today criticized the liquor control commission for what he said was a relaxation of its rules concerning employees accepting gifts from liquor firms.
It was a renewal of earlier criticisms of a Chicago junket made by four commission aides for which the Seagram distilleries paid the expenses.
The vice chairman of the state senate committee on alcoholic traffic said the state commission rules prior to July 16 forbid employees from accepting any gratuity, sample or entertainment under penalty of dismissal. Flegel said the manufacturers or distributors were also subject to loss of their license for offering such considerations. Since July 16, Flegel said, the new rules contain no prohibition against the acceptance by store employees of samples, gratuities, entertainment or other consideration. He said only the manufacturers were under penalty.
"Can any reasonable person," he asked, "believe that the Seagram company went to such great expense . . . without intending that the expenditure would further the sale of its brands of whiskey?" He added "this is a matter which cannot be brushed off with the statement that the commission fails to see where the public has been injured."

Britain's Women Outlive Men 2-1

LONDON—(AP)—A woman's chances of living to be 80 are twice as good as a man's in Britain. Statistics taken from the latest population report, the registrar-general's return for the quarter ended March 31, 1949, give this picture:
In the age group 20 to 40 the sexes run neck and neck. There are 6,564,000 men and 6,541,000 women, including those in the armed forces. But at 40 the women start to run ahead. And from 60 onwards the "weaker" sex outnumber the males by a million—3,906,000 to 2,910,000.
It's in the 80 and upwards group, however, that the ladies really hit their stride. They number 412,000, while the most the old gets can muster are 228,000. The return also showed a decrease in the British infant mortality rate to 40 per thousand live births. The rate was 41 in the corresponding period a year ago and an average of 64 for the first quarters of the previous ten years.

Army Retires '5 Percenter' General Waitt

By Francis J. Kelly
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—One of two major generals suspended in the senate's "five percenter" probe is being retired, and the other restored to his command the army said today.
Retired: Alden H. Waitt, 56, under suspension since July 16 as chief of the army's chemical corps.
Restored to duty: Herman Feldman, 57, quartermaster general of the army. He was suspended the same day as Waitt.
In announcing the decision, Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray spoke of "irregular actions" by Waitt and "errors of judgment" by Feldman.
No Further Lapses
Gray noted that both officers have devoted the major portion of their lives to the army. But he said, he had decided it would not be to the best interests of the service to retain waitt as head of the chemical corps. On the other hand, he said that talks with Feldman had convinced him there would be no further lapses of judgment by the quartermaster general, and he was "gratified" to be able to order him back to his old post.
Technically, Waitt also was restored to active duty. But Gray immediately approved Waitt's application for retirement, at his present rank.
Resumes Command
Feldman resumed command as quartermaster general today.
Gray suspended the two generals eight weeks ago today subject to investigation, shortly after a senate subcommittee began inquiring into activities of "five percenters" — persons who undertake to get government contracts for others and charge a fee for doing it, often 5 per cent of the gross.
Gray said at that time that the senate committee had "evidence which indicates that Gen. Waitt improperly furnished personnel data to an individual not in the military service and who was not entitled to receive such data; and that Gen. Feldman furnished to a contractor's representative procurement information under circumstances which appear irregular."

Dog Tales

BY TOM FARLEY

Perhaps the questions that are most often asked of a dog writer are what he considers the smartest breed and whether pure bred or cross bred dogs are brighter. Neither question is one that can be arbitrarily answered. Every breed of dog has its intellectuals just as every nationality or race of humans. And so far as crossing the breeds goes, there is no reason to think that any grey matter is either gained or lost in the process.
Joe Gangler, who is well known in many cities in the East though his one-man circus has its headquarters in Brooklyn, N. Y., helps to prove the point. His "talking dog" that adds and subtracts is a Great Dane — and a big one. Mr. Gangler says that he eats up 12 cans of food at one meal. On the other hand, his first three dogs were two French Poodles and a Spitz and it was on these dogs that the fame of the act was originally built.
Nor does Mr. Gangler limit his troupe to pure bred dogs. "I have some mongrels I wouldn't sell for any price," he says. "I wouldn't take $300 for Lucky. That dog does a complete side-wheeler — he jumps into the air and throws his four feet around."
And if another breed needs to be mentioned, there is the story recently published in the Philadelphia, Penn., Daily Journal, about Gloria, a Dachshund that is building up a bank account by baby sitting.
It appears that Gloria, according to her mistress, Mrs. R. B. Rickard of Philadelphia, took the arrival of a son in the family very seriously and appointed herself guardian. When Mrs. Rickard discovered that the dog was willing to take responsibility, she put her on a stipend of a penny an hour. For this she acts as sitter and will even do her best to amuse the lad when he grows restless. When all else fails, she barks shrilly for help from Mrs. Rickard, who can hear her son's cry.
The policy of putting a penny in the bank for each hour Gloria tends the baby has resulted in the accumulation of $4.84. From time to time, the money has been transferred from the home piggy bank to the savings bank where an account was opened in her own name with Mrs. Rickard as trust officer.
In addition to just "sitting", Gloria teams up with another Dachshund owned by the Rickards to provide pulling power. Last year they pulled the baby's carriage and this year they pull his stroller and wagon.
Needless to say, he likes it.

Hearing Set on Cattle Testing

Testing of cattle in Marion county will be discussed Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in the county courthouse by Marion county court and the county livestock disease control committee.
The committee recommended to the court recently that two additional veterinarians be brought into this country for purposes of testing for Bangs diseases and tuberculosis. The committee also has asked that the county be divided into districts and each veterinarian be assigned a section.

Bee Flight Mapped Enroute to Honey

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—Rimsky Korakoff, the Russian composer, put the flight of the bumble bee to music, but a Cornell graduate from India has mapped for the first time the actual flight of the honey bee.
Sardar Singh, who is now back in his native India, determined many behavior characteristics of bees by marking them with "touch-up" paint. With the aid of bright hues, Singh was able to follow the bees during their foraging visits and to plot their progress as they went.
When Singh made his "bee line" depicting the travel of a worker, the final picture resembled a jumbled criss-cross pattern of scores of short lines, broken by dots where the insect stopped for a visit.
