Frozen Food Counter Yields Wide Variety of Ready to Cook Specialties

The frosted glass counter at the grocer's looks quite different than it used to look a few years ago, when we hid and hid over a few pounds of frozen strawberries and a half dozen ears of corn.

Now you can just about pick yourself out a meal from the freezer—but there's more to come, they tell us.

Much of our frozen food is prepared locally, it's become quite an industry.

Chickens now come in several forms, there are frozen fryers, stewers and ready prepared fricasee or a la king. There are chicken pies, too. Though the frozen chickens are a convenience, better look at the prices of the frozen and fresh before purchasing if you intend to use them up right away. The frozen ones are a bit costlier.

I found frozen smelt at one of the shops, along with several other varieties of fish. The smelt were the Columbia river variety.

Vegetables of course are found in many varieties, the product improves each year. Fruits, too are good. Fruit juices, both orange and lemon, have taken their places among the popular items in the freezer. French fried potatoes are handy.

Desserts ready prepared have appeared in increasing amounts in the past year. We find fruit pies, and also a fancy ice cream roll with a sort of jelly roll look only with ice cream as a filling.

Some stores have cheese pies and others. We've seen ready to cook biscuits and many other new things in the counters, including one of the newest, the ready made hamburger cake. Chip steaks have been in for some time.

Look at the counter every time you go in, even if you don't intend to buy, it's good inspiration for a menu.

On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Who should precede when a man and a woman are entering a restaurant, and no waiter is around?

A. The man should precede and choose the table. If a waiter is present to assign the table, the woman should follow the waiter, the man last.

Q. How should a divorcee sign her name if she retains her ex-husband's surname?

A. She should use the surname of her former husband, prefixing her maiden name, as, "Helen Smith Johnson."

Q. Should one spread out the elbows when cutting meat?

A. No; the elbows should be kept close to the body.

Czechs Spread Film Propaganda

PRAGUE—(AP)—After an all-Czech jury awarded Russia most of the major prizes at an International Film festival recently, these films were taken on tour throughout the country to be shown to workers' festivals.

They were represented—in the words of the Czech Communist Partyorgan "Rude Pravo" (Red Right)—as "Real progressive art which shows up the bankruptcy, perversity and disgustingly cheap sentimentality of Hollywood and other bourgeois productions."

Besides dispensing pro-Russian propaganda, the Czech government also collected some old rags, bottles and bones to aid its materials-short industry. Children were let in to see the pictures by contributing such salvage materials.

Building New to Hollywood

New Finance Firm Opens In Hollywood

A new business building in the Hollywood district, recently erected, now houses the Hollywood Finance Co. on the south side of the Hollywood bank.

The finance company is managed and operated by Floyd Kenyon. The building, located at 1980 Fairgrounds rd., is owned by Lee Eyerly, and is of the same type as the bank building. A 35-car parking lot will adjoin the finance company's building, and will offer free parking to Floyd Kenyon Hollywood district shoppers.

Kenyon has long been associated with finance businesses, both here in Salem and other cities. He started in the personal loan business in 1930 at Portland, then was located in Salt Lake City and Denver. In 1938 Kenyon came to Salem and was employed by the State Finance Co. until 1947 when he became assistant general manager at the C. L. Shrock Motor Co., remaining in that position until March of this year.

He then organized the Hollywood Finance Co., first located at 1981 Fairgrounds rd.

Trafalgar Veteran Battleship Doomed

LONDON—(AP)—One of the two surviving ships that fought in the battle of Trafalgar—the old wooden wall "Implicable"—is to be sunk. This will leave only the "Victory," Lord Nelson's flagship during this great battle with Napoleon's navy. The Victory is preserved in a drydock at the Portsmouth navy yard.

The admiralty said no definite date for the sinking of the "Implicable" has been set up but the old ship is to be taken down the English Channel and sunk in Hurd Deep, off Alderney in the Channel Islands. Much was done to try to preserve this link with a glorious episode in British naval history, the admiralty said, but it was found impracticable to save her. The cost of making her shipshape was estimated at $800,000.

Ant Eater Proves Plumber's Friend

SCOTTSDALE, Tasmania—(AP)—The usual tools were useless to clear a length of 8-inch pipe clogged with dirt by rains. But the job got done in 15 minutes when a spiny ant eater, usually mislabeled the Echidna was persuaded to enter the pipe.

It is one of the world's two egg-laying mammals, the other being the platypus. These two are the world's most primitive furred animals. With its sticky claws the spiny ant-eater can burrow with remarkable speed—even straight down, in hard earth.

Nationalizing In Australia Fails to Gain

SYDNEY—(AP)—Australia's Labor government is doing little about nationalization. It hasn't the power. The Australian constitution says: "Trade, commerce, and intercourse among the states, whether by means of internal carriage or ocean navigation, shall be absolutely free."

That sentence, in Section 92, has been the wrecker of Labor Party dreams of nationalization. There have been 40 high court cases and two privy council cases in which judges and lords have decided how section 92 applies in certain cases.

Today the general legal view is that Section 92 cuts right across plans for nationalization—transport, banks, coal mines, breweries, or almost anything else that has business in more than one state. Latest defeat of a nationalization plan was in the Banking case. The privy council, in London, ruled the Australian government has NO power to make a law to nationalize private trading banks.
